Lancaster County agriculture excels

By DIETER KRIEG

LANCASTER — If there were an Olympics for agriculture, Lancaster County would come away with a bushelful of gold medals. Last year, for example, farmers from the renowned Garden Spot ranked first in 11 of 19 production categories and they produced a whopping $335 million worth of agricultural goods.

Among the first-place rankings scored by Lancaster County are livestock, poultry and poultry products, dairy products, cattle, calves and hogs. In figures released by the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service, crop values for Lancaster County dropped last year due to lower yields and lower paying prices. Still, the overall value of Lancaster County's farm crops was a cool $84,439,000.

In livestock production, Lancaster County farmers came out ahead of figures for the preceding year, largely due to higher prices and increased numbers. The total value was estimated to be nearly $251 million. Dairy cows increased from 73,500 in 1974 to 81,200 last year, and the value of dairy products jumped about $11 million to $83,375,000. There are 1975 dairy farms in Lancaster County. Similar increases were recorded elsewhere on the farm — and not just in Lancaster County, but in many areas throughout the state.

Increases in number and value were also recorded in Lancaster County for poultry broilers and hogs. A

Another fair season starting

Another Lancaster County fair season begins this coming week when the 27th annual fair in Quarryville opens its show rings and exhibit halls on Wednesday. With a third new building on hand to supplement the two which were built last year, the affair is expected to be even bigger and better than ever before.

Please turn to pages 62 to 67 for additional details on the Southern Lancaster County Community Fair, which is unrivalled as the biggest in the area.

Lancaster County's agriculture will be enthusiastically displayed at the upcoming fairs, and there's a lot these farmers can rightfully "show off" as the article just above this one indicates. Lancaster County is one of the most productive of all counties in

Exclusive weather service considered

QUARRYVILLE - Lancaster County may receive a special weather forecasting service for farmers, beginning early next year, it was reported recently in a joint statement issued by Robert S. Walker, Republican candidate for Congress, from the 16th District and Noah W. Wenger, Republican candidate for the State Legislature in the 99th Legislative District. The two made the announcement at the Lancaster County Farmers Association picnic, held here last month at the fairgrounds.

In having chosen Lancaster County as the site for this unique service, officials in Washington went with the nations's No. 1 agricultural county among those which

Lancaster Grain Prices

Thursday, Sept. 10

These prices are made up of the average prices quoted by a number of participating area feed and grain concerns. It should be noted, however, that not every dealer or broker handles each commodity. All prices are per bushel except ear corn and soybean meal which are per ton.

The average prices quoted Thursday, Sept. 10, are as follows:

	Bid+	Offered+
Ear Corn	85.00	94.00
Shelled Corn	2.95	3.18
Barley	2.10	2.22½
Oats
Local	1.52½	1.77½
Western	1.94½	2.16
Wheat	2.89	3.10
Soybeans	6.92	——
Soybean Meal		237.50

+Bid is the price the dealer will buy from the farmer delivered to the mill. Sell is the price the dealer will sell for at his mill.

Carroll Barton, MCI sales rep., admiring a dozen eggs (held by Bob) typical of those winning four consecutive blue ribbons (displayed by Glen) at the Penna. State Farm Show.

Bob comments on their choice of Moyer's DEKALB: "A majority of our eggs are retailed through our own fruit market and other direct farm outlets. We must have a good quality, large egg. We've come to expect this from the 137 layer we've been purchasing from Moyer's over the past 10 years. We also like to see those production peaks into the 90 percent range!"

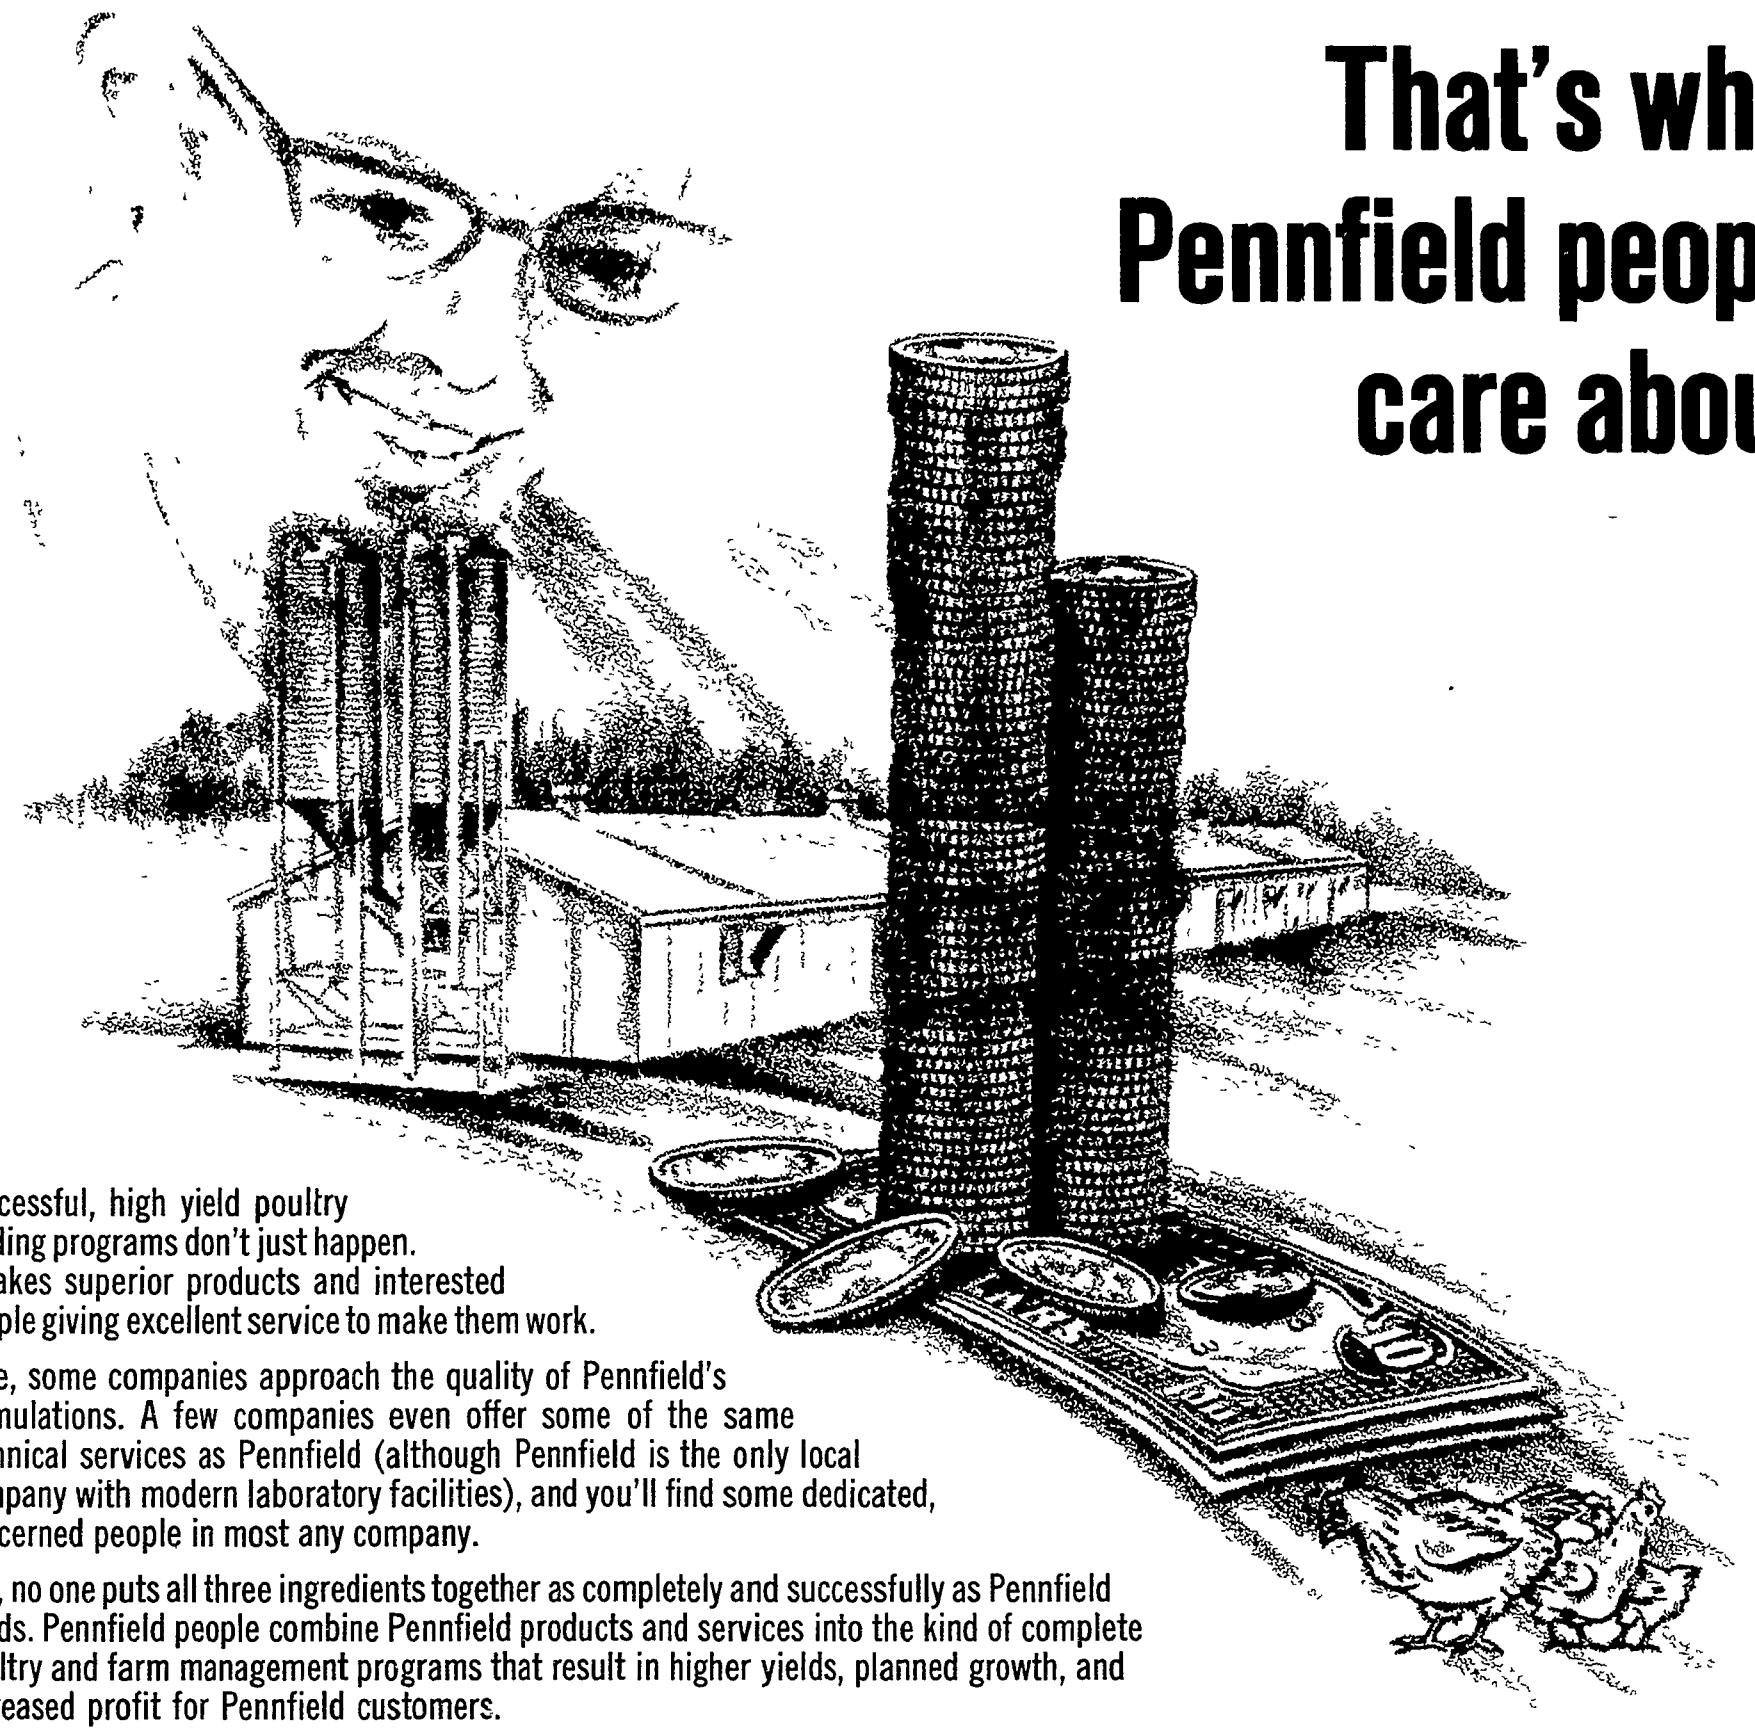
Your POULTRY PRODUCTIVITY, your PROFITABILITY.



That's what Pennfield people care about.

Successful, high yield poultry feeding programs don't just happen. It takes superior products and interested people giving excellent service to make them work.

Sure, some companies approach the quality of Pennfield's formulations. A few companies even offer some of the same technical services as Pennfield (although Pennfield is the only local company with modern laboratory facilities), and you'll find some dedicated, concerned people in most any company.

But, no one puts all three ingredients together as completely and successfully as Pennfield Feeds. Pennfield people combine Pennfield products and services into the kind of complete poultry and farm management programs that result in higher yields, planned growth, and increased profit for Pennfield customers.

Chemists, nutritionists, production personnel, veterinarians, computer technicians, business and marketing analysts, deliverymen, quality control specialists, financial experts, and more . . . led by your Pennfield Area Manager who can put them all together to develop and service a customized, profit-oriented program for you. These are Pennfield people. And, Pennfield people make Pennfield Feeds a better buy.

Ask the Old Farmer. I would like to know how salt gets into the seas' salt water? W C D, Beaver Falls, Pa

Nobody really knows Some say there are huge salt deposits under the sea-bottom Others claim that any water that lacks sufficient flow of fresh from springs will become salty after a while But all agree that sea water produces life because it is so much like blood in various ways and thus they say that God arranged it that way for His own particular purposes We have to be content with that answer

Omaha Cattle

Sept. 9 USDA

Closing prices on slaughter steers and heifers were firm to 25 cents higher, instances 50 cents higher on steers. Cows were 50-1.25 higher, bulls weak to 1.00 lower.

Three day receipts 13,800 as compared 17,900 previous week and 16,100 a year ago. For the third successive week, the fed cattle trade followed a relatively stable course with only minor day-to-day price variations. Supplies were fairly liberal, but demand was generally good following the Labor Day holiday and marketings were well distributed over the shortened trading period. The firm live trade was supported by mild upturns in carcass trading at the wholesale level but prices there were also the most stable in some time. The overall finish was again attractive with a liberal percentage Choice and only a few loads 3-5 1250-1400 L Steers.

Slaughter Steers made up approximately 36 per cent of the weeks run and heifers 38 per cent. Cows comprised 10 per cent and feeders 15 per cent.

Declare Your Independence Guarantee Your Market

We at Producers Pride aren't trying to start any revolutions. But if you're an independent egg producer—or if you'd like to be—we can help you get the kind of freedom you want without jeopardizing your income.

Producers Pride is a cooperative. It's owned and controlled entirely by producers who want a voice in how their eggs are marketed. We've been in business since 1932. For over 34 years, Producers Pride members have been getting paid every week for their previous week's egg shipments. We have never, ever missed a week.

When you join Producers Pride, you become part owner of the business. And since we're not a giant co-op, your voice as an owner is important.

You'll be joining a small organization—fewer than 200 producers—but we have the volume to service a growing market. And our markets are growing, thanks to the dedicated efforts of a small but hard-working and very capable staff.

We are your friends and neighbors in the egg business. We enjoy being independent, and we enjoy having a guaranteed market for our eggs.

This is the year for independence, and Producers Pride is looking for a few more good members. If you'd like more information, put your John Hancock on the coupon below and mail it.

Pa. tops in mushrooms

HARRISBURG - Pennsylvania led all states in the production of mushrooms with a record total nearly 180 million pounds. The value of sales for the fresh market mushrooms for the 1975-1976 season was $45 million compared to $33 million for the 1974-1975 season. The value of sales for the processed mushrooms for the 1975-1976 season was $60.3 million compared to $45.9 million for the 1974-1975 season.

Production of mushrooms in the United States reached a record high 309.8 million pounds for the year ending June 30, 1976. This topped last year's output of 299.1 million pounds by four per cent, and continued the trend of constant production increases since the survey began in 1966. A total of 25 states are included compared with 28 states the previous crop year. Pennsylvania continues to dominate production with 58 per cent of the Nation's total. During the 1974-1975 crop year Pennsylvania produced 60 per cent of the U.S. mushroom production.

Growers received $191 million for the 1975-1976 crop, up 30 per cent from the 1974-1975 value.

Counting our blessings

I've always had a high level of respect for agriculture . . . and that is probably something which has grown during the past 29 months that I have been off the farm. Viewing farming from within the barnyard and hayfield and now from across the fence gives me a more complete and appreciative picture which is somehow missed otherwise. I'm proud of my farm background and hope to remain close to agriculture for all of my life.

Farmers in Pennsylvania — if not all of America — seem to be especially fortunate with their blessings. Granted, things don't always go as smoothly as we'd like, but for the most part we're surrounded by good fortune. Most other areas on the globe are not as rich in their resources.

Take, for example, the weather. It's not often that we experience a severe drought in this area, and much of the soil is such that a few weeks of no rain will not be noticeably detrimental. And as all farmers are aware, the weather is the most important single factor to make the crops grow and keep the cows fed.

In much of Europe, this year, a severe drought has caused a catastrophe. Due to their location, size, and population density, it hurts them worse than it would have hurt the United States. Some parts of this nation also experienced an unfavorable growing season this year and it will hurt those who are directly affected, but it's not causing a national shortage of any kind, like is developing in England.

Due to its vast amounts of good land stretching from ocean to ocean in a favorable climatic belt, the United States can produce food for all of its people and millions more around the world.

Our blessings don't stop with favorable weather and good soil.

This country's industrial might has allowed it to mechanize like no other country on Earth. We've become more efficient, more productive. Most any farm can be cited as an example of that. Just look at the equipment in the barn or the fancy machinery in the field.

By contrast, look at Russian agriculture, for example. An article in the latest issue of U.S. News and World Report describes what a group of American 4-H'ers found over there. In short, they announced upon returning here, that the Russians are so inefficient that you have to see it to believe it.

There's another blessing to be counted here, in comparison to Russia, the kingpin among communist nations. It is true that the giant Asian nation is not as fortunate as we are in terms of soil and climate, but even more noteworthy than that is the lack of freedom and liberty. The Soviet government has its fingers in everything; free enterprise and private ownership of individual farms is practically unheard of; and decisions are made by dictatorial means with no regard to specific adaptability.

We might complain in this country, but our rights and privileges here are a far cry from what the Soviet farmers have to put up with. Chalk that one up as a special blessing.

American farmers have had the freedom to do as they please for the most part, which has given them incentive and allowed them to be productive. That makes a big difference in any business.

Few spots on Earth have the combinations of blessings which America has — good climate, productive soil, the right to work in what one likes best with only few restrictions as to how, plenty of minerals and fuel for the production of machinery, good institutions for research and engineering, and much more.

In looking around at our good fortune and productivity, praise goes to not just ourselves, but to the Creator who put it all together in the first place.

And it's up to us to live and work in such a way to keep these blessings with us for future generations.

THE HEIR

Lesson for September 12, 1976

Background Scripture: Romans 4:1-25; Galatians 3:19 through 4:7.
Devotional Reading: Romans 3:21-31.

In his search to find a meaningful way of helping followers of Jesus Christ to understand the true nature of their relationship through the Gospel, Paul turned to the analogy of "the heir."

Inheritance was something understood by everyone in his day. Even slaves knew the meaning of being an heir and coveted that relationship that was almost always beyond their grasp.

Under the custodian

For one thing, they knew that an heir who had not yet attained legal maturity was under someone's custodianship. Thus a youth who would some day inherit both rank and possessions would nevertheless be under the custodial care of someone until of legal age. Even if the person of rank and property were to die while the heir was still under legal age, there would be a custodian for the youthful heir.

Paul used this analogy to try to explain the place and purpose of religious law in the life of the Christian. In our spiritual immaturity, the religious law has a function in our lives. It helps to shape and control us while we are yet spiritually immature. But when through the Gospel of Jesus Christ we attain spiritual maturity, then we no longer have a need for the guardian. We discard it, not because it is worthless or wrong, but because we have gone beyond it.

Secondly, it must be apparent that an inheritance is always a gift. Even the legal rights of the heir are his or hers only because that inheritance has been given, not earned. No one ever works themselves into an inheritance. It is always the result of grace.

So, Paul said, it is with us. We are heirs, not because we deserve to be, but because God in his grace has given us our inheritance. If some day you were to be informed that you had inherited a large estate from a distant, unknown relative, you would regard it as a marvelous windfall. But how much more wonderful is the inheritance we receive from God!

Heirs by adoption

One may become an heir in one of two ways. Either we may be born to our inheritance or we may be adopted. Regardless, the inheritance is no less real and no less ours. In a sense, we are all God's "sons by adoption." God sent his natural Son, says Paul, "so that we might receive adoption as sons" (Galatians 4:5).

In this adoption there is strict equality of relationship and rank. "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither male or female; for you are all one in Christ Jesus" (3:28). There are no first or second class heirs: "...if you are Christ's, then you are Abraham's offspring, heirs according to the promise" (3:29).

The glory of the Gospel of Jesus Christ is to be found not only in that he was God's Son, but that, as Paul puts it, "In Christ Jesus you are all sons of God, through faith...and if a son then an heir!"

TO ACCEPT LOCAL RESPONSIBILITY

For many years I have suggested that more farmers should become active in local government committees and boards. This is still needed in order to get good, sound agricultural thinking into some of the regulations. When farmers refrain from being active in these decisions, then non-farm folks will be making the regulations for agriculture. This might be all right in some cases, but in others the outcome might be unpractical and not for the best interests of agriculture. Many farmers in this county should make good local officials and we urge them to become active and help make major decisions.

TO PREPARE FOR FALL GRAINS

The seeding of winter oats, barley, and wheat will happen in the next month; all of these are adapted to this part of the state and will do good depending upon weather conditions. In southeastern Pennsylvania winter oats should be seeded about the middle of September on well drained ground; winter barley goes into the ground late September or early October, and winter wheat may be seeded anytime in October. Hessian Fly suceptible varities should not be sowed until after October 10, or a killing frost. In most cases only a phosphorus-potash fertilizer will be needed this fall. If the ground needs lime, it should be worked into the topsoil before grain seeding, and not broadcast on top of the winter grain this winter.

TO CONTROL INTERNAL PARASITES

The cost of feed is usually the big item in both milk and meat production. Animals that are infected with stomach worms are poor utilizers of high-priced grain or hay. We urge local producers of either beef or dairy to have fecal samples tested at their local veterinarian to learn the

Over 100 crops depend on bees for pollination

By JOANNE SPAHR

ROBESONIA - Mention the word "bee" and nearly everyone loses their "cool", so to speak.

"A bee?!?" they whisper in terror. "Where's a bee? Is he on me somewhere?"

Yellow jackets, wasps, bumble bees, honeybees, and almost any stinging insect are commonly classified - with one term - "bee."

According to several beekeepers in the area, this is totally unfair. Like the current misnomer, "swine flu", the word "bee" as an overall name for stinging insects gives the honeybee a bad reputation.

"The only fear is fear, itself," says Walter Bucks, Robesonia R1, a hobbyist and ardent fan of the honeybee.

"We need the honeybee," he notes, "for the pollination of over 100 of our crops." And, this is a fact.

The United States Department of Agriculture says that the following agricultural plants would not be able to produce fruit or seed if it weren't for insect pollination; alfalfa and berseem; almond, apple, apricot, asparagus, avocado, blackberry, blueberry and huckleberry, brocolli, brussels sprouts, buckwheat, cabbage, carrot, cauliflower, celery, cherry, chestnuts, clovers (alsike, crimson, red, strawberry, white, and Ladino white), coffee, collards, cotton, cranberry, cucumber, dewberry, gooseberry, grape, flax, honeydew melon, kale, kohlrabi, lima beans, macadamia nut, mandarin, mango, muskmelon, onion, parsnip, passion fruit, peach, pear, pepper, persian melon, persimmon, plum, prune, pumpkin, radish, raspberry, squash, strawberry, sunflower, sweet clover, turnip, and watermelon, to name a few of the 100 crops.

In total, the USDA estimates that one billion dollars worth of crops are dependent of the honeybee for pollination and that five billion dollars worth are benefited by honeybee pollination.

Some other up-to-date figures reported by Bucks is that in a good year, the honeybee will produce 60 pounds of honey and help to generate 80 tons of fruits and vegetables. So, their value as pollinators is 20 times their value as honeymakers.

Some unique facts associated with the honeybees are that honey is nearly a perfect food. It never spoils and never promotes bacterial growth.

According to Garner and Betty Burt, commercial beekeepers from Columbia county, Egyptian tombs have been opened up to reveal honey still intact.

The Burts should know what they are talking about, since they have approximately 900 hives spread out over a 35 mile radius.

And, in the summer, when it gets too cold outside for their honeybees, they take them to Florida. The bees don't get a vacation, however. Instead, they end up making orange blossom honey for their keepers.

A honeybee pollinates by inadvertently dropping bits of pollen, which gathers on their bodies as they collect nectar, as they fly from plant to plant. This cross-pollination, which is also performed by other insects, the wind and hummingbirds, produces a genetically superior crop to those produced by self-pollination.

One of the biggest plus factors in the use of the honeybee for pollination is that they only collect one type of nectar at a time. This is very important to plants that are self-sterile and must be cross-pollinated. Other pollinating insects may gather nectar from 50 - 60 types of plants.

Yet, with all these good points to their name, very few people know about bees, and very few people care. As a result, bees are being exterminated right and left by various causes.

Just recently, 2000 colonies were destroyed in Lewiston, Idaho, and for three years now, the states of Washington and Oregon have had to undergo "bee lifts" to replenish the bee population they have destroyed. Without the bee lifts, their crops would not have pollinated. And, the Wall Street Journal reported in 1974 that there were 20 per cent fewer honeybee colonies in the U.S. than 10 years ago.

One of the worst problems, according to Bucks, who is especially concerned for bee extinction, is that people spray excessively with overdoses of insecticides, which can kill the bee, or they employ insecticides that are toxic to this insect.

"The average person just doesn't know or realize the affects they can have," he explains.

Another problem is draining of the sprayer and letting the water stand in a place where it doesn't evaporate. The reason this is a problem is that bees use stagnant water, pollen, and honey to feed their larvae. If they pick up water with insecticides, they will kill off their young.

So, Bucks offers some suggestions to farmers and home gardeners, and almost anyone who uses pesticides.

First of all, there are certain pesticides which will do the trick on the unwanted insects without being toxic to the honeybee. The names of these can be found out by just a little inquiry when buying pesticides.

Another suggestion is that when dumping and cleaning out the sprayer, make sure that the contents can either evaporate quickly or drain properly.

A third caution is to never spray something that is blooming, since the honeybee will be gathering nectar from the blossom and inadvertently pick up the insecticide. Or, another possibility to cut down on killing the bees is to spray at night when they are not flying.

These are just a few suggestions to help to keep the little pollinators perpetuating and flying.

Farmers inspect weed control

Pennsylvania lays claim to some of the best farming country in the world, with much of the credit for that claim attributable to the innovativeness and progressiveness of her farmers. But, like farmers all across the world, Pennsylvania farmers must also cope with problems like bad weather, chemical shortages, and insect and weed infestations.

According to university weed specialists, one of the largest growing problems is the spread and dominance of perennial broadleaf weeds. With minimum and no-till techniques gaining in popularity, weed control poses a particular problem in parts of Pennsylvania.

Farmers in Lancaster, Lebanon, and Berks counties viewed some possible solutions to that problem on two recently-held weed tours, organized by P.L. Rohrer and Agway, Inc. Sponsored by Velsicol Chemical Corporation, the tours visited several farms in the area, where corn and pasture test plots were treated with Banvel, that herbicide has established a reputation as an effective broadleaf weed killer, controlling even the hard-to-kill weeds often missed by other herbicides.

Control ranged from good to excellent, with the most outstanding treatments seen in two quarts Sutan (PPI) followed by ½ pint Banvel post, and in two quarts Lasso plus one pint Banvel early post.

Control was good, too, in the no'till plots, an area where Banvel is gaining in popularity, having been recommended as an effective herbicide at the year's No-Till Conference in Hershey.

"Using Banvel following Sutan generally gives the farmer excellent control," explained Bergstrom. "Sutan gets the grasses, especially nutgrass, which is a problem in this area, while Banvel gets the broadleaves. The Banvel-Lasso combination, while just as economical as other treatments, has the advantage of no carryover. In a rotational system," he emphasized, "that can be extremely important."

A picture worth a thousand words. Excellent weed control.

Bob Bergstrom, Velsicol sales rep, explains the advantages of clearing pasture land of thistles and other woody and herbaceous plants. This pasture was treated just 10 days previously with Weedmaster herbicide (a pre-mix combination of one pound dicamba and three pounds 2, 4-D).

Mel Kramer, Dairy Enterprise salesman at Agway, Inc., stresses need for adequate weed control.

Tobacco to mechanize

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Hundreds of thousands of workers in flue-cured tobacco farming may face reduced employment by 1980 as the industry turns to mechanization, according to USDA's Economic Research Service.

The workers, mostly youths and women, may be displaced by mechanical harvesters and bulk systems. In a bulk system, tobacco leaves are compressed in bales and brought into barns for curing. Fewer workers are needed than with the traditional system of hanging individual leaves for curing.

The analysis, conducted jointly by ERS, U.S. Department of Labor, and North Carolina State University, noted that bulk systems were used on only eight per cent of the tobacco crop in 1972, but that they would be used for as much as 63 per cent in 1980. Mechanical harvester use could rise from only one per cent of the crop to as much as 30 per cent in that period.

As a result, between 84,000 and 266,000 job opportunities may be eliminated, according to the projection. The hardest hit area would be the Coastal Plain of North Carolina, which could average a loss of almost 800 harvest jobs annually.

see and hear the smoothest running Fox® harvesters ever built easy on power. so quiet that farmers call 'em— the hummers

You'll find a lot to see but not very much to hear when you check out the new Fox hummers

That's because Fox engineering went all out to bring you new forage harvesters so smooth running you hardly can hear the harvester over the sound of your tractor.

We use rubber drives and rubber gathering belts instead of chains; a new almost vibrationless rotary knife on the corn head; big tapered roller cylinder and gear box bearings for smoothness; a solid PTO drive shaft with center support bearing to eliminate "whip"

All this, plus special safety and acoustical shielding and precision component fit, results in the low, steady hum that inspired the nickname: the hummers

In the long run Fox super smoothness has several economic advantages It means low friction, low-wear operation Also important, it means lower power demands

Before you buy any forage harvester, ask your Fox dealer to demonstrate a new hummer for you. There are four great high capacity models: one will match your tractor. So think about trading up to the forage harvester that's always been worth more when you trade again—even if it's five or ten years from now See and hear the hummers now For full information, write address below.

Class I and II milk prices up

ALEXANDRIA, Va. - Market Administrator Joseph D. Shine last week announced a Class I price of $11.77 per hundredweight for October 1976, and a Class II price of $9.11 for August 1976. The Class I price is 28 cents above the $11.49 September - level and is $1.29 above alst October. The Class II price is 35 cents above July.

The August butterfat differential is 12.2 cents, and is unchanged from July. Order No. 4 prices are announced for milk testing 3.5 per cent butterfat, f.o.b. plants located within 55 miles of Philadelphia, Pa. and also within 75 miles from the nearer of Washington, D.C., or Baltimore, Md. There is a six-cent direct-delivery differential applicable to producer milk received at plants located within 55 miles of Philadelphia.

Mr. Shine said that the October Class I price and the August Class II price are based on the August 1976 Minnesota-Wisconsin manufacturing milk price of $8.99 per hundredweight for 3.5 per cent milk.

The USDA reported the wholesale Grade A butter price at Chicago was $1.0624 per pound for August and the nonfat dry milk price was $.6262 per pound, f.o.b. Chicago.

extent of worm infestation. Many young dairy animals have been on the farm for many years. Feeder calves imported from states south of Pennsylvania may also be heavily infected. Don't waste feed on wormy animals. A few dollars spent for worming materials will come back many fold through more feed efficiency.

TO HAVE PROPER EQUIPMENT

The handling of livestock requires certain equipment for best results. We are aware of many dairymen and cattle feeders who do not have loading chutes or catch gates in which to treat their animals. For dairymen, catch gates may not be very important because most animals can be restrained in stalls or stanchions; however, to the cattle feeder a chute and head gate is very important; the implanting of growth pellets or the treating of sick animals certainly warrants good equipment. Don't expect local veterinarians to be "cowboys" when treating feedlot cattle.

HARRISBURG - The Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association's professional truck drivers roadeo team captured the over-all National Championship at the American Trucking Associations National Safe Truck Driver Roadeo held recently in Forth Worth, Texas.

The Pennsylvania team which was comprised of six state champs took the top honors for the sixth time since the competition was initiated in 1960. Pennsylvania won the title in 1961, 1962, 1964, 1967, and 1973, more than any other state.

Members of the National Championship team included: Jay H. Mummau, Yellow Freight System, Inc., Manheim, Three-axle semi-trailer class; Elwood Sherer, also of the Yellow Freight System, Inc., Manheim, 4-axle semi-trailer class; and George W. Snyder, The Mason & Dixon Lines, Inc., York, 5-axle semi-trailer flatbed class.

On their way to victory the Pennsylvania team out scored the runner-up team from North Carolina by 5 points (355 to 350).

The rigorous 3-day competition included a demonstration of driving skills in maneuvering a vehicle through an obstacle course, a written examination covering safety rules and regulations, knowledge of first aid and fire fighting methods, ability to detect and diagnose mechanical trouble.

In 1972, the percent of total cash receipts at the farm level was as follows for the different classes of animals: cattle and calves (beef), 30; dairy products, 12; hogs, 9; eggs, 3; broilers, 3; turkeys, 1 and sheep and lambs 0.5 for a total of 58.5 percent. The remainder of the farm cash receipts of 41.5 percent came from all crops.

Corn is measuring up to expectations

By DIETER KRIEG

An exceptionally favorable growing season, coupled with near excellent results in weed control programs, has produced a corn crop which some farmers are describing as the best they've ever seen. Rumors of an excellent corn crop emerged two and even three months ago, but all doubts have been removed now. With forage harvesters humming, the crop is being tackled to put into the silo and it's measuring up to be just as great (or even greater) than what was hoped.

A number of farmers in several different counties were contacted on Thursday evening. Following is what they had to say:

Silos will be filled in a hurry this year.

York County dairyman, Clair Myers, who on Wednesday hosted a forage field day for the Dover Area Young Farmers, says the corn in his area looks "real good." Approximately 125 farmers from the area visited his farm for the forage field day, to witness as many as six different machines in action. One indication of the fine crop, Myers pointed out, is that some participants in the field demonstrations didn't come equipped with enough horsepower to pull their two-row choppers through the thick corn rows. "Tractors with 70 to 80 horsepower didn't work," Myers declared, "one fellow with a 115 horsepower . . . he could move."

Myers planted 90 acres of corn this year, about 25 acres no-till. Aside from a late-starting grassy condition of some fields, he reports no problems. "The corn is better than it has been for the last three or four years," he said. As for the grass, he's not sure why it might have come up, but adds that the corn was well enough advanced to not be affected by the competition.

Down in the southern end of York County, Walter and Robert Kilgore, report having a wonderful crop of corn — one of the best in recent years — but not necessarily better than last year's. Robert noted that there really hasn't been a bad corn crop in the area since the early 1960's. The two brothers began filling silos on the last day of August and made their judgement on the basis of the acreage it took to get the job done. It was not noticeably less than last year's.

Don Landis at Mount Aetna, near the Berks-Lebanon County line, reports having had excellent growing conditions in his area. The last few days the crop has really become dry due to a lack of rain for several weeks, but the crop is far enough advanced to not be hurt by it. Although Landis has not yet started to fill his silo, he is confident of being well pleased once he moves his equipment into the field. He credits the dry weather in the Spring for the good weed control and abundant rainfall throughout the growing season for the excellent growth.

"The best corn crop we've ever produced, and the best growing season I can remember in my years of farming," is how Daniel Martin of Manheim describes his crop. He says he doesn't remember a year when things worked as favorably as they did this year. "We had rain when we needed it, and it always stopped long enough to get the work done," he explained. Weed control was also good, he added, with the only problem being this:

"Getting enough ground cleared off to seed this Fall." In spite of the lack of rain in recent weeks, Martin reports corn in his area as being a bit on the green side yet, and so far he's not pushing the forage harvester too hard.

Carl Miller, Kutztown, operates 24 farms of all sizes, which gives him a total of 1400 acres. His main farm is pictured on page 1. More than 500 acres is in corn and all of it was put in by minimum tillage methods.

"O yes, it definitely will take less to fill this year," Miller began. "It's the best crop I've had since I've been farming . . . by far." He planted some 90-day corn in late April which he claims is ready for shelling on Tuesday and he's confident of taking 100 bushels to the acre. He's moving into the fields early because of the presently high price — over $3.00 per bushel — and the fact that mills in his area are anxious to replenish their short supplies. "Corn is scarce around here," he said, referring to stocks at the mills and in the farmers' storage bins.

While Miller is well pleased with his crops, he noted that some of his later corn is not measuring up to the excellence he finds in earlier planted varieties. It's too dry, and a little rain right now would be welcome. Weed control, he said, was no better than in any years previously, in fact in some cases it was worse.

Bob and Jim Pepple are in full agreement that they have a very good corn crop on their farms near Oxford. "It's going to take an awfully good crop to beat what we have this year . . . I'll take this year's crop every year," Bob said convincingly. Yields are being reported as being better than they have been for the last several years.

Weed control was described as very good and is being claimed as one reason for the excellent crop. Like the growth of the corn itself, this ties in with the weather. Last year, explained Pepple, the wet Spring prevented good weed control from taking place, but this year's relatively dry Spring made things work properly.

A good population stand and good growth is being reported. Also, the crop is holding its greenness longer than last year. The ears are drying off nicely, but the stalk and foliage are retaining moisture, Pepple said. "It's making real good silage, I'm very pleased," he added. As was reported by several others, some of the later corn does not quite measure up to the earlier planted varieties, but it's still nothing to complain about.

Richard Maule, near Quarryville, will start filling silo today (Saturday). He has lived on his farm for all his life, and as a grandfather several times over, can bring quite a few growing seasons into his memory. "I have never seen better corn on this farm . . . the corn is thick, the ears are large, stalks are thick and tall . . . we'll fill silo in a hurry," he exclaimed. Weed control was excellent.

Lester High, who farms in northern Chester County, south of Pottsville, reports that corn in his area is good. It's been maturing rapidly lately due to lack of moisture. Weed control was good.

are not irrigated. In 1975, for example, Lancaster County farmers produced a record $335 million worth of farm products. Lancaster County ranks third in the country in the number of farms and is in the top 10 producers for a number of farm products, including, milk eggs, poultry and tobacco.

The pilot program, which is eventually expected to be available in other areas as well, is designed especially for farmers, Walker told the gathering of more than 400 Lancaster County farmers. It will be available by telephone and will include local weather forecasts, information on soil and spraying conditions and other information that might be useful. Walker told the group: "Having this type of localized weather forecasts for farmers will be the first in the nation. This is a pilot project and Lancaster County is an excellent place to start."

The congressional candidate further revealed that he has met with representatives of the National Weather Service and the telephone industry in Washington to get action on the program started. Wenger added that he was encouraged by the cooperation between the government and private industry in this effort to help farmers. He said: "We Lancaster County farmers should find this weather information very useful in our work and at the same time we will be helping test a service that could eventually be provided to farmers in agriculture areas all over the country."

When the service begins to operate, farmers will be able to call a local telephone number and hear a recorded message detailing the weather forecast and giving such information as the amount of moisture in the soil and recommendations on spraying and planting for that particular day. Severe weather warnings and updated information will be placed on the recording immediately.

Special equipment made available by the telephone company will ensure that callers get through to the recording without delay. A local sponsor will be found to help defray costs.

Walker said the negotiations to get this service for Lancaster County are in the very early stages but all signs are positive. Walker told the gathering at Quarryville, "you can be sure that Noah and I will keep working on this project to make sure Lancaster farmers get this service."

The weather was great for the Lancaster County Farmers Association picnic, held recently at the Solanco Fairgrounds. The word from Washington D.C. is that very specific weather reports for agriculture are likely to be put into service early next year. With that Lancaster County will become the first county in the nation to have such a farm weather forecast.

the nation, which, incidentally, is a major reason for it having been chosen by the U.S. government as the site for a special weather service.

Following the Solanco Fair, in chronological order, are fairs at Elizabethtown, Ephrata, West Lampeter, New Holland and Manheim.

The Manheim Fair, which ends the Lancaster County fair season in early October, undertook a building project of its own recently and is moving to a new site where new facilities have been erected. Improvement projects are reportedly underway at West Lampeter as well.

Following is the schedule for the 1976 fairs within Lancaster County:

Ephrata Fair, Sept. 21-25.

West Lampeter Community Fair, Sept. 22-24.

New Holland Farmers Fair, Sept. 29 - Oct. 2.

Cows on new Agway PRO:RIGHT™ Feeds Break the Barrier to Higher Milk Production... In Tests With 12 High-Producing Herds, Rolling Averages Increased 467 Pounds in 3 Months!

BREAKTHROUGH!

Regulation of solubility is the key. New Agway PRO:RIGHT Feeds are formulated to regulate* the amount of both soluble and insoluble protein. Both forms of protein are needed to effectively meet the total protein requirements of high producing cows. Agway Research has answered the question of how much of each form is needed.

Result: a dramatic increase in milk production, with higher—and sustained—peaking.

TESTS ON 12 HERDS IN 6 STATES PROVE IT! The herds tested under Agway Research supervision were already producing at excellent levels. After feeding new Agway PRO:RIGHT for 3 months, rolling herd averages had increased from 15,911 to 16,378 . . . an average increase of 467 pounds per cow!

AGWAY PRO:RIGHT—A NEW FEED FOR HIGH-PRODUCING HERDS

If your herd is averaging 15,000 lbs. or better, (or you'd like it to be), Agway PRO:RIGHT is for you. It's the feed of the future, for the professional dairyman.

Peaches over, apples coming

By JOANNE SPAHR

LANCASTER — The peach harvest is almost over, if not totally completed, in Lancaster Farming's coverage area, and the general concensus is that the present apple crop is good in quantity and quality with "spotty" variations in the different varieties over the area.

Peaches

Most of the peach orchardists completed this year's harvest last week with the crop nearly two to three weeks ahead of schedule. Overall, the report is that the fruit was of "excellent" quality and anywhere from slightly below to slightly above average in yield.

One fruit farm near Quarryville reported a larger than average amount of late peaches from previous years. The late rains of the season were credited with producing this occurrence.

Statewide, the crop averaged a few less than last year, and on the whole, prices hovered near last year's mark with a few growers asking slightly higher prices.

At present, cold storage peaches are still being harvested, but by the beginning of this week, all varieties of the fruit should be cleaned up.

Apples

Apples are spotty around southeastern Pennsylvania. Paul McPherson of Maple Lawn Farms, York County, reports that his Red Delicious crop is shorter than usual, but that the Stayman Winesaps are in good quantity.

He also noted that his crop is in "pretty good shape," however, because, although the crop is smaller than usual, the size is larger than average.

Another orchard in York County, however, reports that their particular Red Delicious crop is "fairly good" with no marked reduction in number. In general, however, they agree with McPherson that the apple crop is smaller than usual this year. One reason cited for this occurrence was the cold, wet weather in early spring which prevented the blossoms from pollinating properly.

Lancaster County orchardists reported the same contradictions. Some have full apple orchards, while others have as low as half a crop. The Red Delicious was a low producer in some parts of Lancaster County, also.

In general, the apple prices for this year will be a slight bit higher than last year's prices.

Pears

Pears, as well as peaches, are over for the season. They were of good quality and quantity and ranged close to last year's produce.

Johnston named to committee

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz named Mrs. Rita Zimmer Johnston of Bethesda, Md., as a "grassroots consumer" member of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Advisory Committee on Regulatory Programs.

The two-year committee was established in early March to evaluate selected regulations affecting agriculture and the food industry. In late March Secretary Butz appointed the committee's original members, selecting them from a variety of backgrounds. The eight-member panel met formally for the first time in June.

The appointment of Mrs. Johnston, who has been closely associated with consumer concerns, is the Department's response to public requests for a strengthened consumer representation on the committee.

Mrs. Johnston is a member of the National Panel of Consumer Arbitrators and a past chairperson of the Montgomery County (Maryland) Advisory Committee on Consumer Affairs.

In 1946 she became a registered professional nurse at the Nazareth College School of Nursing, Rochester, N.Y. She received her B.S. degree from Nazareth College in 1949, and did post-graduate work at the Roswell Park Memorial Hospital, Buffalo, N.Y., and at the University of Rochester, Rochester, N.Y., in 1950. In 1974 Nazareth College made Mrs. Johnston an honorary doctor of humane letters.

Mrs. Johnston has also been active in the following organizations: the Inter-American Commission of Women (of the Organization of American States); the National Commission of the Observance of International Women's Year (Department of State); the Women's Institute of the American University; and the U.S. Committee of Cooperation with the Inter-American Commission of Women.

Fertile farm land in Lancaster County between Manheim and Lititz

decrease in value and numbers was registered for the sheep industry, here, but it left the No. 3 ranking unchanged from the year before. The numbers for cattle and calves was up significantly, but lower prices caused a sharp drop in value — down to $81,857,800 from the $95,647,000 recorded the year before.

The number of farms for 1975 was pegged at 5865, down from the 6100 registered in 1974.

On the crops side of the ledger, Lancaster County checked in first for barley, corn, alfalfa, and tobacco. Production per acre was up for only silage corn and potatoes, while other crops dropped. The County was second for production of wheat and all types of hay.

Following Lancaster in milk production are, in order: Bradford County, Franklin County, Berks County, Chester, Susquehanna, Crawford, and Lebanon.

On a state-wide summary basis, small grain acreage was lower and yields were off, largely due to unfavorable weather. Hay production, however, increased over the previous year. Corn production, statewide, was also up over 1974. Soybean production was up in spite of fewer acres. The plantings of potatoes, statewide, were the lowest on record — a mere 29,000 acres. Yields were up five hundredweights per acre over the year before, but this still left production seven per cent below 1974.

Production for both fruits and vegetables was up, and the quality was described as high by the Crop Reporting Service.

Anyone wishing to have more details on Pennsylvania's crops may contact the Crop Reporting Service at 2301 North Cameron Street in Harrisburg and ask for the Annual Summary Report.

Of the total grain used by the animal industries during the 1972-73 feed year, the following percentages were fed to each class of animal: dairy cattle, 11.7; cattle on feed, 25.1; other beef cattle, 6.0; swine, 29.0; poultry, 17.0 and other livestock. 11.2.

From 1970 through 1973, the cash receipts from all U.S. farms were 56 percent for livestock and livestock products and 44 percent for crops. This has been about the same for the last 30 years. So, the animal industries are a major and important source of income to the farmer.

Farms Lands Gaining

While about half a million acres of farm land go into urban uses each year, 1.3 million acres are added to the nation's cropland base each year, says the Economic Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture. Cropland losses can nevertheless be significant in local areas, especially where urban uses compete for the better agricultural lands, the report cautions.

The popular AB series of Farm Fans grain dryers gives you a choice of four great models, with drying capacities that range from 210 to 750 bushels per hour. The AB-8B, the AB-12B, the AB-35A and the AB-500A . . . all are fully dryers are fully automatic, rugged, versatile and mobile. All four dryers are engineered for operating efficiency. Their low initial cost saves you money at the time of purchase; their efficient operation keeps on saving you money.

All four models feature fully automatic operation for staged drying, giving you reliable control of all functions — loading, drying, cooling and unloading. "Temper Dry" is the exclusive name that Farm Fans gives its unique method of drying grain. The correct degree of cycled heat is matched with a proper volume of controlled air flow through the grain, tempering it to the desired moisture content. Result: brighter colored, high quality grain that brings you maximum test weight for top prices at the elevator.

AGRI-KING
KEY TO PROFIT

WHAT IS AGRI–KING?
WHAT MAKES THIS COMPANY DIFFERENT?

Through a series of articles in the next six issues of the Lancaster Farming, we will try to answer these and other questions of interest to the farmer. We hope you find these articles helpful when choosing your winter feeding program.
First article in series of six.

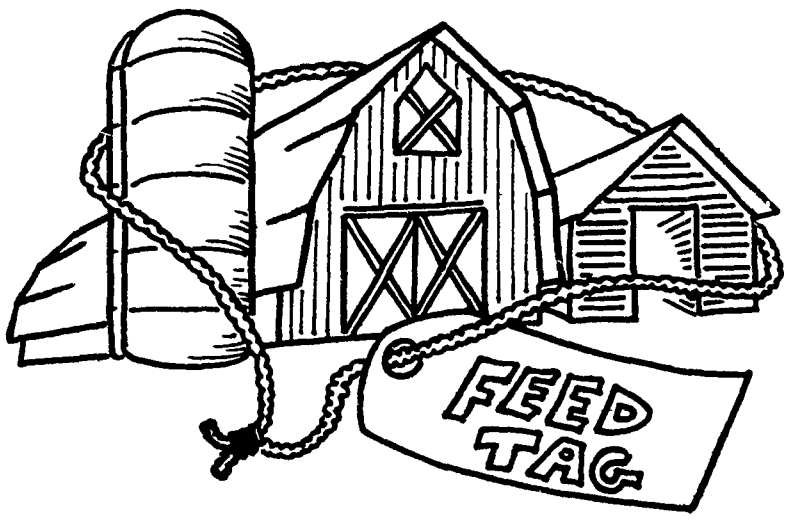
"WHY AGRI–KING BUILDS RATIONS FROM THE GROUND UP"

In building a ration from the ground up we take into consideration YOUR hay, silage and grain and put them into balance. There are several reasons why this is necessary.

It is very important in a profitable farming operation today to have healthy animals. It is impossible for a cow to maintain her health for any length of time on an unbalanced feeding program, especially if she is producing at a high level.

By building rations you can set the ration at your desired level of production and change it as the production changes on your herd. This is necessary to get maximum efficiency from your feed and herd.

In feeding cattle today, a farmer can no longer afford to feed his grains and roughages to his animals without knowing what is in them. A feed tag should be put on your silo, hay mow and grain bin.



It is very important to know the protein, calcium, phosphorus, magnesium, nitrate and moisture content of these feeds in order to get the most use out of what you have grown.

Only now are you ready to purchase the ingredients you need to balance your herd's feeding ration. By buying only the ingredients that you need and adding them in the right amounts, you not only get better herd health and production, but you also get production at the least possible cost.

THIS FALL IS THE TIME TO QUIT GUESSING
AND START TESTING THE AGRI—KING WAY!

How to improve Silage Mileage

The nutritive value of Corn Silage

The two most important factors in determining value are the stage of grain maturity at harvest and the efficiency of the storage system. Both contribute significantly to the amount of dry matter per acre, digestibility and palatability of silage fed and degree of preservation of silage from field to feeding.

Corn Silage Maturity

All field, storage and feeding factors considered, the ideal harvest stage for corn silage is 65% moisture and lower. The plant has reached 90% to 95% of its potential dry matter yield and near maximum grain yield. However, harvesting your entire crop at the ideal moisture content is not always possible. With the Harvestore System you have the flexibility to harvest somewhat more mature silage and pick up the extra grain yield with minimal loss of other nutrients. Remember, with Harvestore you fill and refill any time to make full use of the growing season and full use of your Harvestore System!

Harvest management

It is very important to fine-chop corn to cut losses in silage feeding potential A controlled length cut from ¼ to ⅜ inch is desirable. Knives need to be sharp and the shear bar adjusted to proper clearance for maximum cutting efficiency. Fine-chopped silage ferments quickly and is more completely digested by cattle.

Minimize storage losses

Even if you harvest efficiently and fine-chop your silage, you can still experience substantial losses in the storage of silage.

Dry matter and nutrition losses from excessive fermentation, heat, oxidation and seepage are highest in bunker or trench silos, as much as 30%. This means 30 acres out of every hundred are being wasted! While a conventional silo is somewhat more efficient, it still allows too much air to reach the stored silage resulting in substantial losses in the area of 12%.

That's why every livestock producer who values his silage should consider a Harvestore System. The oxygen-limiting "breather system" and bottom unloading features of Harvestore allows for maximum use of the growing season, maximum TDN fed to cattle and optimum silage quality. Fermentation losses are in the 2% range This is necessary for the production of lactic and acetic acid. In a Harvestore System this is where fermentation normally stops This is before the production of unwanted acids that "sour" the silage and before the mold growth begins. This is why Harvestore silage is "sweet"

4-H queens look to coming reign

By SALLY BAIR
Feature Writer

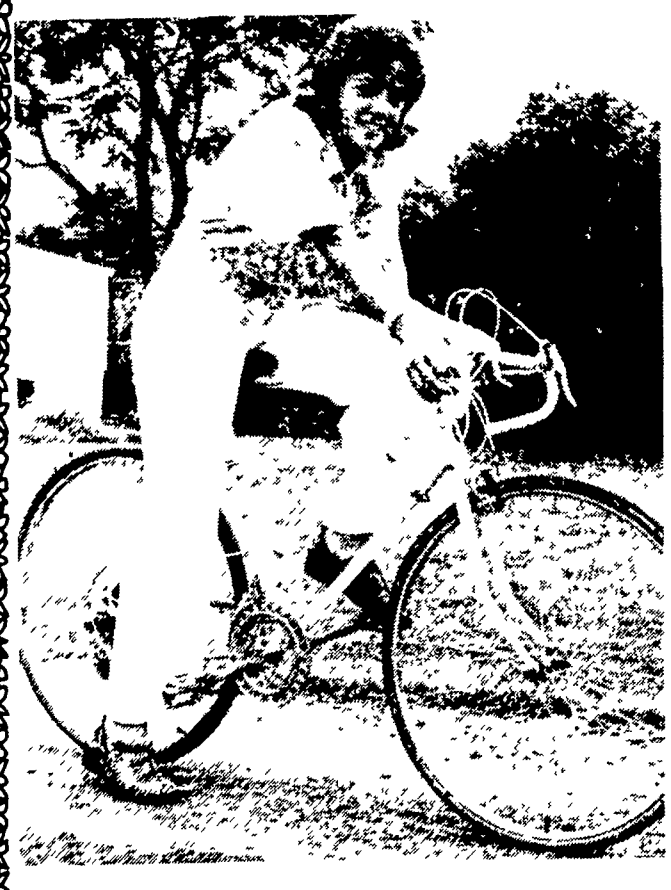
For Jodi Zeamer and Robin Esbenshade the recent Lancaster 4-H Achievement Day marked the beginning of an exciting year. The girls were chosen Lancaster County junior and senior 4-H queen respectively.

For Jodi, 12, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Zeamer, 114 E. Main St., Mountville, winning the title was a real surprise.

"I was quite prepared to lose. I was nervous, but enjoyed the contest," she said. She also mentions that it was not until her name was announced as the winner that she got really nervous.

Fifteen-year-old Robin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Esbenshade, Manheim, R7, and she, too, was surprised by the announcement of her name as queen.

Jodi displays the banners she won as Lancaster County's junior 4-H queen.



Jodi's 4-H bicycle project was of great help to her. Here, she demonstrates her expertise on the bicycle.

She said, "I was more nervous Thursday afternoon waiting for the evening contest to begin. I am looking forward to meeting new people."

The two girls have already begun to work for Lancaster County 4-H by appearing on Noonday on Eight for WGAL-TV with farm editor Bob Malick. They agreed that it was an interesting way to begin their new roles.

Both girls competed against five finalists after being selected from among 35 contestants in each category. Judges met the girls during a preliminary event, and then during the formal contest on stage during Achievement Day activities. Jodi said she was "scared" during the preliminary judging.

Jodi has been a member of the Mountville Community 4-H Club for four years and has taken projects in sewing, cooking, and bicycling. She said she joined 4-H after seeing posters about it.

"My mom went to 4-H and said it was fun, so I decided to join," she disclosed.

Jodi said she's glad she joined and would recommend to others that they become involved in 4-H. She said, "I've been in a lot of things and I learned a lot of new things. I learned to cook. I learned hand signals with my bike and I learned how to fill out the record books properly. I also got new friends." Since she lives in town, Jodi said it's a good example that you don't need to live on a farm to join 4-H.

Her mother has helped with the Mountville Club in the past, and this year it was her job to make the ribbon for the 4-H'er who would represent the Mountville Club in the county contest. So Jodi helped to make her own ribbon, before, of course, she was selected as the contestant. After she won locally she received a silver ID bracelet with a 4-H insignia on it and a charm to be engraved from the leaders of the club.

Jodi will be in the seventh grade at Centerville Junior High School. She is also a member of the Mountville Church of the Brethren and sings in the choir. A high point of her summer was going to Camp Swatara with a friend for a week. She plays the saxophone and likes to ride her bicycle, swim, and read.

Once school gets underway, Jodi will bowl with a Bantam League on Saturday mornings. And, Jodi is a "collector," or a "pack rat" as her mother puts it. Jodi says, "I collect about everything." Probably her experiences as 4-H queen will give her a few more souvenirs and memories to add to her collections.

Robin, the senior 4-H queen, belongs to the Mount Joy 4-H Club, where she has had six years of sewing, two years of cooking, and one year of cake decorating.

She is in the freelance project in sewing, and this year was selected an alternate to district dress revue.

At the contest on Achievement Day, Robin was asked what she would do to promote 4-H. She said, "I told them I would talk with city and town kids since they have leisure time. I would tell them how much fun it is, and all the nice kids you meet. I would also tell them that 4-H can help you in the future."

Robin, herself, joined 4-H because "I was always interested in sewing. I learned about 4-H through friends and decided to join." She said she had done a little sewing prior to her 4-H experiences, but now she sews about half her own clothes.

"It saves a lot of money," she points out.

Robin would encourage others to join 4-H because, "It helps make you more of a leader, and helps a lot in the future.

Robin will be a junior at Manheim Central High School. She was a manager for the girls' basketball team, a member of the Future Homemakers Association, on the yearbook staff, and a member of the Future Business Leaders of America.

She is taking business courses in school, and she hopes one day to be an accountant. She also plans to attend a Bible college

Robin is a member of the youth group at Calvary Independent Church. She enjoys skiing, ice skating, roller skating, macrame, cooking, and cake decorating.

Robin helps with some of the work on her father's 100 acre dairy and poultry operation. She does field work, such as hay baling, and helps daily with packing the eggs from the Esbenshade's automated layer operation.

It is Robin's responsibility to move the packed eggs onto the waiting cart.

Decorating cakes was a new project for the senior queen this year. Robin shows off two of her works of art.

For the first time this year alternate queens were selected. June's alternate was Lisa King, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin King, 256 C Harvest Drive, Gordonville. Lisa has been a member of the Pequea Valley 4-H Sewing and Cooking Club for three years.

In her interview she answered a question about how 4-H has helped her, and recalls that she said, "4-H has helped me realize that if I do something wrong I can try again. I always try to do my best and no matter how things turn out, I know I did my best."

Lisa will be attending the seventh grade at Locust Grove Mennonite School, and it is through the school that she learned about 4-H and decided to join.

She said she had not been very interested in attending Achievement Day, but "I loved it. It helped me meet a lot of people and I'm really glad I went."

Senior alternate queen was June Grube, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Weidler Grube, Manheim R7. Seventeen-year-old June has been a 4-H'er for eight years and is a member of the Lancaster County Holstein 4-H Club and the Landisville Klassy Klippers.

This year she sewed a skirt, vest, and blouse for her freelance project and was selected as an alternate for district dress revue.

A senior at Hempfield High School, June said her question at the contest involved learning to lose. She said her 4-H experiences had taught her a lot about losing.

"I think it is important to always go away smiling. Losing is an important part of life," commented June.

But June added that she has really enjoyed being in 4-H. She is very active in county activities besides her involvement in her local clubs.

The junior and senior queens are presently making arrangements to appear at the local fairs and in the fair parades, and will be attending banquets and other functions throughout the year.

Besides being attractive, the queens are articulate and personable and are looking forward to a pleasant year of representing 4-H in Lancaster County.

Farm Women Societies

Society 6

Farm Women Society 6 met on September 4 in the Milton Grove United Methodist Church with 15 members and three guests present.

Business was conducted by Mrs. Anna Geyer, president. Annual dues were paid. Two new officers were elected. Mrs. Murial Saylor will be this year's president and Mrs. Anna Geyer will be recording secretary.

The bus trip for October was cancelled because of a lack of interest. The next meeting will be held on October 2 at the home of Mrs. Anna Geyer.

Berks Co. Society 6

A special meeting of the Society of Farm Women of Berks County, Group 6, was recently held at the home of Mrs. Richard Schlegel, president, Boyertown R3. Sixteen members attended.

A donation was made to the Green Hills Health Center in appreciation for the speech by Dr. Irving Jones at the August meeting.

A donation was given to a needy family in the area.

Erma Bauer will help on the nominating committee at the county convention, October 2. Helping at the coffee and tea hour will be Janet Schlegel, Fan Hartz, Margie Fisher, and Jane Hauseman.

Replacing Noami Mest, who resigned as chairlady of the sales committee, will be Dorothy Wagner. Helping her will be Ruth Herbein, Mary Hess, Linda Youse, Pearl Hoffman, and Delores Mensch.

Berks Co. Society 8

A safety program was the theme of the monthly meeting of the Berks Co. Society of Farm Women, Society 8, of Strausstown held at the home of Shirley Davis. Sixteen members were present. A film on home canning was shown.

A new member, Debbie Davis, was initiated into membership by the president, Shirley Stricker.

A ham-on-roll sandwich sale will be held on September 25. The sandwiches will be made at the home of Doris Koenig. All orders must be in by September 19.

A Halloween party for group members and their families has been scheduled for October 22 at the Shartlesville Fish and Game building.

Plans are in the offing for the group and guests to attend the Ice Follies at the Hershey Arena on November 7.

President Shirley Strickler will make reservations for members planning to attend the Farm Women County Convention on October 2 at the Agriculture Center in Bern Township.

The next meeting will be held on September 28 at the home of Shirley Lesher.

In response to the plea for a good tomato catsup recipe, four readers wrote in saying they were glad to share their recipes with others. All four are different so each one has been printed.

Another request has come in to the LANCASTER FARMING office. This time, a potato salad recipe which has a sweet yellow dressing is the sought - after delicacy. If you know a good recipe that fits this description, it would be appreciated.

Don't forget that September is "Breakfast Month," and that a breakfast column will be run the third week in the month.

Tomato Catsup

4 quarts tomatoes
4 large apples
3 onions
½ cup vinegar
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon allspice
½ teaspoon dry mustard

Chop tomatoes, apples, and onions, and cook until soft. Then, put through sieve and add vinegar, sugar, salt, cinnamon, cloves, allspice, and dry mustard.

Cook until thick and put in jars.

Tomato Catsup

½ bushel tomatoes (use good measure)
1 quart vinegar
6 cups sugar
4-5 tablespoons salt
1 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon onion salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves

Cook tomatoes until about soft. Drain all water off and then put through fruit press. Add all other ingredients and bring to boil. When boiling, put in jars and seal. Makes 10 pints. Thicken with cornstarch before putting in jars if too thin.

Mrs. Florence Brubaker

xxx

Heinz Catsup

¾ basket tomatoes
2 small bunches celery
6 onions
4 cups sugar
2 cups vinegar
3 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon dry mustard
2 heaping tablespoons clear jell.

Remove seeds from tomatoes and add celery and onions. Boil until tomatoes are very soft. Remove celery and onions. Drain tomatoes in colander. Use only pulp for catsup. Add remaining ingredients all except for clear jell. Boil ½ hour. Mix clear jell to make paste with cold water, then add to mixture until the right consistency. Bring to boil. Bottle and seal. Yields five small bottles.

There are said to be 2 million comets in the solar system. The most famous, Halley's Comet, will next be seen by earthlings in 1986!

Prodded with artifically lighted 16-hour days and special feeding, most hens average 250 to 270 eggs a year.

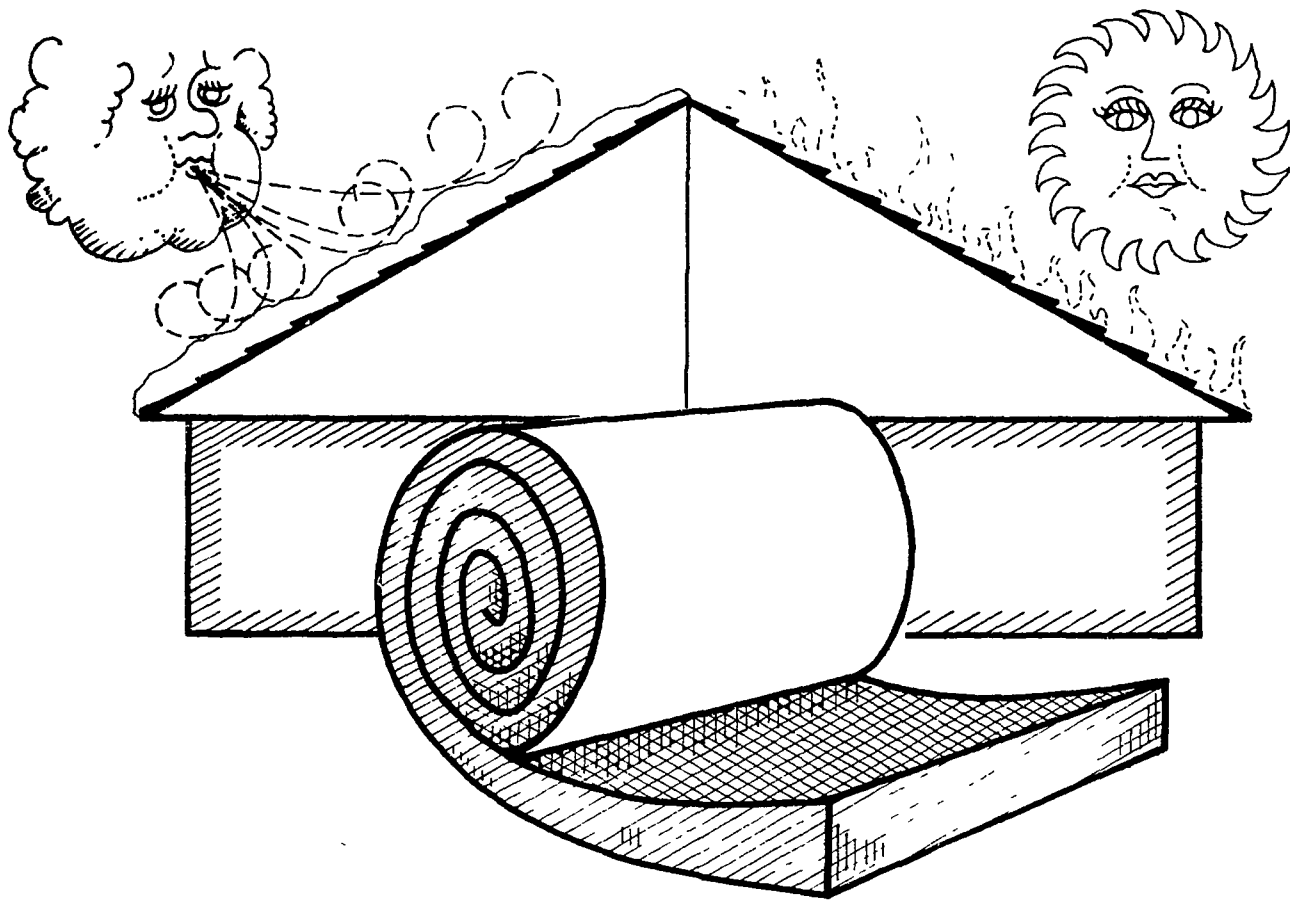
Energy-Efficient Homes Offer More

Saving energy and money is important these days and will be even more important in the future. That's why PP&L is introducing the "Energy Efficient Home Program." Working with participating builders, PP&L has established standards of home construction for such things as insulation and sheathing . . . windows and doors . . . water heating . . . ventilation . . . plus home heating and cooling.



Super Insulation in Every Energy-Efficient Home!

Insulation not only adds comfort to your home but saves you money season after season. In winter, it holds heat in to lower heating bills. In summer, it keeps your home cooler to reduce air conditioning costs.

That's why PP&L-approved Energy-Efficient homes are super insulated. In ceilings it's as much as 10-inches thick . . . full thickness in every exterior wall. Even floors, over unheated areas like basements and garages, are heavily insulated. And, in the case of slab floors, you'll find insulation all around the perimeter.

The sheathing used in Energy-Efficient homes insulates too. It's tongue and groove . . . 1-inch thick polystyrene. With 4 times the insulation value of standard type sheathing, it is one of the best insulating materials on the market today.

Doors and windows must meet PP&L's insulation requirements as well. Fact is, everything that should be insulated is . . . right down to hot water pipes and heating ducts

So, if you're thinking of a new electrically heated home, look for one that qualifies for the Energy-Efficient Home Award It's your assurance that you'll be getting the most practical energy-saving features money can buy.

Pork Stuffed Cabbage Rolls

1½ pounds ground pork
1 medium cabbage
2 quarts boiling water
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon dill weed
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 small onion, chopped
¼ cup finely chopped celery
1 egg
1 can (11 ounces) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
1 cup cooked rice
¼ cup boiling water
Flour for gravy, if desired
Paprika, if desired

Cut core from cabbage, place head in saucepan, add boiling water and cook 3 to 4 minutes. Drain cabbage and remove and reserve 12 leaves as they become flexible. Sprinkle salt, dill weed and pepper over ground pork. Add onion, celery, egg, and ½ cup of cheese soup; stir lightly to combine. Stir in cooked rice and divide meat mixture into 12 equal parts. Place one portion of meat mixture in each cabbage leaf. Roll leaves and fold ends to enclose filling; place rolls, seam-side down, in large frying-pan. (Rolls can be secured with small round wooden picks, if necessary) Add ¼ cup water, cover tightly and cook 30 minutes. Add remaining cheese soup and cook, covered, 10 minutes or until cabbage and pork are done. Remove rolls to warm platter; thicken cheese sauce with flour, if desired, and serve over rolls. Sprinkle with paprika, if desired. 6 servings of 2 rolls each.

Great Ideas for Ground Pork

Fried Cabbage

Season one pound hamburger meat. Place in a large skillet and keep turning with a fork until all redness disappears. Add one small head of cabbage (cut up). Put tight lid on pan and fry until cabbage is well wilted. Add in order (Chopped):
1 large onion
¾ cup celery
1 green pepper
2 tomatoes
Parsley
Salt and pepper

Cover and turn heat down to medium low. Cook until done.

Cole Slaw

1 large head cabbage
5 large stalks celery
3 medium carrots
1 cup mayonnaise
¼ cup milk
3 tablespoons vinegar
3 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
Celery seed, if desired
1-½ tablespoon sugar

Shred cabbage, celery, carrots. Sprinkle with salt. Let stand while mixing rest of ingredients. Squeeze cabbage, carrots, and celery. This makes tender slaw. Next, just mix together.

Water intake and excretion can effect mineral needs of animals. Water is excreted from the body in the feces, urine, sweat, evaporation from the skin and lungs and in milk and eggs. So, factors that influence water excretion will affect the water need or intake of the animal shown in Table 1. It has been found that the requirement for water is more related to body surface area than weight.

Beef cattle water intake varies widely depending mostly on the kind of feed, dry matter intake and temperature. For example, British-bred cattle that weighed approximately 1,000 pounds ate 22 pounds of feed daily and drank 28, 41 and 66 liters of water at 39, 70 and 90 degrees F.

Four states - California, Georgia, Arkansas and Pennsylvania - account for about one-third of the nation's egg output. The big corporate farms in these leading states have been the most profitable, bringing about an industry shakeout. In 1964 there were 1.2 million egg farms, but today there are about 200,000, and just 4,000 of these own more than 90 percent of the laying hens, industry analysts say.

Ladies Have You Heard?

By Doris Thomas

Lancaster Home Economist

THE SCHOOL GIRL's WARDROBE IS CLASSIC ETHNIC

The two biggest newsmakers in fashion for the back-to-school distaff crowd are the classics and the ethnics. All are available in a variety of mix-and-match, practical fabrications, and in sizes ranging from 4-6X and 7-14.

Man-tailoreds head the classics and show up in vested looks, epauletted shirts, pants, and jackets in pin stripe and multi-stripe tweeds. Colors are clear and strong in berry, green, and rust shades. Nutmeg, beige, and dusty blue are also on hand and rich pastels like peachy pink and aqua replace softer tones. It's a crisp, neat look with just enough softening effects to be feminine.

The ethnic emphasis is a strong contrast. Both North and South American influences abound. Ponchos tout the ethnic spirit. Sweater knits and wovens pick up colorful, interesting borders and pictorial strips.

Sweaters, sweaters, and still more sweaters! Some are available with matching or coordinating hats, long scarves, and even legwear. There are many ethnic motifs, such as the sashed wrap in ombre striping or a Peruvian-patterned cover-up. Designs are far from limited to this treatment. The choice of knits, patterns, and styles is wide in both outerwear and lightweights.

Pick and choose from big bulky coat sweaters, wrap cardigans hooded or not, T-shirt styled sweater knits, boat-necked pullovers, and shawl and cowl collars. Coming up are deep sailor collars and toggle-closure cardigans.

The popular sweater fabric this season is acrylic or a blend such as 95 per cent acrylic and 5 per cent nylon. There is even a "mohair" look and feel that is actually acrylic.

Popular for its warmth and shape retentive qualities, acrylic is soft, lightweight, and resilient. Another plus for the sweater wearer is the fact that acrylic is machine washable and dryable.

Sleeves have new styling with loose looks, ¾ roll-up T-sleeves, coolie sleeves, kimono-cut sweaters with short sleeves and dolman and square sleeves. Appliques, screen prints, and lettering in contrasting corduroy or prints and pictures add another dimension to the fall topper.

Tunics and tabards (open-sided tunics) offer layering alternatives. The silhouette is a body-hugging tailored shirt, tunic topped. Cinch belting is another option to the straight tunic or tabard, especially with turtleneck tops still a wardrobe basic.

Jumpers are popular. Butcher aprons and bib tops set the trend. Skirts and dresses offer longer looks, soft styling. Gauchos or split skirts combine femininity with practicality for the youngster who is active as well as fashion-conscious. Other trend-setters are knickers, jodhpurs, boottops, and long or short jumpsuits. Pants come in all lengths and widths to suit every fancy. They are on hand to match ponchos and tops or combine with jackets for a work clothes effect.

Beside fabric patches on sweater knits, there are other mixtures, such as a mini-fern print skirt with a floral knit blouse topped by a striped vest. Plaids, mini-florals, geometrics, cross-striping and jacquards round out the pattern picture.

Corduroy is always a popular fall fabric. This year is no exception. Denim and denim-looks of all kinds continue strong. See it crackled, pre-washed, striated, quilted, double-sided, bonded. Tucking, braiding, jean stitching, and hardware buttons give the extra styling impact, but denim looks are also done with screen prints or mixed with patchwork plaids.

Other important fabrications include textured polyesters, knits, and twill treatments. The trash, krinkle, and gauze cloth craze still prevails with such offerings as kettle or weavers cloth done either in natural or in strong reds and yellows. Brushed and sueded effects are seen in all fabrications. Man-made fibers and blends in combinations like poly-acrylic and poly-cotton are also popular for completely easy-care school ensembles!

Use up excess food containers with junk lamps

Mrs. Arlene Snyder and her daughter, Sharon, demonstrate how junk lamps are made from various household containers. Beside the demonstration lamp is a completed junk lamp painted with flat black spray paint.

By JOANNE SPAHR

LITITZ - Whoever named the junk lamp wasn't thinking clearly. The title fits in some ways, but the first impression to come to mind is that of old tin cans, scraps of paper, and boxes, etc., slapped together with glue or cellophane. And, although the name arouses curiosity, it nevertheless sets up a stereotype. The lamp has to be what it sounds like - just a piece of junk. Doesn't it?

The answer to that question is, of course, "no," and Mrs. Elvin Snyder, Lititz R3, is the one to prove it. A farm wife and mother, Mrs. Snyder takes care of her husband and three children - Sharon, 12, Scott, 8, and Jeff, 4 - and in her spare time makes crafts for fun and profit.

A creative person, she first got the idea to make the lamps after seeing one which had been given as a gift. After studying it for a while, she figured out how it was constructed.

"Then, I got so excited to make my first one," she says with a good-natured laugh, "that I went out and bought all the junk." Again, what could be so exciting about junk lamps that someone would go out and buy junk with which to make them?

Basically, their appeal stems from the fact that although they are made from "good junk" found in the kitchen such as plastic bowls and bottle caps, they are dead ringers for authentic kerosene lamps from a distance, and even from close up.

The materials that go into making the lamps are a small plate, small and large plastic bowls, a saucer, a jar lid, an aerosol can lid, a small bottle cap, a candle ring, a candle, and a hurricane globe.

All these pieces are glued together with white glue and then painted. The end result is a finished product which looks deceivingly real.

Procedure

According to Mrs. Snyder, making the lamps is easy and not very time consuming. To begin, start with a plate made from plastic or china as the base. Then, turn a peanut butter jar or small plastic (Cool Whip) bowl done - like clean clothes or a scrubbed floor. Pleasant-smelling products also are more enjoyable to use.

Years ago, smells were added to soap to hide the foul odors caused by the chemicals and fatty acids used as ingredients. The purpose of the fragrance was not to please but rather to keep the product from displeasing.

But pure flower oils are expensive. It takes 700 pounds of petals to gather a pound of essential oil. Synthetic smells have recently been developed which could be produced at low cost and in large quantities. Their use has fed the craze for perfumed products. At the moment, the "back to nature" scents are popular.

Since the late 1960's when a lemon-scented dishwashing liquid was first marketed, advertising firms began to emphasize the pleasing aromas of their products. The smell-that-sells has stampeded the market, especially in the past five to six years.

Manufacturers now use smells to make their product different from competing products. Some advertising executives say that with many products so similar, fragrance promotion is the only technique left for use in selling consumer products.

upside down and glue it to the plate. Next, the large plastic bowl (again, Mrs. Snyder recommends a Cool Whip bowl) is glued on, facing upright. On top of this, a saucer is placed upside down and glued onto the bowl.

The piece of junk to follow next is a peanut butter jar lid. This should be glued on with the inside facing upward, so the grooves show. And, finally, an aerosol can lid with a center ring built on the inside is placed open end up on the top of the jar lid.

To create the effect of the opening through which oil is poured, a small bottle cap, similar to one that comes from an aspirin bottle, can be glued open end down to the edge of the saucer.

At this point, the junk lamp is completely assembled, but should be dried overnight before painting.

The paint color used is strictly a matter of choice, says Mrs. Snyder. Any color spray paint can be applied, but flat black is the most authentic-looking.

When the body is painted, the last touches to be added are a candle ring, a candle, and a hurrican chimney. Hurricane chimneys come in a variety of designs, some having a band of color or a design etched onto the glass. To insure that the globe fits securely on the top of the lamp, its base should fit tightly into the jar pid.

A candle is then placed inside the double center of the aerosol can lid. The candle can be almost any color, and can be one of a variety of widths. As long as it fits in the lid, it is usable.

A candle ring is then placed around the base. Mrs. Snyder suggests cutting the ring for ease in placing it around the bottom of the junk lamp.

xxx

While this procedure is the basic to follow, various combinations of jars and bowls can be used. The shape of the lamp desired determines the containers used.

One helpful suggestion Mrs. Snyder makes is to buy small cans of spray paint and then use the lids as the candle holders. Also, she notes that the first pieces of junk which become depleted are the plates and saucers. These, she says, can be purchased at various second-hand stores for as little as 10 cents a piece.

In total, the junk lamps take only a few minutes to construct, discounting the time it takes for them to dry, and the lamps make useful, attractive centerpieces.

Costs vary on each one, however. Depending on the type of candle and candle ring used, the junk lamp arrangement can range anywhere from expensive to cheap.

"I've bought candle rings that cost anywhere from $1.50 to $6, says Mrs. Snyder.

And, while she enjoys making junk lamps, she also has many other items which she handcrafts and sells. At Easter, for instance, she creates string Easter eggs which she fills with artificial flowers and different scenes, and at Christmas, she makes miniature Christmas trees out of thistles, among other things.

Her junk lamps can be made all year round, however, since the wreaths can be changed to vary with the seasons.

So, the next time plastic bowls start accumulating in your kitchen, get rid of some of the junk by making these clever lamps.

Longwood Gardens releases book

Longwood Gardens, Inc. has recently published a revised edition of the exclusive hard-bound text, Longwood Gardens. This 94 page book covers the circumstantial history of one of the most outstanding display gardens in this country, Longwood Gardens.

The famed industrialist, Pierre S. du Pont is largely responsible for the splendor of Longwood Gardens. He purchased the property in 1906 primarily to save an old arboretum from a lumbering operation. Originally 200 acres of farm and timberland, the property now includes over 300 acres of developed gardens, four acres of gardens under glass, and 700 acres of meadow and woodland. Its fountain system, landscaped grounds and conservatories rival those of the finest gardens in Europe.

The revised edition of Longwood Gardens is comprised of chiefly photographs, some of which are accompanied by excerpts from various sources. Eighty-six color illustrations reveal many of Longwood's most popular attractions, such as rare orchids of South America, waterlilies, the tropical terrace house, the fountain display, chrysanthemums in November, the Christmas display in the main conservatory and the acacia passage in February.

Longwood Gardens is located near Kennett Square, Pa., at the junction of U.S. Route 1 and Pa. Route 52. It is open to the public every day of the year, the grounds from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and the conservatories from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Rabies cases found

HARRISBURG - Seven rabies cases were reported in August, 1976, all of which were bats, according to the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Animal Industry. Two of the cases involved persons being bitten by the bats.

The counties of Berks, Bucks, Chester, Westmoreland and York each reported one rabid bat; Centre County reported two cases.

In Berks County, a child was bitten on the finger by a rabid bat. A woman was reported bitten by a rabid bat in Centre County. Both persons are now undergoing rabies treatments.

Since January 1, 17 rabies cases have been reported in Pennsylvania, all of which were bats.

Peachilicious Weekend draws 8000

Paul McPherson, president of the National Peach Council and sponsor of Peachilicious Weekend, helps a customer decide on a basket of peaches during the three-day peach festival.

By JOANNE SPAHR

GATCHELLVILLE — Cars kept pouring into the lane at Maple Lawn Farms, here, last week during "Peachilicious Weekend," until it got to the point where the president of the National Peach Council and sponsor of the event, Paul McPherson, had to get out and direct traffic.

"It was a little more than we'd expected," commented his wife, Gail, who was the coordinator for the three-day event.

In total, nearly 8000 visitors took advantage of the balmy holiday weather to get out and enjoy what McPherson had called, "the last chance for local consumers to capture the goodness of the fresh peach in 1976."

"We had cars where we never dreamed we could," says Mrs. McPherson.

During Saturday, the first day of the event, approximately 1000 people showed up; on Sunday, 3000 more came; and the crowd hit its peak on Labor Day with a grand total of 4000 visitors for the day.

Mrs. McPherson credits a lot of Monday's traffic to the 12-quilt auction sponsored by the York County Farm Women's groups, which was held in the afternoon. The proceeds from the sale are to go to the York County 4-H Center Kitchen Equipment fund.

"We started a year and a half ago on this project," explained Mrs. Ethel Gross, chairman of the project.

While the idea had been decided upon for quite some time previous to the sale, not all of the societies finished early.

"Some of them are hot off the quilting frames," the chairman had commented.

In total, the auction netted $2210, which Mrs. Gross thought was "pretty good, considering it was our first attempt."

The top two quilts sold for $300 a piece. One was "Americana," a red and blue cross stitch on white which also won first prize in the East Berlin Senior Citizen Quilt Show. This quilt was worked on by Groups 1, 6, and 26, and was purchased by Dr. Glenn Grove, York.

The other top seller was "Cathedral Window" made by Group 1. It was purchased by Mrs. Jessie Gross, York.

"Bicentennial," a golden eagle applique in the center of patchwork by Group 26 was the next lowest priced quilt at $270. A quilt made by Group 25 named "Trip Around the World," brought $250.

"Nine Patch," an old fashioned pattern made from scraps of new material and unbleached muslin brought $135. "Wreath Rose," an applique design by Group 17 brought $190.

One hundred and sixty dollars was the going price for "Granny Nine Patch," by Groups 1, 6, and 26, and "Ocean Wave," by Group 8.

"Butterfly," an applique by Group 27, brought $145, and another "Nine Patch" sold for $120.

A red and white stripe with a separate pillow cover by Red Lane Homemakers brought $100, and a single bed quilt by the Davidsburg 4-H Club made of a red, white, and blue combination of cross stitch and patchwork brought $80.

Officers named at NEPPCO-NEMA convention

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — Three Pennsylvania residents will be part of the slate of officers and board of directors who head up the Northeastern Poultry Producers Council (NEPPCO) and the Northeast Egg Marketing Association (NEMA), it was announced recently after a joint NEPPCO-NEMA convention held here. Hendrik Wentink, Wyomissing, is treasurer for NEPPCO for the upcoming year. Tom Trone, East Berlin, and Al Wenger, Rheems, will hold positions in NEMA. During an election at the convention, Trone was named to the board of directors and Wenger was named second vice president of the organization.

At the convention, standing-room-only crowds gathered to learn the art of hedging in the egg market, clever management tips, a variety of promotional gimmicks to boost retail egg sales, innovative marketing techniques and the forecast for feed and eggs.

It marked the 47th annual convention for NEPPCO and its first in conjunction with NEMA.

Completing the slate of officers to head up NEPPCO for the coming year will be Richard Stark, Walpole, N.H., president; Frank Baber, Cartersville, Va., vice president; and David L. Shetzich, Silver Spring, Md., secretary. Joining NEPPCO's board of directors are Isaac "Ike" Risser, Harrisonburg, Va., and Harry J. Muller, Syracuse, N.Y., both newly-elected to serve at-large.

NEPPCO's pension committee reported an earned interest rate of 9.3 per cent during the past year, far exceeding expectations.

NEMA's directors, meeting separately, placed a renewed emphasis on the objectives of United Egg Producers and on a fresh drive to increase its own membership in the New England and Mid Atlantic states.

Elections were held filling five seats on the association's board of directors. Directors who will succeed themselves are Jack DeCoster, Turner, Maine; John Ricca, Billerica, Mass., and David Wagner, Woodridge, N.Y. Besides Trone, there was one other newly elected member to the Board - Frank Dilanna, Cranston, R. I.

Other new officers of the association are Hank Simpson, Winthrop, Maine, president; Jack Decoster, Turner, Maine, second vice president; Morris Cohen, Hollis Center, Maine, treasurer; and C. A. O'Reilly, Hightstown, N. J., secretary.

The hundreds of producers and allied industrymen congregating from throughout the northeastern U.S. and eastern Canada, in addition to viewing the latest in poultry equipment and products, were given a variety of advice.

"Pseudo-science in place of research is generating costly and needless consumer and regulatory pressures on agriculture," the group was told by keynoter Allan Grant, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. He decried "a national epidemic of idiocy stemming from the consumerist movement, regulatory overreaction, the additive issue, the Delaney amendment, the flap over cholesterol and most recently, action by the Federal Trade Commission on egg advertising."

Triple winners at Buck

THE BUCK - Deutz 9006 tractors and Lester Houck, piloting a modified Cockshutt powered by two 440 Dodge engines, came away with all but one of the first places in seven classes of competition at the Buck Tractor Pulls, here, last Saturday.

The Deutz 9006 tractors, driven by Mark and Tim Stauffer of Ephrata, won the 5000, 7000, and 9000 pound super stock classes while Houck guided his rig to victories in the 7000 pound modified class, and both open classes. Following is a run-down of the results:

7000 super stock

1. Mark Stauffer, 2. Marlin Brubaker, 3. Tim Stauffer.

7000 modified

1. Les Houck, 2. Daniel Becker, 3. Greg Manners.

9000 super stock

1. Mark Stauffer, 2. Robert Riggs, 3. Marlin Brubaker.

5000 super stock

1. Tim Stauffer, 2. Jim Brubaker, 3. Dale Smoker

9000 open

1. Les Houck, 2. Galen Spickler, 3. Greg Manners.

5000 modified

1. Gary Mills, 2. David Becker, 3. Coleman Wheatley.

1. Les Houck, 2. Thomas Bedgar, 3. Robert Riggs.

There are about 270 million laying hens in America, including about 20 million which lay for breeding purposes. (There were 274 million last year.) All these hens, even the heavier hens that supply Boston with the brown eggs preferred [illegible], and some strain [illegible] standard Leghorn, four-pound Med breed.

"Americana," a blue and red cross stitch pattern on white background, was one of the two top selling quilts at Monday's quilt auction. The other was "Cathedral Window," which also sold for $300. All the proceeds from the sale will go to the York 4-H Center Kitchen Equipment fund.

Peachilicious

Mrs. McPherson noted that she and her helpers went through six large tubs of peaches and she estimates that about 40 pies, cut into eight slices each, were eaten.

Also, she approximates that 160 gallons of homemade ice cream were gone through during the event.

Ice cream and pies were only part of the peachy fare offered during the festival, however. There were also peach shortcake, make-your-own sundaes, peach punch, peachy hot dogs, and pork sandwiches.

The Pork Producers of York County held the pig roast for all three days of the event. It was such a popular item that the roast pork lasted only two hours the first day. The second day, a fresh ham was added to stretch the day's proceeds, and on the third day, loins were added. However, they nevertheless ran out all three days.

The McPherson peach orchard was also picked clean. Mrs. McPherson says, however, that some of the peaches dropped a day or two before expected, so not all of the fruit went into the visitors' baskets.

Twenty craftsmen also participated in the event by selling their peach-related wares in the display building.

Since promoting peaches in general was the main objective of the weekend, the

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

I'm sure every family has their own set of experiences to remember when moving their child to college - ours turned out to be rather frustrating.

We started a bit late as everyone had a few last minute things to attend to. Then, when we were on the road, Judy remembered she had forgotten to take my iron along. To slow things down, we ran into a half-hour delay in crossing the Susquehanna and traffic piled up for miles. Heavy equipment was parked on the bridge but the only evidence of work was one small patch.

Allen, who is the navigator on all trips, stayed home to work on a new roof for the barn. So, a wrong turn on the road to Penn State didn't help tempers any. We didn't stop to eat a picnic lunch as we usually do but only grabbed a sandwich in the car.

Since Judy had not received a needed receipt in the mail, she went to pick one up and waited 20 minutes in the wrong line because no signs were posted. She almost wished, at this moment, that she hadn't gone through the last few months hassel of transferring from Mansfield in order to switch from nutrition to food science.

The traffic was terrific in State College and when we finally arrived at her dormitory and parked to unload, we discovered that at the last minute they were sending her to the East Halls on a corner of the campus instead of downtown. (She had already been reassigned one week previously and had notified all of her friends about the address change).

Just at this awful moment, our son Jeff, a graduate student, appeared on his bicycle and to us looked like a knight on a white horse. He helped us find a parking spot to unload at the new dormitory and got us to relax with a cup of coffee and a bite to eat before starting the climb to the 4th floor with all the boxes of books, typewriter, hair dryer, radio, plants, suitcases, etc.

They say, "All's well that ends well." We did get home safely after a few wrong turns and just in time to dash to a 4-H meeting in Lampeter.

Sewing course offered

WEST CHESTER - A morning and evening course in Basic Sewing will be offered by the Chester County Cooperative Extension Service. The series will be held on Monday evenings from 7:30-9:30 p.m. on September 20, and 27, and October 4, 11, 18, 25. Deadline for registration is Wednesday, September 15. The morning class will be held from 9:30-11:30 a.m. on Wednesday, September 29 and October 6, 13, 20, 27, and November 3. Deadline for registration is Wednesday, September 22. The course is designed for the person who has little or no experience in sewing. Basic Skills taught include "how to 's' " in choosing pattern size, woven and knit fabrics selection and preparation, layout, and essential construction techniques such as seams, darts, facings, zipper and hems.

A course in Menswear "Making a Man's Knit Jacket" will be held on Thursday, from 9:30-11:30 a.m. on September 23, and 30, and October 7, 14, 21. Deadline for registration is Friday, September 17. Learn to sew a man's or boy's coat. The course will include simplified methods for tailoring the coat rather than the conventional tailoring techniques. A person with average sewing skills can master these easy techniques.

Learn to weave a seat for a cane chair. The series of four meetings will be held from 9:30-11:30 a.m. on Tuesdays, October 5, 12, 19, 26. Deadline for registration is Monday, September 20. Bring your chair ready to cane. The seat must have holes into which cane is woven. Refinishing of the wood should be done before the chair is caned. With your registration, send a piece of the old cane, or the measurement between two adjacent holes using front or back of chair center holes when measuring, plus the actual measurement of the hole in the cane weaving. Instruction book and cane are provided. A small fee is required for each course. Class limits are set, registration is handled on a first come, first served basis. All courses will be held at the Extension Office, Paul B. Dague Bldg. (3rd floor) 235 W. Market St., West Chester. For further information call 696-3500.

My Thoughts and Welcome to Them

(With apologies to James Thurber)

All of life's a circle
Sunrise and sundown,
The moon rolls through the night time
'Till the daybreak comes around.
All of life's a circle
But, I can't tell you why--
Seasons spinning round again,
The years keep rolling by.

Stephen Chapin

By JOANNE SPAHR

The lyrics to that song by Stephen Chapin really hit home to me at this time of the year By now, the Concord grapes have turned September purple and hang luscious on the vine, and the old-fashioned honeysuckle delicately scents the whole backyard. Already one of the fields of tobacco has been cleared, and the cluttered, messy looking remains of weeds, stalks, and leaves have been disced down so that the field lies smooth and level like a carpet just been cleaned.

And, now at night and early morning, there is that distinctive nip in the air that calls for a lightweight flannel shirt In essence, we've come full swing to Fall again

It's hard to imagine, but it's true Yet, I'm really glad that we, in Pennsylvania, experience these changes in seasons

For me, the passing of the summer into Fall has always made a distinct impression. It has been, and always will be, a signal - an instinctive call from within and a tug from without - saying, "Stop, look - the world is passing by. Notice it"

Somehow, it's always been so easy to let summer slip away because of the seemingly unending accelerating pace of all the work needing to be done. One day blends into another during the summer like colors in variegated yarn, until all of a sudden, the shades have passed from the brilliant yellow of Summer at its height to the blue of Fall. And, no notice was ever taken of the transition between the two.

But, it's times like last week, with its nippy weather, that signal me to look at the world and notice life taking place.

And, the things I see when I stop to look and marvel are simply beautiful.

Summer's batch of kittens have been born and are padding around in their "cute stage," inquisitive and hugable, chasing baler twine as I drag it across the stones.

The gorgeous brilliant orange-red zinnias in the garden nearly burst with color when the sun shines directly on them.

And the leaves on the trees are beginning to turn colors - just a shade - to warn that Fall is on its way.

There is no doubt about it, all of life's a circle, and I'm always glad to stop and notice it

Dairy heifers came dressed as ladies

TIMONIUM, Md. - Two "firsts" were established at this year's sixth annual 4-H Pretty Cow contest, held recently at the Maryland State Fair, here.

Kevin Smith, 12, of Jefferson (Frederick County) repeated his 1975 victory in the junior division to become the first two-time winner in the contest.

Laurence M. Johnson, 16, of Forest Hill (Harford County) was the senior division winner and grand champion. This year's results marked the first time in contest history that both division winners were boys.

Young Smith had been last year's grand champion with a Holstein heifer costumed as Barbara Fritchie, an historic legendary Civil War heroine in the Frederick area. Kevin had been dressed in the garb of a Confederate soldier.

This year, Kevin won with another Holstein heifer, "Jefferson View Elevation Lady," costumed as Martha Washington, while he was dressed as her husband, George. The match-up carried out the theme of Martha dressed for farm work on the Mount Vernon estate, while the "father of our country" was dressed for official duty at the nation's capital.

Johnson won grand championship honors with a two-year-old Brown Swiss cow. He and his cow carried out a "Laurence of Arabia" theme, with the cow costumed as a harem girl making her debut at the Maryland State Fair.

There were 23 contestants in this year's Pretty Cow event. This compared with 17 last year, and 21 and 26 sets of competitors, respectively, in the two preceding years.

Contest judge was again Mary Lou Cox of Pikesville. Miss Cox is misses' sportswear buyer for Stewart and Co., a Baltimore department store. She has also served for several years as a temporary executive secretary in the 4-H office at the Timonium fairground during state fair time.

ATTENTION: Cattlemen

Feed Bovotone 20-R

Fortifying brood cow rations is just as important and every bit as complex as fortifying feed lot cattle rations. That's why Vigortone developed Bovotone 20-R. This proven pre-mix assists the cow-calf man in providing the proper levels of nutrition so important to achieving an excellent calf crop and good herd health.

Bovotone 20-R for poor quality roughages

Bovotone 20-R has been specifically formulated to meet the needs of beef cattle consuming poor quality roughages such as weathered range grasses, corn stalk fields or other harvested field aftermath. Since these kinds of roughages make up the bulk of the brood cow's diet during the winter season, it's more important than ever to fortify them properly.

In additon to high levels of vitamins and minerals, Bovotone 20-R also contains live cell yeast culture. For year-around feeding, you can't beat 20-R.

Bovotone No. 70

During those periods of the year when grass tetany is a problem, feed Vigortone's Bovotone No. 70. This pre-mix contains a high level of magnesium. Unlike other products containing abundant magnesium, Bovotone No. 70 is highly palatable and easier to feed.

See your Vigortone serviceman soon for all the details on why more cow-calf men are feeding Vigortone pre-mixes — especially now.

Cathy Brubaker is looking forward to Chicago

Cathy models her denim outfit which has won her much acclaim and the chance to go to Chicago in November.

By JOANNE SPAHR

LANCASTER - Cathy Brubaker, 345 Running Pump Road, is leaving for Chicago on November 26 and she's not coming home until nine days later. During that time, she will be staying at the Conrad Hilton Inn with all expenses piad, and she may receive $800 on top of that, to boot.

Surprisingly enough, she hasn't won the Pennsylvania lottery or made her claim to fame on a T.V. quiz show. Instead, she's worked hard for every inch of this dream-come-true.

Cathy is Lancaster County's first 4-H seamstress to win in state competition, and thus represent Pennsylvania in the National 4-H Dress Revue during the National 4-H Congress in Chicago.

"I'm so excited to see it," she says, putting the emphasis on "so." What is the biggest draw for her is meeting 49 other girls from all the states in the union who "went through the same things I did."

Not overstating the issue, Cathy does admit that the competition to get this far was tough.

"We have excellent sewers in Lancaster County," she says, while mentioning that the competition was particularly stiff on the county level, but that the stress was more severe at the state competition.

"During states, I had to look my best and be at my best the whole time," she explains. And after a whole day's worth of being judged and standing in lines to be judged, it gets a little difficult to be perfect.

She explains her success by saying, "I just happened to be lucky. There were so many nice outfits, and I just happened to have the one that caught the judges' eyes."

Although Cathy fosters this realistic philosophy on competition and judging, she also knows that she spent countless hours perfecting her denim suit and that she did her best. So, when state competition came along, she just presented her completed project and "tried to be myself."

She obviously handled herself well, because after going through a battery of three professional judges - one for construction, one for fit, and one for modeling - and a group of 10 of her peers in "circle judging," she came out on top. Yet, she didn't believe it until she actually heard her name announced, because, although the top seamstresses had been announced on Tuesday night, their individual placings were kept a secret until Wednesday afternoon.

"I kept saying to myself, 'You are just lucky to have come this far,' and I tried not to get excited so that I wouldn't be let down," she remembers.

Now, as a result of her success at states, Cathy is preparing to go onto national competition.

But, surprisingly enough, she won't be judged on her garment at the dress revue in Chicago. Instead, she will be judged on a portfolio of herself which she has recently completed. The portfolio will consist of newsclippings of all her years in 4-H, a 2000 word essay about her 4-H experience, a completed National 4-H Report form, and three pages of correspondence.

"This is really a scholorship contest," she explains, "so we're not just judged on our projects."

The scholarships the girls in dress revue will receive are $800, and will be sponsored by Simplicity patterns. There will be six of these doled out to the top girls.

As far as putting her portfolio together is concerned, Cathy found some parts challenging and other parts easy. One that was especially difficult for her was remembering all her 4-H activities from the time she first became involved in the program.

"I've been in 4-H for nine years," she explains. "So, things from way back can get a little vague."

She began in the Landisville Sewing Club nine years ago at the ripe old age of nine. Then, a year later, she joined the Red Rose Beef and Sheep Club and took reserve champion honors at the southeastern district show by the time she was 11 years old. She has remained in both clubs ever since.

Last year she placed seventh in meats judging at Penn State during state competition.

"I had a different feeling during last year's competition," she says, reflecting on the past. "This year I had a project which I had already done my best on and there was little more I could do," she adds.

While she has excelled with her beef projects, she is not unfamiliar with success in the sewing field, either.

Two years ago she was an alternate in Lancaster County dress revue, and, during her senior year in high school, she took first place in the tailored division for the East Petersburg Women's Club sewing contest. After this success, she went on to county competition and took top honors in the student tailored division. The ensemble that took these top awards was a moss green-cranberry-navy cream plaid wool jacket with a coordinating solid moss green A-line skirt. She also made a purse to match.

She became involved with this competition through her home economics class at high school.

"My home ec courses have been a lot of help for me," Cathy admits. One of her

MUELLER

EXPLANATION OF THE REVOLUTIONARY NEW MUELLER "FRE-HEATER™" FOR THE DAIRY FARM

Bulk milk coolers on modern dairy farms remove heat from the milk promptly after it is produced. To accomplish this requires refrigeration machines and they are generally of the air-cooled type. Air-cooled condensing units literally "throw away" this valuable heat

On these same farms, large amounts of hot water are needed for "prepping" the cows, washing the milk cooler, the pipeline milker, other equipment, and the milking parlor itself. It is also advantageous to heat the cows' drinking water in winter

The Mueller Fre-Heater conserves energy and provides "free" hot water by capturing the heat now wasted!

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS:

Rather than using noisy, dust-creating fans with fragile, dirt collecting air-cooled condensers, the refrigerant is routed to a specially designed condenser/heat exchanger and its heat is transferred to the water.

A thermostatically controlled valve delivers 145° F water to the storage tank

In addition to the thermostatic valve, a mixing valve is provided to permit "prepping" temperature water

Thus, the Fre-Heater delivers two temperatures of water — prepping and washing

Tests indicate the Fre-Heater consumes 10% less power than an air-cooled system . . . and you get Free Hot Water!

ELIMINATES REFRIGERATION SERVICE PROBLEMS!

The most common causes of slow cooling in bulk milk cooling systems are related to the air-cooled condenser

Three things which frequently reduce the efficiency are

1. Poor air circulation and recirculation
2. Fan motor failures
3. Dirty or clogged condenser fins

Air-cooled condensing units are generally installed out of doors in order to assure adequate air supply to the condenser. This exposes the compressor to extreme ambient temperatures. Starting problems and compressor failures have resulted and air-cooled condenser units are always noisy

The Fre-Heater eliminates these problems because:

- There is no air-cooled condenser.
- The Fre-Heater is installed indoors
- There are no fans to generate noise.
- The head pressure is very stable — assuring longer compressor life.
- There are no cold weather starting problems, plus

. . . the Fre-Heater conserves energy and produces Free Hot Water!

'Polynesian Ham Dinner' top dish at state fair

TIMONIUM, Md. — The judges ignored the fact that it was the Maryland State Fair here at Timonium and chose a Claymont, Del., woman's "Polynesian Ham Dinner" recipe as the first place dish in the sixth annual Maryland Porkecue Cookoff recently.

For Flossie Cushing it was a sweet victory, since she was the only entrant from Delaware and was returning to the contest for the second time after spending the past year perfecting her recipe and cooking technique.

The Maryland Porkecue Cookoff, sponsored by the Maryland Pork Producers Association, in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Agriculture, drew a record number of entries this year from which the 10 finalists were chosen for the cookoff. A crowd of several hundred persons, many of them lured by the tempting aroma of cooking pork, viewed the contestants as they prepared their dishes over gas grills.

Finishing second was May Brown of Salisbury, Md., who prepared a dish titled "Pork Sub Surprise"; third place honors went to WBAL Radio (Baltimore) talk show host Alan Christian, who cooked up some old-fashioned western style "Frontier Pork Ribs;" fourth place went to Rosabelle Anos' "Phillipine Oriental Native Barbecue" (Baltimore); and fifth place was awarded to Ocean City Convention and Visitors Bureau executive director, Gary Fischer, who cooked a "Pork Feast."

The special "Chefing Award" for style and cooking showpersonship was won by a Montgomery County, Md., woman, Kathleen May of Kensington, who prepared a "Grilled Stuffed Pork Chops" dish without soiling or ruffling her crisp pink and white cooking station and ensemble.

The award winning pork recipes were:

POLYNESIAN HAM DINNER

1 thick (1-2 inches) ham slice - small canned ham maybe used
1 15-ounce can yams or sweet potatoes
1 13-ounce can pineapple chunks with juice

Wine Sauce:
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup Apricot wine+
½ cup peach halves or pieces
½ cup seedless raisins

Melt butter in small saucepan, add cornstarch and remove from heat. Stir until smooth; then, add other sauce ingredients. Place ham on large piece of foil (large enough to fold over and seal around ham). Pour wine sauce over ham. Place yams or sweet potatoes around ham and pour pineapple chunks and juice over top of ham. Fold foil over ham and other ingredients and seal so juice cannot seep out. Place package on grill or in 400 degree oven and cook for 30 minutes until the ham is good and hot. Serve with hot biscuits, mint peas, white rice and Apricot wine. Serves 4-6.

+Peach wine may be substituted for apricot if available.

Lettuce leaves

Marinade Sauce:
one-third cup olive oil
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 tablespoon dried oregano
1 tablespoon red table wine (dry)
½ teaspoon Accent (MSG)
Salt and Pepper

Cut pork into one inch cubes. Combine sauce ingredients, or mix in a blender. Pour over pork cubes and let marinate about 6 hours - overnight is best. Thread cubes on skewers leaving small space between each cube. Cook over medium heat on grill. Baste

Canning ignorance shown

HYATTSVILLE, Md. - One out of three American families canned fruit and vegetables at home in 1975, many of them using questionable procedures, according to a national survey conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

About one out of two households canned less than 50 quarts, while one out of four canned more than 100, and one out of 10, more than 200 quarts. Tomatoes were the most popular, with three out of four households canning this food, and one out of two households canning other vegetables, pickles, and fruit.

Twice as many households canned fruit and vegetables in the West as in the Northeast, and two to three times as many in rural areas as in large cities. Four out of five who canned in 1975 also canned in 1974, and only one out of 20 do not plan to can this year. Six out of 10 home canners said they got information on canning from friends or relatives.

The survey revealed that many people were not following procedures recommended by food scientists of USDA's Agricultural Research Service. For example, although most households used jars designed for home canning, one out of three also used peanut butter, coffee, and other kinds of jars, contrary to USDA recommendations. Most canners used two-piece lids with new flat metal disks; one in 10, however, were reusing some flat disks, a practice also contrary to USDA recommendations.

The open-kettle method of canning, recommended only for jellies and as an initial step in preparing jams before water-bath processing, was used by nearly half of those canning fruit and pickles, one third of those canning tomatoes, and one out of seven canning vegetables. Also, many home canners were filling jars too tightly, a practice that can result in underprocessed foods.

In addition, contrary to USDA recommendations, one out of five households were serving home-canned vegetables with no further heating.

Most home canners seemed to be aware of signs indictating spoilage in canned foods - bulging lids, leaks, spurting liquid when a container is opened, off-odor, and mold. Although deadly botulinum toxin may be present in improperly canned foods without any visible signs of spoilage, two out of five home canners thought there would always be some obvious signs if the food were spoiled.

About a fourth of those surveyed reported they had spoilage in home canned fruit and vegetables. While the survey did not reveal the actual causes, three out of four households thought it was due to lids that failed to seal properly.

ARS officials stress the need for home canners to follow reliable instructions to reduce the risk of spoilage and avoid illness. Such instructions are found in USDA home canning publications:

HG-8 - "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables"; HG-56 - "How to Make Jellies, Jams, and Preserves at Home"; HG-92 - "Making Pickles and Relishes at Home"; HG-106 - "Home Canning of Meat and Poultry".

classes in high school was "tailoring."

Besides 4-H and home ec projects, Cathy has done a large amount of sewing on her own. She has six brothers and one sister, and has had a hand in making the gowns and outfits for several of the weddings in the family. Plus, there are the run-of-the-mill requests heard by every seamstress.

"My brothers keep hounding me to make them shirt's and jackets," she says.

At the present time Cathy has a full-time job to save money for college. She's not sure what her major will be when she does attend in a year or so, but she "likes the farm a lot," so this will be sure to influence her decision. As a farmer's daughter, she has helped her father, Glenn Brubaker, work on the land they farm. Crops they raise are tobacco, barley, corn, and wheat, plus they run a beef and pig operation.

This summer, however, there has been little time in Cathy's routine for helping out. Between work and her 4-H activities, she's had a tight schedule. And, right not, she has her thoughts oriented to November 26 and Chicago.

As was mentioned, she will be judged on her 4-H career as a whole at the national convention. Just a few of the activities she will have listed are: co-president of Lancaster County 4-H Council, exchange delegate, meats judge, secretary of the Red Rose Baby Beef Club, past-president of the Landisville Sewing Club, and teen leader. And, that's only naming a few.

With this reputation behind her, Cathy will represent the county well in November

Use one half of sub roll for each serving - do not place a lid on top of pork. If using bamboo skewers, be sure to soak them in water 15 minutes before serving. Serves 3.

xxx

OLD FRONTIER PORK RIBS

Salt
Pepper
Juice from 1 lemon
1 chopped onion

Sauce:

1 teaspoon chili powder
1 tablespoon celery seed
one-third cup brown sugar
¼ cup vinegar
¼ cup Worchestershire Sauce
1 cup tomato catsup
2 cups water
1½ tablespoons liquid smoke
Few drops tabasco sauce

Combine sauce ingredients. Marinate ribs in sauce at least 24 hours. Sprinkle ribs with salt, pepper, lemon juice, and chopped onion on the open fire. When the ribs are brown, baste them with the balance of the mixture until the liquid has been absorbed and the ribs are done. Pork chops are also excellent this way. Serves 4.

xxx

PHILIPPINE ORIENTAL NATIVE PORK BARBECUE

1¼-2 pounds boneless pork meat or pork sirloin

Marinade Sauce:

1½ teaspoons soy sauce
¼-½ teaspoon teaspoon salt (according to taste)
¾ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
¼ teaspoon Accent (MSG)
1½ cups 7-Up

Cut pork meat into 1x2x½ inch cubes and place in a marinating bowl. Sprinkle with all the above ingredients adding 7-Up last. Mix thoroughly and marinate for at least an hour - preferably overnight. Put on barbecue sticks and cook on grill. Serve while hot. Serves 8.

xxx

PORK FEAST

3-5 pounds boneless pork loin roast
1 6-ounce can tomato paste

Marinade:

4 cloves garlic, minced and pressed
¼ teaspoon sage
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ medium sized diced onion
1 cup red wine
¼ cup vegetable oil
½ cup lukewarm water
2 tablespoons white vinegar

Combine marinade ingredients. Pierce roast about every inch and refrigerate in marinade for two to three hours, turning every hour and pressing gently to refill meat with marinade. There are two ways of cooking: on an outdoor grill with rack in high position, turning every 10-15 minutes for an hour and a half to two and a half hours (depending on size of roast); or on rotisserie until done. For basting sauce, break down the tomato sauce with marinade until catsup consistency. Baste lightly as each ¼ turn of roast is completed on stationary grill or about every half-hour on the rotisserie. Serves 6-8.

Broiler production up

HARRISBURG - Poultry production in the Commonwealth during the week ending August 28 continued its uphill trend, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service. Placements of broiler chicks were 1.514,000.

The placements were 19 per cent above the corresponding week a year ago and one per cent above the previous week. Average placements during the past ten weeks were 15 per cent above the comparable period in 1975.

In the key 21 poultry producing states, placements were 62,383,000. This figure is nine per cent above the same week last year, but one per cent below the previous week.

Average placements in the 21 states during the past ten weeks were 12 per cent above a year ago.

It is estimated that at least nine million hotel and motel keys are returned through the mail each year by forgetful travelers.

Solanco community made this fair

Next Tuesday marks the beginning of another fair season in Lancaster County, with the Solanco Fair kicking off the annual autumn festivities. The Solanco Fair, which has grown by leaps and bounds over the years, put up three new permanent buildings within the past 15 months and has more growth planned for the future. As in previous years, there'll be a lot going on the midway, show ring, and all around.

By DIETER KRIEG

QUARRYVILLE — "Bigger and better than ever" is an oft heard slogan which is frequently empty. But not so with the Solanco Fair.

Once again this year, as in just about every year since the fair began more than a quarter century ago, the fair is bigger and better than ever.

This, the 27th annual Southern Lancaster County Community Fair, is being held on grounds and within permanent structures which reflect the dedication of a community which wanted to work together towards a common goal.

Earlier this summer the Hoffman Community Building received its lettering, as shown in the picture accompanying this article. This building, which is named in honor of John C. Hoffman, well-known resident of Quarryville and former owner of the Lancaster Bone Fertilizer Company, was erected last year entirely through the funds and efforts of Solanco residents. Hoffman was a prime contributor to the cause, donating a sizable sum of money in memory of his late wife, the former Sara H. Fuhrman Hoffman.

A year ago there was just one livestock building. This year there are two. Like the other projects, the construction of this facility was a community effort. Directors and organizers of the Fair proudly point to this dedicated effort and voice their appreciation. Kenneth Rutt, who this year completes his tenth year of service as a manager of the Fair told LANCASTER FARMING on Wednesday that the community spirit and efforts have been extraordinary.

To make it perfectly clear that the efforts — in contributed funds, materials, services and labor — are not just for the Fair itself, Rutt emphasized that the facilities are to be used by the community throughout the year. He points out that the new exhibit building is the "Hoffman Community Building," not "Fair Building." As such, the facilities here are to be used for a variety of functions.

Local as well as county groups have taken the Solanco Fair Association up on the offer. The Hoffman Building and surrounding grounds have been widely used in the past year, particularly by local clubs and agricultural organizations. This Summer the 4-H and open dairy shows were held here, and there's no reason to believe that this would change in the immediate future. More recently, the Lancaster County Farmers Association held their picnic here.

A third barn has been considered by the Fair Association, which directs the community's efforts to come up with a bigger and better fair. But for the time being, the growth will stop. Considering its present limitations — both in terms of money and facilities — the Fair is not likely to expand a whole lot more in 1977. It's just about bursting at the seams now.

According to Rutt, more commercial space was sold this year than ever before. The 380-foot long tent which has perennially stretched along the grounds parallel to Route 74, (pictured in the right background on an accompanying picture to this story) has 745 feet of inside space sold in it. In addition, 1400 feet of outside space has been sold. Livestock exhibits have also grown in size, including the sheep show, which makes its second appearance here in as many years.

With further expansion plans temporarily at a halt, present efforts are being aimed at improvements. The Community Building, for example, is in need of insulation and heating. To attain that goal, a fund drive was kicked off late this week and officers of the Fair Association are hopeful that people will again be as generous this year as they were previously. The response last year was described as "excellent" by Rutt.

The Hoffman Community Building, which was designed for multi-purpose use as well as food service, serves as a sort of "centerpiece" or "gem" for the community's spirit and

More wheat goes to Russia

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The U.S. Department of Agriculture last week announced a sale of 275,000 metric tons (10 million bushels) of U.S. Hard Red Winter wheat to the Soviet Union for shipment during the 1976-77 wheat marketing year (June-May). Shipment will be after Oct. 1, and the sale will count against the U.S.-U.S.S.R. Long-Term Grain Supply Agreement.

The sale was reported to the department under its export sales reporting program which requires sales of 100,000 tons or more to a single destination to be reported to the department within 24 hours.

The sale announced last week brings total sales of U.S. wheat to the Soviet Union for shipment in the 1976-77 wheat marketing year to 2,054,000 metric tons (75 million bushels), and total sales of grain and soybeans to the Soviet Union out of the 1976 U.S. crops to 6.2 million metric tons.

Last week's sale brings total sales under the U.S.-U.S.S.R. Long-Term Grain Supply Agreement to 4,624,000 metric tons including 2,653,000 tons (104 million bushels) of corn and 1,971,000 tons of wheat (72 million bushels).

The agreement calls for the Soviet Union to purchase no less than 6 million metric tons of U.S. corn and wheat in approximate equal quantities for shipment each year (Oct.-Sept.) for a 5-year period beginning Oct. 1.

Needlework judged

VIRGINVILLE - A needlework contest held recently by the Virginville Grange had 35 entries. First place winner were as follows: Afghans - Marie Knittle; Sweater - Christene Mengel; Stoles - Helen Epting; Swedish weaving - Lillian Mengel; Tablecloth - Carol Kunkle; Edging - Esther Moyer; Pillow Case - Carol Kunkle; Doilies - Esther Moyer; Sampler - Doris Hill; Crewel Embroidery - Lillian Mengel.

Other announcements from the group are:

The next meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Sept. 15. On Sept. 19 the youths from the Grange will be serving spaghetti dinners to the public at the Grange Hall from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. The County Talent Elimination Contest will be held at the Fleetwood Grange Hall on Sept. 18 at 7:30 p.m.

James Springer Jr. and Charles Seidel were named the junior prince and mini prince, respectively.

Lungs tested free

LANCASTER - The pulmonary function testing, conducted by the Lancaster County Lung Association, will be held in the Association office, 630 Janet Avenue, here, on September 21, 1976. Hours are from 4 to 8 p.m. Cost is $2.00. An appointment is necessary and may be made by calling 397-5203.

This test is useful in diagnosing early symptoms of lung disease. Persons experiencing shortness of breath, prolonged cough and who are heavy smokers are advised to take the test.

Tests are interpreted by a pulmonary specialist and reports are sent to the family physician.

Available in our office is free literature concerning all lung diseases and a kit for the smoker who is sincerely trying to "Kick the Habit".

efforts. Much work and pride went into it, and continued attention is needed to have it be suitable for year-around gatherings and shows. Late this year, for example, the Fair Association, in cooperation with the American Cancer Society, will host a huge train display. It's slated to run between Christmas and New Year's Day.

The final point in all this work and dedication is that the entire community is to have all the facilities to enjoy. Every day.

"The community made this fair," a Fair Committee member said convincingly.

Hot food available

QUARRYVILLE - There'll be plenty of food at the Solanco Fair, the food committee people informed LANCASTER FARMING. On Thursday evening, for example, there'll be a special ham dinner served from 4 to 8 p.m. at a cost of $3 per person. And on Friday it'll be hot beef sandwiches. And there'll be more to choose from.

What makes it all possible are the new Hoffman Community Building and the staff of its kitchen which is equipped with commercial-size stoves, dishwashers, and counters.

Measuring 58 by 110 feet, the new building has enough seating space to provide meals for several hundred people at a time when none of the floor space is being used for exhibits. Nevertheless, the food will be there, and there'll be a place to eat it too.

Shidner wins steer wrestling

WOODSTOWN, N.J. - The Cowtown steers have been giving the rodeo cowboys a hard time for the past few weeks, and Saturday night was no exception. After the first seven cowboys had tried, but failed, Sherman Shidner of Sharptown, N.J., quickly threw a 650 pound horned steer in 12.4 seconds. Shidner won first money of $190.12 and was top money winner of the evening for a single event. Four steers were thrown with the second winning time of 30.2 made by Harry Gerhardt. Gerhardt is top contender for the steer wrestling trophie for 1976.

Kaye Kirby of Woodstown placed in four rodeo events and won first place in bare back bronc riding. Kaye is among the top 15 cowboys in the Atlantic Seaboard Circuit and presently qualifies for the national finals rodeo to be held in Oklahoma City, Okla. in December. Kaye won $135.24 with a mark of 72.

T. J. Hawkins of Miraloma, Calif., split first money in the bull riding event with Kaye Kriby. The score ws tied, each marking 60. Split money was $166.35 each.

Penns Grove cowboy Joe Merola roped and tied his calf in 12.4 seconds for $178.36. Merola has won the most money for the year in this event and stands to win the trophie for 1976.

The girl's barrel race was won by Joann Trost of Lebanon, Pa. Joann made fastest run of the season of 17.84 seconds for $166.60.

Cowtown will hold only one more rodeo this season. That will be held for the benefit of the Boy Scouts of America on September 25th. The rodeo trophie buckles will be awarded at that time. The beautiful silver buckles are engraved to depict each rodeo event and are sponsored by local businesses.

WASHINGTON - Cash receipts from farming hit $89.6 billion last year, with California, the leading state, accounting for nearly 10 percent of the total and the top 10 states accounting for 51 percent of the total. Receipts from crops totaled $46.7 billion; those from livestock, $42.9 billion.

Cattle and calves ranked first among commodities, accounting for $17.5 billion, or nearly 20 percent of the total . . . The top six commodities - cattle and calves, dairy products, corn, hogs, wheat and soybeans - accounted for nearly two-thirds of all cash receipts. . .

The top 10 states (in each commodity) accounted for two-thirds of all cash receipts from cattle and calves, 63 percent of cash receipts from dairy products; 80 percent of those for corn, 78 percent of those from hogs, 75 percent of the receipts from wheat, 78 percent of those from soybeans. . . The top six states accounted for 63 percent of broiler receipts; the top five states accounted for 70 percent of sorghum receipts.

Realized net income per farm ranged from $897 in West Virginia to $34,634 in Arizona and averaged $8,097 in West Virginia to $34,634 in Arizona and averaged $8,079. . . Total net income per farm ranged from $1,010 in West Virginia to $35,583 in Arizona and averaged $9,100.

Fair's parade route traced

QUARRYVILLE - The annual parade, a main attraction at the fair, here, takes place Friday at 6:00 p.m. The parade is to assemble just east of the Lancaster Bone and Fertilizer Company on the Fair parking grounds. Parade participants will be entering from South Lime Street since Park Avenue and Hess Street will be blocked for the formation of the parade.

The parade will leave the Park grounds and move north along Hess Street. It will then turn left on to Fourth Street and move west to the intersection where Routes 222 and 372 come together (West State Street).

Proceeding eastward along State Street, the parade will pass by the judges stand, which is located in the vicinity of Church Street. The parade will move along to South Lime Street and turn off to the Fairgrounds at Park Avenue.

The first prize float in 4-H, FFA, or FHA receives $20.00 while second place finishers receive $10.00. Other youth entries from the Solanco area receive $5.00. A total sum of $350.00 more will be divided among all parade winners except those mentioned above.

One of the most fragrant spices blended in incense, cinnamon was burned at the funeral of Poppaea, Nero's second wife. The city of Rome had to relinquish its entire annual supply for the show of grief.

TWIN-VACUUM PIPELINE MILKING SYSTEM
—WITH COW MONITOR

The ZERO CONCORD is a combination of a revolutionary pipeline milking machine and the ZERO Completely-Automated Vacuum Bulk Milk Cooler It's the only system that provides stable milking vacuum at the teat end — in parlor or stanchion barn — with a low or high, short or long, pipeline — and without injecting air into the milker units to move the milk Only with stable vacuum and no air injection can you hope to reduce leucocyte counts up to 65% — increase milk production as much as 20% — and prevent off-flavor milk

A patented, scientific principle . TWIN-VACUUM whereby one vacuum milks the cows — and a different vacuum moves the milk through a separate pipeline into the bulk tank—is what makes safe, stable vacuum possible Furthermore, ZERO's patented SPATTER-SHIELD Automatic Washer — and a new, improved, more-compact, high-capacity, transparent milker unit — provide built-in, "push-button", visible self-cleaning and sanitizing of the entire system — without disassembling And there are many other superior features

Solanco Fair begins Wednesday

QUARRYVILLE - Exhibitors will be moving into their display areas this coming Tuesday in preparation for the Solanco Fair, which gets underway on Wednesday. Although livestock judging is scheduled to take place Wednesday morning, the Fair isn't "officially open" until 7:30 p.m. that day.

New buildings and more exhibitors than ever before are expected to add to the excitement.

In addition, over an acre of outdoor exhibit space has been assigned. Those 52,000 square feet of space, along with 7,000 square feet under the tent, will allow for plenty of browsing by visitors.

Listed below are some of the major activities scheduled for the 1975 Solanco Fair, held annually at the Legion Park, near the Southeastern edge of town along route 472.

Vegetable data book available

WASHINGTON, D.C. - A new statistical bulletin summarizing U.S. fresh market vegetable statistics for 1949-75 has been released by the Economic Research Service (ERS) of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

This report covers a wide range of production, price, foreign trade, and other use data, including per capita consumption, and serves as a basic reference for the fresh vegetable industry.

Data are shown individually for 16 leading fresh vegetables. These statistics supplement the Vegetable Situation, published quarterly by ERS. The new bulletin will be updated every few years.

A copy of "U.S. Fresh Market Vegetable Statistics, 1949-75," SB-558, is availalbe free on postcard request (please include your zip-code) from Publications Services, Economic Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Room 0054-South Building, Washginton, D.C. 20250, or by telephone request (202-447-72550.

Last year there was just one barn like this at the Solanco Fair. This year there are two. Animals and exhibitors will be moving in on Tuesday.

PennAg cosponsors dairy seminars

EPHRATA - Pennsylvania dairymen are losing money to subclinical mastitis and inefficient feeding practices, according to Dr. Richard S. Adams, extension dairy specialist at Penn State. Adams and Dr. Larry Hutchinson, Penn State's newly appointed extension veterinarian, recently conducted a series of six regional dairy seminars to drive these and other facts home to dairy servicemen.

The one-day seminars were held throughout the state and were well attended, according to Adams. "In all, we had about 350 people at the meetings," he said. "We had a lot feed business people, veterianarians, farm lenders, vo-ag teachers, extension people, and other groups. The seminars weren't designed so much for farmers as they were for the people who serve farmers."

Co-sponsoring the seminars with the University was PennAg Industries Association, a trade organization of Pennsylvania agribusiness firms. PennAg's education committee, chaired by Kenneth G. Beachley of the Beachley-Hardy Seed Co. in Camp Hill, laid the initial groundwork for the seminars. The committee also suggested much of the program content, and the PennAg staff arranged for the facilities.

Adams said the meetings were well-received, and that there will probably be similar meetings either annually or every other year. Future seminars might focus on milking systems, housing, and farm business management.

The emphasis this time was on cow nutrition and health. Hutchinson told each of the groups that Pennsylvania dairymen are losing anywhere from 10 to 15 percent of their potential income every year to subclincial mastitis, the kind that doesn't show up in simple barn tests. He stressed the need for good milking procedures, sanitation, diet, and frequent testing for mastitis-causing organisms.

Another point brought out in the seminars was the advantage of free choice feeding of a complete ration. Adams said if a cow is offered a balanced ration, she will eat until she's had enough to fill her energy needs, then she'll stop

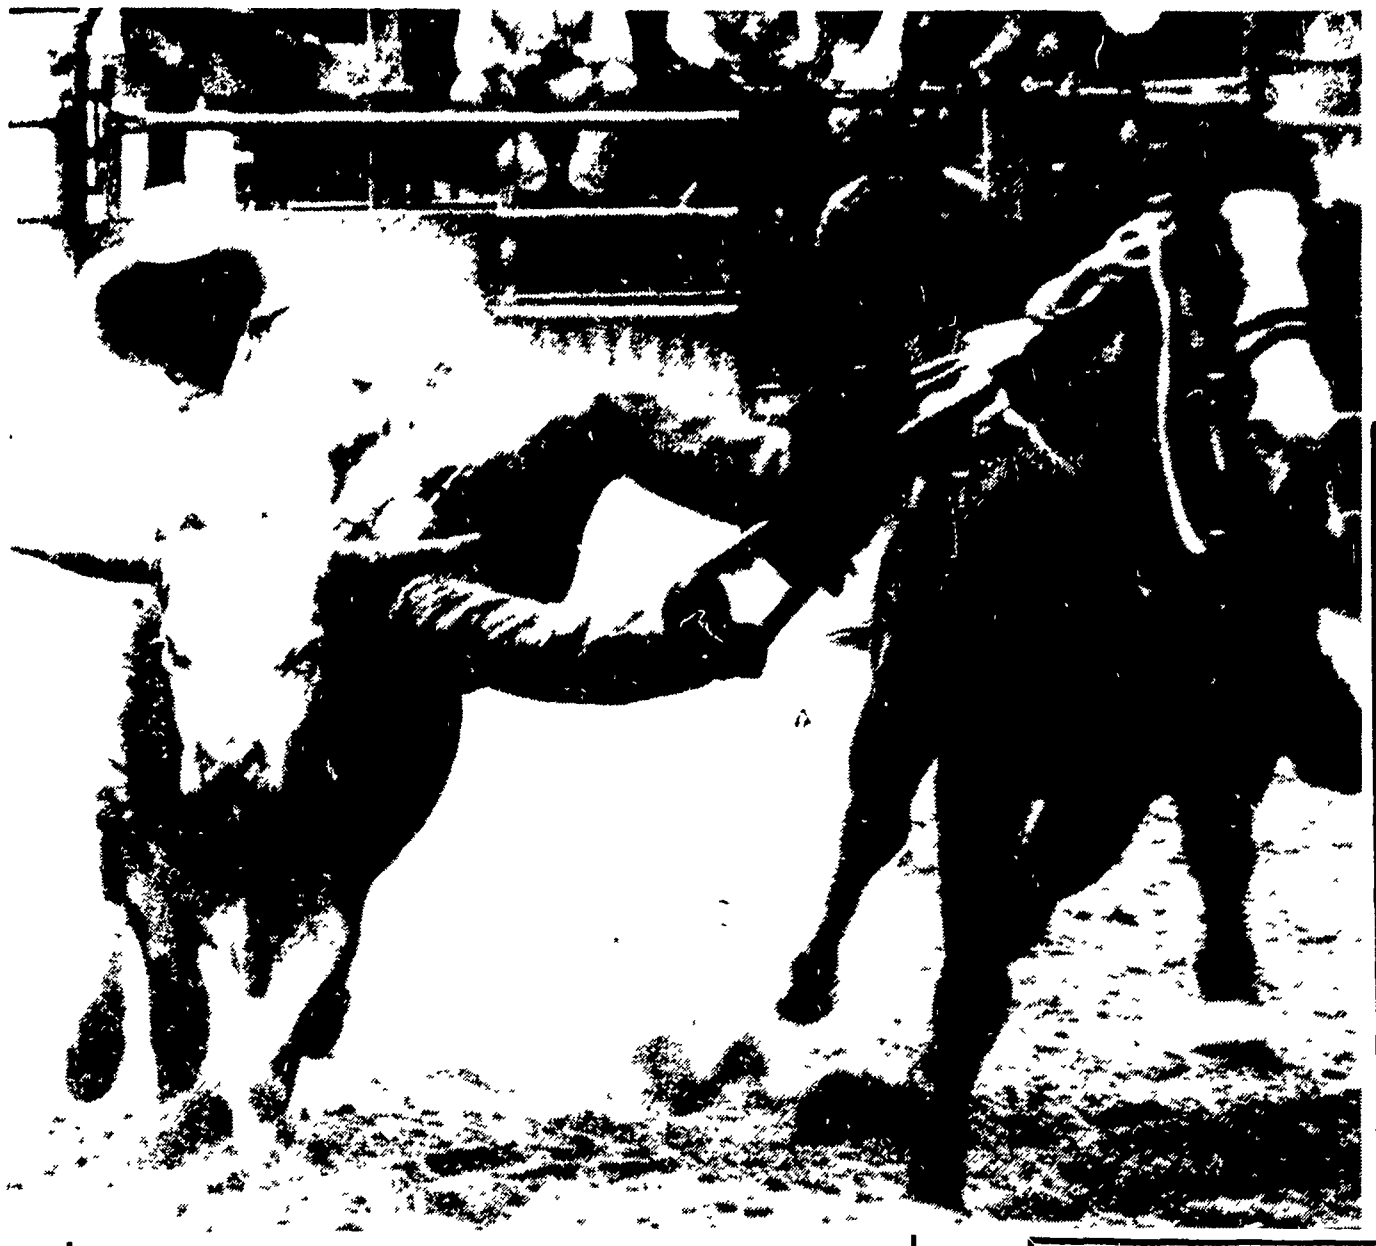
World championship rodeo comes to the Buck



In the rodeo horned steers are used for bulldogging and team roping. Bulldogging will be just one of the events featured at the Buck Tractor Pull stadium when world championship rodeo comes to the Buck.

BUCK - "Ride 'em Cowboy" is a unique slogan. It goes back to the late 1800's when riding and roping contests developed from practical ranch work. It can still be heard today in the rodeo arena as World Championship Rodeo comes to the Buck Tractor pull stadium, Sept. 18 for two shows - 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. The show is being produced by Keystone Rodeo Co., Inc., owned by Dave Martin, Menges Mills, Pa.

The International Rodeo Ass'n. of Pauls Valley, Okla., has approved the rodeo for world championship points. Sanctioned world championship events include: bareback bronc riding, wild brahma bull riding, saddle bronc riding, cowsgirl's barrel race, calf roping, steer wrestling, and team steer roping. Specialty events include: jr. bull riding (persons 15 and under), cowgirl's goat typing, and a calf scramble. The calf scramble is open to children from the audience, who pay a $2 entry fee to try to win a live calf. However, both parents must sign a legal release at the show.

Livestock for the show has been selected from all parts of North America. Some of the Brahma bulls were purchased from Walter M. Dunlap and Sons at Lancaster Stockyards. These bulls were brought up from Florida and destined for slaughter until Keystone Rodeo's owner Dave Martin purchased them and gave them a new lease on life as rodeo bulls.

Martin says, "It's not a bad life, considering they only have to buck for eight seconds each performance, and during the off season-Oct. till April-they do nothing but stand around and eat. I have some bulls that I purchased in Oklahoma and Texas that are over ten years old and still redeoing."

The bulls are fed a special 16 percent protein feed, commonly fed to dairy cows. One of the rodeo's feature attractions is Bonecrusher, A Hereford and Brahma crossbred bull from Texas, who is eight years old and

Trail ride planned

AUBURN - Marvin Moyer, Auburn R1, is preparing himself and mount, Lancer, for an upcoming competitive trail ride. The 25-mile ride is set for October 3, and will start in the Auburn Memorial Park, here.

The object of the ride is to acquaint riders with competitive trail riding and introduce them to the Schuylkill County countryside. The overall purpose is to stimulate breater interest in the breeding and use of good saddle horses qualified to make good mounts for trail use.

The ride is open to the first 40 entries of any breed or grade of horse four years of age or older, and riders must be at least ten years old. Completion patches will be awarded to all riders finishing the ride and prizes will be awarded to the winners in each division. Plaques will also be given for the best trail horse, best horsemanship, and best conditioned horse.

The deadline for registration is September 17. For complete details contact Mrs. Marvin Moyer, R1, Box 145, Auburn, Pa. 17922, or call 366-2054.

weighs in the vicinity of 1600 pounds. Bonecrusher has been bucked out a total of 174 times in his rodeo career, and only been ridden once for the qualifying eight seconds. The bull is known as one of the meanest and most unpredictable bulls in the world, but Martin's rodeo pens and portable arena are of all steel construction six feet high, and spectators have nothing to worry about.

Most of the bucking horses are bought at horse sales, where they are en route to slaughter for pet food because of their bad dispositions. They are tried out, and if they buck, the rodeo uses them.

Other livestock at the Rodeo includes horned cattle from the South and Old Mexico, which are stunted and are practically useless as feeder cattle. These horned steers are used for bulldogging and team roping. The roping claves are purchased as 200 pound vealers, and resold as 350 pound feeders when they are too big to rope, thus saving them from the veal markets.

When asked how he got into the business, Martin replied "I love animals and enjoy working with them. I competed as a bull rider and saddle bronc rider for six years. I was sixteen when I started, and I know the good Lord was with me from the start, and He still is.

Today the giant egg farmers are often diversified, operating grain, feed and broiler (eating chicken) divisions, too. The smaller egg farmers have become contract producers, keeping their land and buildings, but raising chickens and eggs for the larger operators.

Known as one of the meanest and most unpredictable bulls in the world, "Bonecrusher," a Hereford and Brahma crossbred bull from Texas, attempts to throw his rider. "Bonecrusher" is one of the feature attractions of David Martin's rodeo.

Weaver is candidate

NEW HOLLAND - Delmar Lee Weaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Weaver, New Holland, has had his name submitted as a candidate for the American Farmer (Agricusiness) Degree. Weaver is a 1973 graduate of Garden Spot High School and a member of the Grassland FFA chapter.

Delmar L. Weaver

He is one of 747 members that have been recommended by their respective state FFA Associations to receive the American Farmer Degree.

During his school years, Weaver carried out a farming program consisting of veal calves, market hogs, chickens on contract, corn, and three dairy animals.

Since graduation, he worked on the home farm before being employed by Leon Hess of New Holland as a salesman for farm animal health and nutrition supplies, as well as seeds. Weaver has combined both an outstanding supervised farming program and a successful occupational experience program to earn his American Farmer Degree in the Agribusiness area.

Weaver's strong program and many activities made him runner-up to Lynn Groff as Star Agribusinessman of Pennsylvania.

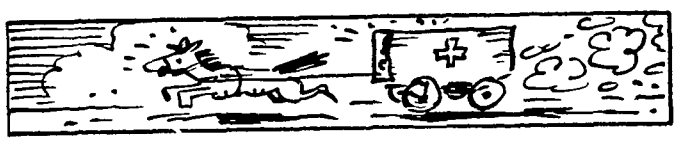
Novel nursery idea successful

No, Mother Nature didn't come up with this novel idea of growing ornamental plants in containers hanging from wires suspended between trees. It's a new approach conceived by Miles Fry, nationally known nurseryman in northern Lancaster County, near Ephrata. This is the first year the idea has been tried, and so far all has gone well. Close to 200 visitors recently found the display of special interest while touring the Miles Nursery on a field day. It was attended by specialists from Penn State and nurserymen from several states, as well as the immediate area.



The ambulance was first used in 1792 when Baron Dominique Jean Larrey devised a specially built vehicle to carry wounded men from the battlefield Larrey was Napoleon's personal surgeon.

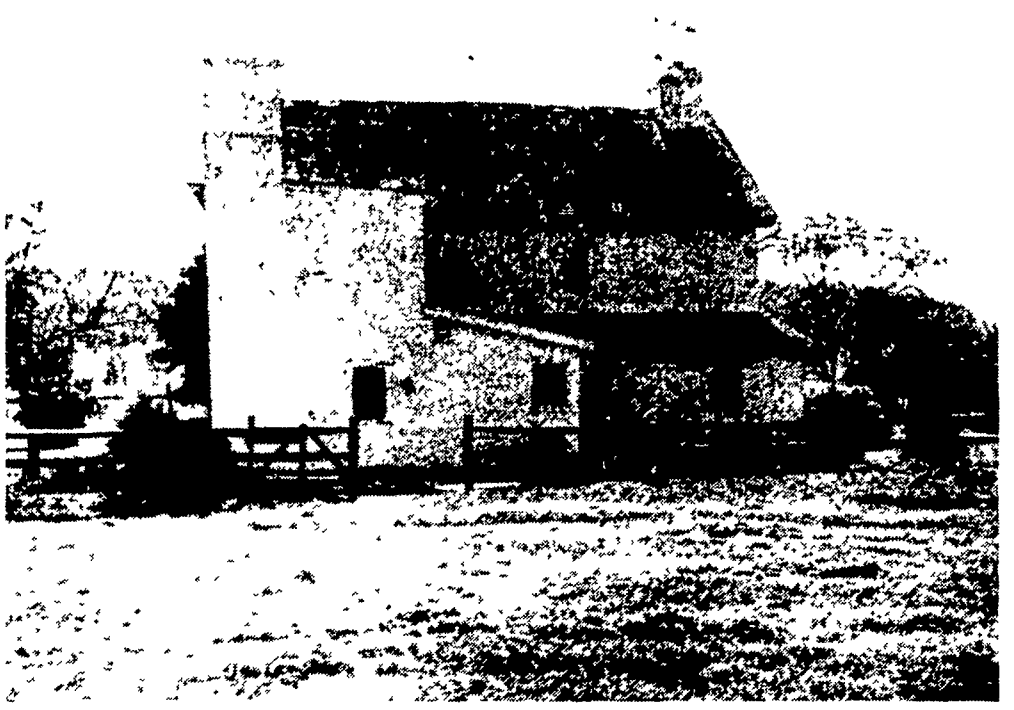
Bicentennial farm

The Kenneth Skiles family moves into the future by building onto and improving the past

Fireplaces are one of the distinctive features of the Skiles homestead. There had been five in the house at one time, but at present, the family is only using three. Here, Mrs. Kenneth Skiles points to an old and valued piece of needlepoint made by a Skiles ancestor.



The chimneys are as distinctive a feature of the outside of the house as the fireplaces are on the inside. From the back of the house it is easy to see why Kenneth Skiles says that a grown man is able to move about on the inside of the chimneys with little trouble.

CAINS - The Kenneth Skiles family, Narvon R2, likes to move into the future by building onto the past. This is evident in both their farming operation and their home. After Skiles purchased the farm from his father four years ago, he and his family began remodeling and restoring the farmhouse which has been in the same family for over 100 years. As a result of this refurbishing, they found that their home was a living lesson in the history of architecture, and, as a result, the whole family became involved in its past.

As far as Mrs. Skiles can tell from studying her "drawer full" of deeds that have been passed down and have come into her possession, the house dates back to 1734 when it was part of a 175 acre Messuage plantation. At that time it was sold for 50 English pounds, or $87.50 in today's currency.

"What is now the family room was actually the whole house at that time," Mrs. Skiles and her husband clearly explain. "The house has been added onto three times since then," they note.

A quick tour around the 1734 house turned 1976 family room reveals thick, two-foot stone walls, the ghost of a walk-in fireplace, and a rearranged open fireplace located near the center of the room on a diagonal.

"Those chimneys were wide," explains Skiles. "A fully grown man could easily climb up and down in them."

All told, the original house - after two additions and before Skiles added the third had five solid stone chimneys. Through the years, however, the number has whittled down to three.

"Everyone of them works, though," says Skiles with pride.

One of the three was moved to a more convenient place in the family room and one was built where a walk-in had been, but all three remain connected to the original flues.

Fireplaces are not the only objects of interest in the Skiles home. Several of the doors also carry a legacy with them. The door into the family room was, and is, an "Indian door." Made to keep the Indian arrows from breaking the panes of glass in the upper part of the portal, a front panel was built onto it which slides up and is bolted into place over the glass.

What is really amazing, yet true in most cases of family history, is that Skiles never even knew the extra panel on the "Indian door" existed.

"I lived here for 40 years and didn't know it until we started working on the house," he says almost incredulously.

The first addition to the house which, as far as the Skiles can tell, was built around the 1800's, possibly 1804-1816, has another fascinating entryway into the house. This door, similar to one Mrs. Skiles has seen at the Edward Hand House in Lancaster, is double thick with six-inch boards nailed horizontally onto the inside of the door with homemade nails.

"That hinge is pretty unique, also," points out Skiles as he shows the handmade hinge which runs almost the entire width of the door.

Another fascinating aspect they found when they were wiring for electricity in the house is that the molding on another door in the first addition isn't really molding. Instead, the entire door was carved out of a huge slab of wood, including the molding.

"The carpenter told me to take the molding off so he could wire," explains Skiles, "but I realized I couldn't get it off - that it was all one carved piece - so I knocked a hole in my wall rather than ruin the door."

This door, as is nearly every old door into the home, is pegged into place.

Another interesting feature of this initially added section of the house is a built-in corner cupboard. While the Skiles family assures that it can be removed, it would take a lot of work because of the chair railing which is built around the entire room. It appears that the carpenter intended the cupboard to stay, because he ran the railing around the room and over the cupboard, thus pinning it to the corner, in a sense.

The railing brings up another interesting facet of the house. Since it was added onto at various intervals of history, different styles of architecture were in vogue at different times. So, only one area of the house has a chair railing, for instance, because it was only in style during one particular era.

At present, this section of the house is painted with a whitewash-type of paint to simulate the original appearance of the house. Before the Skiles family began remodeling, however, the rooms had been wallpapered Mrs. Skiles did all the labor of removing the paper, herself, and when she did, she found royal blue stenciling underneath it on the bare walls

"From the stenciling we are able to figure out the age of the room," she details. "Back at that time, stenciling was a poor man's wallpaper."

Skiles goes on to explain that a professional stenciler rode around the country on horseback, doing his work wherever he could obtain it. And, although, it is called a "poor man's wallpaper", the Skiles family feels that it was probably a privilege of the prominent.

This room also has one of the two chimneys set on a "V". The other is now blocked up and used for the heating system.

Although the Skiles family did a large amount of restoring, they didn't restore every part of the house. Instead, they added some modern features, such as a new kitchen for Mrs. Skiles. They refer to this change as "our addition."

"Ours isn't very large, though," says Skiles with a grin, "only 9 x 11 "

They also closed in a porch which Mrs. Skiles now uses for her laundry.

It may seem like a paradox to go to all the trouble of restoring a large portion of the house to its original state and then changing and modernizing another section, but the Skiles have an answer to that.

"To comfortably live in a house," they explain, "we feel you need modern, easy to care for, working conditions." So, the kitchen is an outgrowth of that philosophy.

The Farm

The farm, itself, has the same type of history of growth and development as the house. Although it came down to the Skiles through a maternal line, its history is simple to follow.

Only two family lines have lived on the property since its conception. The second line to own it was the Reesers, and Skiles is a descendent of this line.

John Reeser first purchased the property in 1840. He had 10 sons, one of which was Samuel. After 48 years of working the soil, John passed the farm down to

Price index dropped

HARRISBURG - The August 15, 1976 Index of Prices Received by Pennsylvania farmers decreased two per cent from the previous month, but was three per cent above a year earlier, according to the Crop Reporting Service.

Lower prices for food and feed grains, hogs, slaughter cows, and lambs more than offset slightly higher prices for milk cows, calves, steers and heifers, sheep and poultry. The purchasing power of prices received was one percentage point below July and two percentage points below a year ago.

Nationally, the Index of Prices Received decreased four per cent from both July and a year ago. Contributing most to the decrease were lower prices for meat animals, feed grains, oil-bearing crops, and food grains. Higher prices for fruit, milk, eggs and vegetables were partially offsetting. The purchasing power at the U.S. level was three percentage points below last month and nine percentage points below a year earlier.

Bossie travels in a big way

U.S. exporters of dairy cattle will have to scramble if they hope to top last year's successes.

During calendar year 1975, the number and value of animals shipped, as well as the number of importing countries, all reached record highs.

USDA issued health certificates for roughly 73,000 dairy breeding cattle for export last year, compared with about 58,000 in 1974. Valued at an estimated $58 million, the animals traveled to 57 countries in 1975, three more than a year earlier.

North American countries proved the biggest customer when, paced by Mexico and Canada, shipments shot up 65 per cent to over 50,500 head. But North America's share of total U.S. dairy exports slipped from 75 to 69 per cent.

The Middle East picked up some of the slack, with purchases vaulting 553 per cent last year to nearly 10,000 head. Inspectors okayed 9,200 dairy cattle for transport to Iran, but actual shipments may have run slightly less. In some cases, health certificates expired due to delays in air shipments.

Shipments to South America climbed more than 150 per cent to 4,200 animals, while European importers upped their purchases slightly to around 6,300 head.

Meantime, exports to Asian nations skidded by more than half to around 2,000 head, and fewer than 500 animals touched down in Africa, compared with 824 the year before.

In a breakdown of who buys what, Canada came up the No. 1 customer for two of the five breeds exported. All but six of the 201 Ayrshires leaving the States came off the ramp in Canada, as well as three-fourths of all the Guernseys shipped. Mexico corralled the most Holsteins, Jerseys, and Brown Swiss.

The most exported breed in 1975? Holsteins, with a record 67,000 of the 73,000 animals shipped. Jerseys also chalked up a record sales year, accounting for 1,050 head.

Forty-two States had a hand in last year's shipments. Wisconsin led the country with over 16,300 head, and California placed second with close to 12,700. Exports of 6,000 animals put Minnesota in third place, followed closely by Texas, with 5,400 head.

Waterfowl seasons set for Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG - Waterfowl seasons and bag limits for 1976 have been established by the Pennsylvania Game Commission within frameworks set up by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

There will again be split seasons this year on both ducks and geese. Canvasback or redhead ducks can be taken for the first time since 1971, bonus scaup can be taken on Lake Erie and Presque Isle Bay throughout the entire duck season, and hunters will again be able to harvest both snow and blue geese.

The initial season for ducks, sea ducks, coots, mergansers and Canada geese will open at noon on October 13. The early season on ducks, coots and mergansers will end at sunset on November 20, while the early season for Canada geese will end on December 4.

The second season for ducks, sea ducks, coots and mergansers will open at noon on December 1, and close at sunset on December 11. The second season for Canada geese will open on December 30, and close on January 15.

The season for snow and blue geese will open at noon on October 13, and close at sunset on November 11.

No hunting will be permitted for any migratory waterfowl before noon on October 13, and hunting will be prohibited for ducks, coots, sea ducks and mergansers before noon on December 1.

Depressed populations of brant have led to a closing of the season on these birds in 1976.

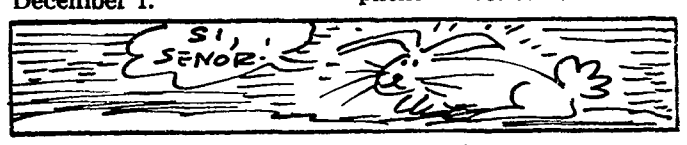
Hunters interested in applying for goose blinds at the Middle Creek Wildlife Management Area in Lebanon and Lancaster Counties or at the Pymatuning Waterfowl Area in Crawford County should note that the opening day of waterfowl hunting at Middle Creek will be October 14, and waterfowl hunting will begin at Pymatuning on October 15.

The daily bag limit for ducks will again be four, with a possession limit of eight after the first day. Hunters this year may again take 15 coots daily, with a possession limit of 30. The 1976 bag limit on mergansers remains at five daily and 10 in possession.

Three Canada geese may be taken per day, except in Crawford County (including the Pymatuning Waterfowl Area) and at the Middle Creek Wildlife Management area in Lebanon and Lancaster Counties, where the daily limit will be one. The possession limit on Canada geese will be six after the first day of the season.

A gunner may not take more than two wood ducks per day, and he may not have more than two woodies in possession at any time after the opening day.

For additional details, hunters should contact the Pennsylvania Game Commission in Harrisburg, phone 717-787-3745.



The word "Spain" comes from an ancient term meaning "land of rabbits."

"Indian doors" were used to keep the arrows from breaking the windows in farm houses. A front panel slides up over the panes and is bolted into place as a form of protection.

Skiles

Samuel. Samuel then tilled the land until the early 1900's when he passed the legacy onto his only child - a daughter, Elizabeth Reeser.

At this point, the Reeser name stops and the Skiles name begins, because after Elizabeth married Amos Skiles, enough sons were born to perpetuate this name.

Actually, Amos Skiles had only one son, Samuel, who is Kenneth Skiles father.

Because Samuel was the only son of Elizabeth and Amos Skiles, he was a direct heir to the property.

"But that is where the "passing down" tradition stops," notes Kenneth. "Since I have a brother, I purchased the farm," he continues.

That was four years ago, the same time the family began the remodeling.

At the present time, the farm, like the house is undergoing change Consisting of 113 acres of mostly corn and alfalfa and a 60-cow dairy operation - mostly registered Holsteins - , it is about to become the object a partnership. Skiles' son Jere, who went to dairy herdsman trade school in Wisconsin, would like to go into business with his father, and they hope to be able to do it by next year.

Also, the Skiles family is now in the process of building a new dairy barn.

So, just like their house, the Skiles family farming operation moves into the future by building onto the past.

Mrs. Kenneth Skiles shows one piece of a doll tea set that belonged to her husband's grandmother, Elizabeth Reeser Skiles. The set was brought all the way from Philadelphia in a stagecoach. The dishes are kept in a built-in corner cupboard, one of the many architectural nuances of the farmhouse.

Jeff Rexroth of Red Lion FFA took the reserve senior champion Jersey honors at the South Central District Dairy Show held at the South Mountain Fairground, recently.

Red Lion FFA takes honors

RED LION - The Future Farmers of America from the Red Lion Area Chapter won several awards at the South Central District Dairy Show held at the South Mountain Fairgrounds, recently.

Members came home with grand champion and reserve champion Jersey. They also won grand champion Brown Swiss and Guernsey.

Rohrbach has champion hog

LEESPORT - Allan S. Rohrbach, Shoemakersville R1, owned the grand champion hog sold recently at the Berks County 4-H Market Swine Sale held at the Leesport Market and Auction, here.

The Duroc-Crossbred sold for $1.75 a pound, weighed 240 pounds brought a total of $420. The animal was purchased by Hatfield Packing Company, Hatfield. Rohrbach belongs to the Virginville 4-H Dairy and Swine Club and is the 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Rohrbach.

The reserve grand champion was also owned by Rohrbach, and was another Duroc-Crossbred. This animal weighed 260 pounds and sold for 75 cents a pound. Its total value was $195, and was purchased by Hatfield Packing Company.

In total, there were 18 4-H members participating in the sale with 30 animals sold. The total weight of the animals was 6,360 pounds and the average weight was 212 pounds. The average price for the sale, without the champions, was 53 cents a pound.

Other buyers of the 4-H animals were: Ralph W. Zettlemoyer Auction Co., Ben Martin, livestock dealer, Kenneth E. Miller, James Hughes, Shirley's Lunch Counter, Yoder's Meat Market, Dan Good, Livestock Dealer, Lynn Schwalm, Leesport Market & Auction, and Clark's Packing Company.

Recipe

Savory Pork - Stuffed Peppers

1½ pounds ground pork
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 can (10¾ ounces) cream of celery soup
1 can (7 ounces) whole kernel corn, drained
1 medium onion, finely chopped
3 large green peppers
6 tomato slices, cut ¼ inch thick
Salt
Parmesan cheese

Lightly brown ground pork in large frying-pan; pour off drippings. Sprinkle salt and pepper over meat. Add celery soup, corn, and onion and cook slowly 10 to 12 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cut green peppers in half lengthwise and remove membrane and seeds; cook in boiling salted water for 2 minutes; invert and drain thoroughly. Fill pepper halves with meat mixture and place on rack in roasting pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 15 minutes. Sprinkle salt on both sides of tomato slices and place on top of stuffed peppers. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and bake 15 minutes longer. 6 servings.

IH unveils new tractors

CHICAGO - More than 5000 International Harvester dealers and company representatives from all across the world welcomed the introduction of a new line of equipment here last week. Their enthusiasm for the new "Pro-Ag Line" was highly evident.

But today is the day they have really been waiting for. They can take the wraps off the new tractors and proudly show them to their prospective customers.

The new series "86" tractors, with their integral "control centers" stole most of the show here at the McCormick Place and at a nearby research facility where farm publication editors were given a chance to drive the new machines. But there was more to be seen than tractors. Significant engineering changes have been introduced in the IH line - such as corn planters, forage harvesters, tillage equipment, and servicing techniques.

In introducing the new lines to dealers and members of the press, IH devoted much of its time to emphasizing service and product availability. Computerized terminals will locate parts anywhere in the country almost instantly. If not on hand at one particular dealer, it will be ordered while the customer is waiting in the lobby, and shipped the same day.

Repairs have always been a potential bottleneck in keeping the farmer at his most productive level. Recognizing that, the brass and engineers at IH have made an all-out effort to speed up and simplify repairs. This is one major reason the control centers or cabs on the new "86" tractors have been designed to be a part of the entire tractor. Any repair job can be accomplished without removing the cab. Specially

One of the new developments in plows is a unique trip-bottom being introduced by the International Harvester Company. A company representative demonstrates how a bottom can be manually "tripped" and fixed into a position which makes changing plow shares a little easier than it used to be. The bottom requires a pressure of 5000 pounds to be tripped while plowing, but is so simple that a child can trip it manually. Backing up is not required to re-set it, and it has no complicated springs, hydraulics or other mechanical devices.

Will your feed efficiency measure up to Mol-Mix?

To any cattleman, whether he's a feedlot operator or a cow-calf man, feed efficiency is the name of the game.

But mere supplementation may not be the whole answer. If you choose an inferior brand, you may just be wasting your money.

Mol-Mix liquid feed supplement contains extra "performance oriented" ingredients that many others don't have. Things like: phosphoric acid, ammonium polyphosphate, corn distillers solubles, and condensed fermented corn extractives. A feed supplement, as with any manufactured product, is no better than the quality of its construction. You get what you pay for. Mol-Mix is made with the best ingredients available.

It's just an out and out fact that Mol-Mix will make more net profits for you. Some have reported as much as $5.00 return for every dollar invested in Mol-Mix.

Stop in at your Mol-Mix dealer and find out how. He may just have a nice surprise for you.

QUALITY INGREDIENTS MAKE A QUALITY PRODUCT.

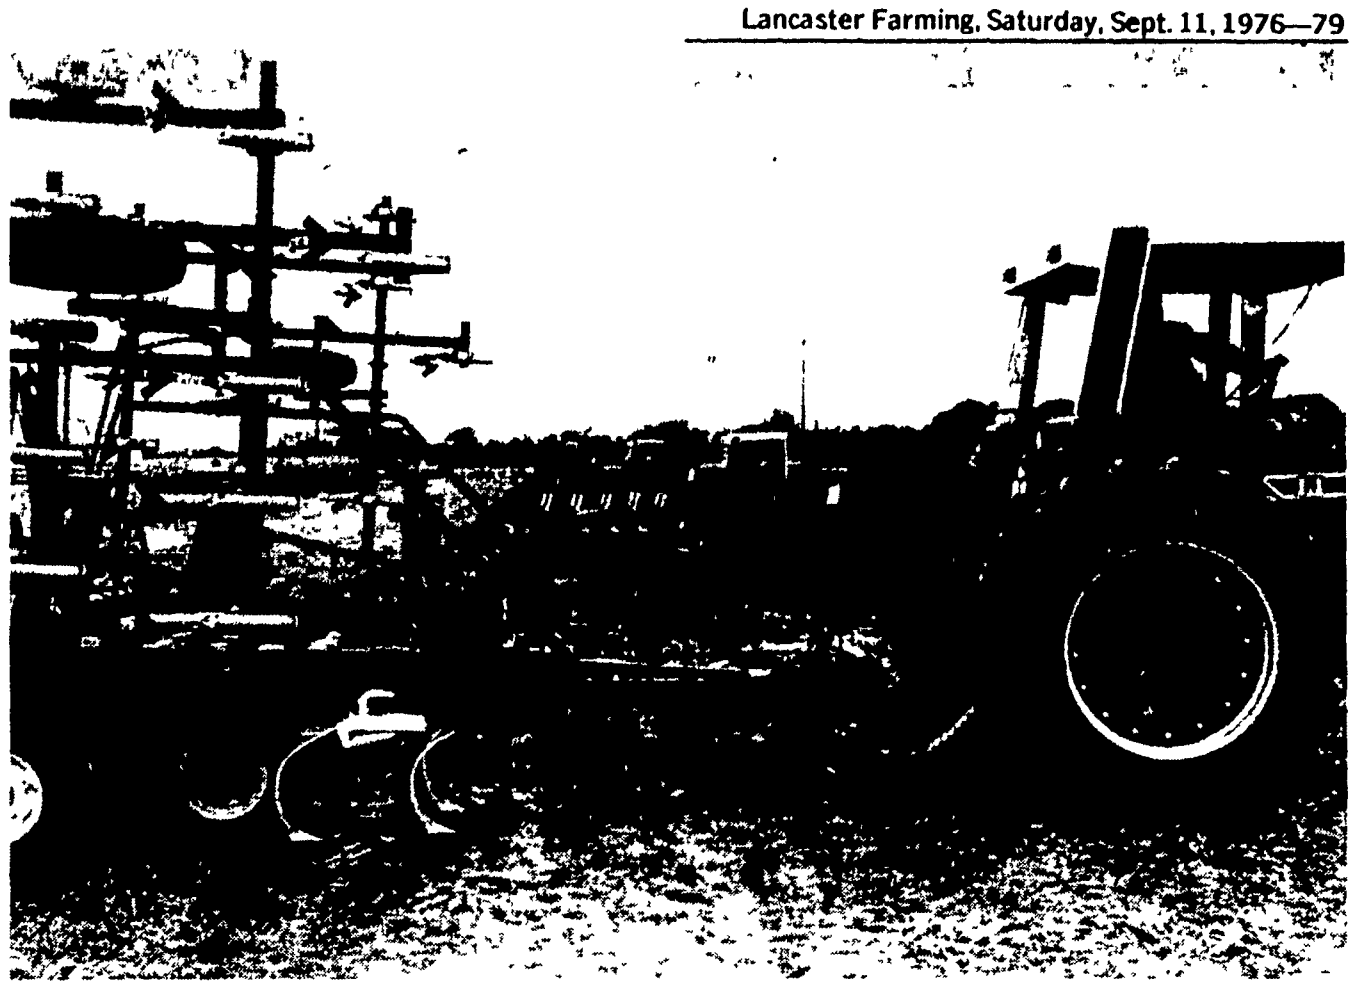
designed apparatus allows a serviceman to split the tractor in several places with minimum effort, and in comparatively short periods of time.

The "control center," as IH insists their cabs be called, was moved 18 inches forward to give the operator a better view and a more comfortable ride. These features in themselves gave the men with the red hats and jackets a lot to blow their own horn about and they're convinced it will put them in a more competitive position than they've enjoyed in recent years.



Field demonstrations were a part of the show at International Harvester's research facilities near Chicago. Here the new series "86" tractors were hitched to a variety of tillage and forage equipment.

"The Age of Agrarius" was recently ushered into existence during the presentation of International Harvester's new line of equipment. Leading the list of the company's new series "86" tractors is this model 4586. The pre-view, which came 10 days prior to the lifting of the tarps at dealerships across the country, was held at McCormick Place in Chicago.

Behlen lifetime corn crib

You'll never have to replace this crib because it's made to last a lifetime. Hot-dip galvanized with no exposed weld spots to gather rust! Your Behlen crib will stay perfectly in round throughout its lifetime. Horizontal bolt hookups and heavy 4-gauge bar-mesh steel panels resist strong winds, empty or full.

And the Behlen corn crib can be erected in just one day. A Behlen is your answer to storage from 697 to 1684 bushels.

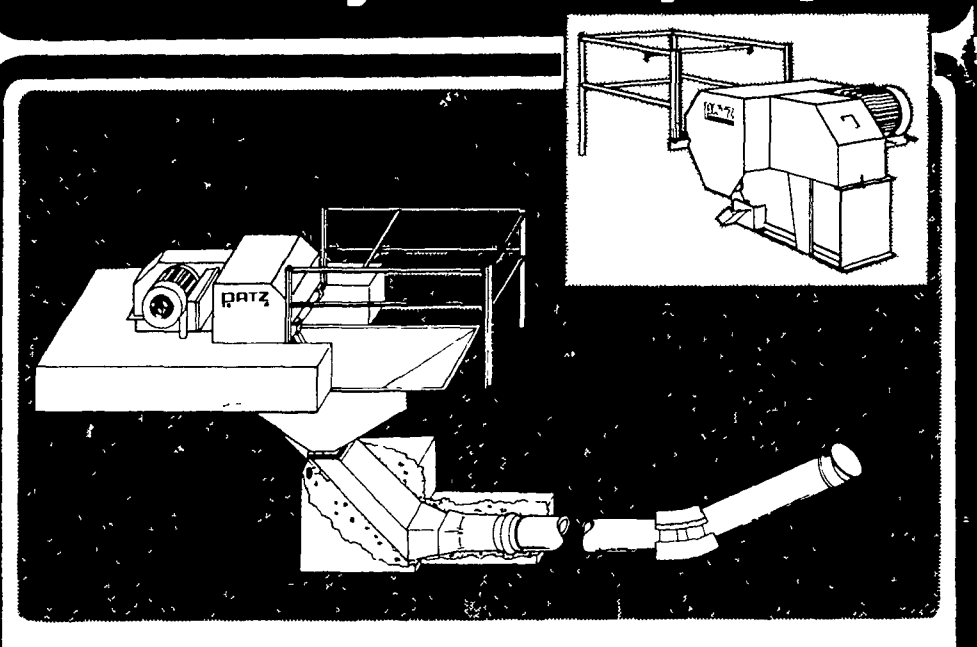
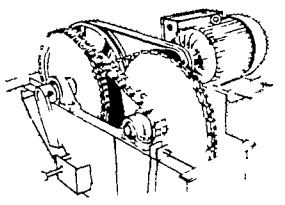
introducing the all new PATZ slurry manure pump

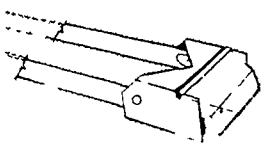


The Patz Slurry Manure Pump provides the ultimate solution to the moving of slurry liquid manure from dairy, beef, hogs or poultry installations to manure storage facilities.

The new Patz Slurry Pump can move slurry and liquids up to 150 feet. The manure is supplied to an underground hopper with a gutter cleaner or scraper and is forced into a 12 inch P.V.C. pipe by means of an 8 inch by 15 inch plunger.



The Patz exclusive roller chain drive unit drives the plunger at a rate of 21 strokes per minute.



The 8 inch by 15 inch plunger forces the manure through a PVC pipe to storage facility.

International® Forage Blowers

Want to fill your silos fast? Start with an International blower with a 45° feed system. It's more direct than a conventional 90° right angle feed system. Result: bigger capacity, less wear, more plug-free feed, and more efficient use of power.

- Two models: 48 and 56, both with huge capacities
- Big 48 and 56-inch rotors have adjustable, replaceable paddles for top capacity, long life
- Reversible rim sheets last twice as long without replacement. Rotors easily accessible for service, hinged outlet swings clear
- Transport wheels adjust for ground clearance, height, leveling to meet unloading requirements

Five Maryland agents honored

COLLEGE PARK, Md. - Five Maryland residents received major honors last month at the sixty-first annual meeting of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents, held Aug. 15-19 at Richmond, Va.

Delbert T. Foster was a national winner from Gaithersburg, a native Iowan, who has been a University of Maryland County Extension agricultural agent in Montgomery County for the past 20 years and chairman of the County Extension staff since 1964.

Foster was the first National Pride winner to be selected by the NACAA, an award based on a report involving an over-all program to promote agriculture in his county during 1975-1976.

Robert E. Stansfield, Jr., who lives in the Centennial development near Ellicott City, was named as Northeast regional winner for professional improvement work in the realm of lawns and gardens serving a population area of 50,000 to 200,000 persons.

Stansfield grew up on a Howard County farm near Skyesville, and he holds B.S. and M.S. degrees in agriculture from the University of Maryland at College Park. He has been a Howard County Extension agent since 1962 and chairman of the County Extension staff since 1966. His previous Extension service includes eight years as a 4-H and agricultural agent in Frederick County.

Dr. Russell J. Balge of Reisterstown was honored along with Howard County's Robert E. Stansfield, Jr., at an Aug. 19 luncheon hosted by O. M. Scott and Sons Co. of Marysville, Ohio. Dr. Balge was named Northeast regional winner for professional improvement work in the realm of lawns and gardens serving a population area of more than 200,000 persons.

This was the first year that this NACAA award had been broken down into population categories.

A native of Manitowoc, Wis., Balge holds B.S. and M.S. degrees in horticulture from the University of Wisconsin at Madison and a Ph.D. degree in plant science from the University of Delaware.

He has been an Extension horticulture agent in Baltimore County since July 1, 1973, serving the needs of home gardeners and commercial nurserymen in both Baltimore County and city from the county agriculture building at Cockeysville, up the hill from the Texas fire station.

Having supported himself since the age of 17, Balge has a wide range of experience in both horticultural and non-horticultural jobs. Several of these positions have involved landscaping and groundskeeping.

The second Baltimore County Extension worker honored at last month's NACAA meeting was G. Richard Curran, an Extension agricultural agent at the Cockeysville office since March 1970.

A native of Collinsville, Pa. Curran holds a baccalaureate degree from Penn State.

Prior to joining the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Maryland, Curran was a field supervisor for the now defunct Hungerford Packing Company at New Freedom, Pa. and a field representative for the Olin Corporation. The latter job involved fertilizer and farm chemical sales.

His Extension achievements in Baltimore County include organizing the county weed control advisory board, serving as county chairman for the statewide Farm Visitation Day, coordinating activities of the Baltimore County Corn Club, and conducting educational programs for grain producers, and commercial fruit and vegetable growers.

Curran served as finance chairman for the second annual Mid-Atlantic No-Tillage Convention, held last January at Hershey, Pa., and he is co-chairman for next year's event, scheduled Jan. 7, 1977, at Gettysburg, Pa.

Also honored at the Aug. 17 breakfast was Chester M. Cissel of Centreville, an Extension agricultural agent in Queen Annes County since 1957 and chairman of the county Extension staff since 1964.

Chissel was recognized as Maryland winner of the NACAA Distinguished Service Award.

Professional activities have included serving as president of the Maryland Association of County Agricultural Agents in 1974-75, being a director of the Tri-County Community Action Committee on the Eastern Shore, and holding membership on the Queen Annes County Recreation and Parks Committee.

He is an official judge for the American Milking Shorthorn Society.

Junior bull riders featured at rodeo

East or West Cowboys start young. At the Cowtown Rodeo Saturday night, youngsters from the ages of seven to 16 had a chance to try their skills at riding the proportionately small Brahma Bulls In the junior bull riding competition, the time for a qualifying ride is only six seconds. The Brahma Bulls weigh approximately 600 pounds as compared to the professional bull of 1800 to 2000 pounds.

Total purse for the junior bull riding was $25. Fifteen contestants entered with Johnny Graham of Penns Grove, N.J., winning first for $10 with a mark of 55. Second, third, and fourth place winners were Jeff Morris, Randy Hiles, and Johnny Harp.

Steer wrestling was tough for the Cowboys, Saturday. After having been used for this event all season, the Doggin' Steer has become educated. When he emerges from the shute, he immediately knows how to avoid the cowboy - stop dead still!!! Harry Gerhardt, who is presently holding second in money winnings for this event, spent 88.1 seconds in chasing his steer around the rodeo arena before successfully throwing it. Steve Dubrovsky was luckier and won the event in five seconds for $201.88.

When JoAnn Trost of Lebanon rode into the arena for the girl's barrel race, she had a look of complete confidence. As the electronic timer rolled, she raced to a winning time of 18.06 seconds with graceful ease. JoAnn won $135.24.

Kaye Kirby of Woodstown, N.J. again entered four events. He won bare back bronc riding with a mark of 60 and placed in the other two riding events. Kaye's total winnings were $380.24.

Both the saddle bronc and bull riding competition was won by Grant Harris of Cowtown, N.J. Grant's marks for the events were 58 and 75 respectively. Money for the two events was $333.20.

An audience of 2697 persons, including guests from Costa Rica and France, were on hand to see the 82 professional rodeo performers vie for the purse of $2,470.10.

Hance criticizes GAO study

ANNAPOLIS, Md. - The General Accounting Office, an investigative arm of Congress, recently released a study which recommends a new agricultural policy whereby the federal government would manage grain supplies and exports. This study has come under sharp criticism recently from the Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Young D. Hance.

The GAO study recommends tighter controls on export sales reporting, the establishment of a grain reserve, the development of a more defined supply-management policy, and closer monitoring of exports and world crop conditions.

Responding to the study, Hance said that most of the GAO recommendations directly contravene sound agricultural policy needed to get government out of agriculture and allow the farmer to operate in an open market to earn a fair profit.

"In every instance," he added, "where the federal government has attempted to regulate agricultural production, the situation has worsened rather than improved."

Hance also stressed that efforts to control instability could only add further to consumer costs and inflation.

Hance emphasized that the major factor governing supply is one over which neither farmers nor planners exercize any control - the weather. But farmers have amply demonstrated that they are able to cope with most problems and that they have the initiative and capability for responding to market demands.

Timothy crowded out

WASHINGTON - In 1935, timothy seed acreage harvested totaled a record 1,000,800 acres; and timothy seed production totaled a record 180,580,000 pounds. It was the most popular of the hay seed crops that year and timothy and clover mixtures rivaled alfalfa as the most popular hay crop for years after that.

But times change. In 1974, harvested acreage of timothy seed was down to 141,400 acres and timothy seed output totaled only 23.3 million pounds. Last year, timothy acreage was down to 78,700; and timothy seed production was down to 14.4 million pounds. This year, USDA says timothy seed acreage will total only 57,800 acres and timothy seed production will total only 9,549,000 pounds - the lowest since records began 37 years ago.

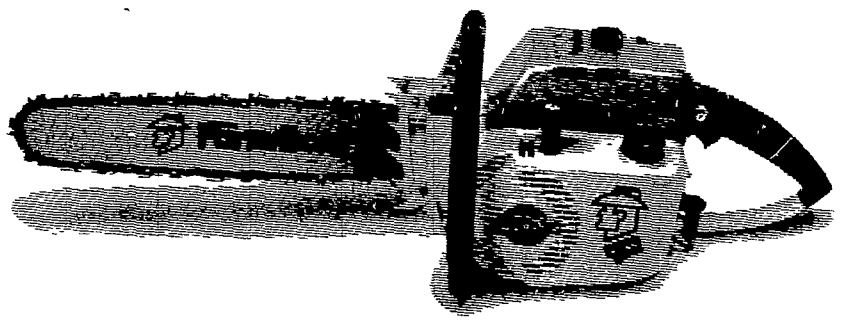
WE HAVE THE FARM BOSS AND IT IS A STIHL.



IT STARTS EASIER.
Because of a hotter spark, better carburetion and a flood-free design.
IT'S MORE RELIABLE.
Because it has longer-wearing moving parts that won't break down.
IT'S MORE POWERFUL.
Because it has the biggest power to weight ratio of any popular saw.
IT'S QUIETER.
Because its large baffled muffler is more than just a tin box.
IT COSTS LESS.
Because a saw that'll last about twice as long will only cost about half as much.
Over $30 worth of free accessories including a spare cutting chain really make the Farm Boss a Stihl.

Combine Monitors

OAK BROOKE, Ill. - Electronic performance monitors are the hottest items in farm machinery today.

They enable the farmer to increase his productivity by assuring him of optimum performance - day and night - and by substantially cutting downtime.

They help reduce repair costs.

And they save a tremendous amount of aggravation by forewarning the farmer that an equipment problem may occur, and by pinpointing the cause of the problem rather than force the farmer to search for it all over the machine.

At the same time, improvements in and capabilities of performance monitors are expanding rapidly.

In mid-1975, White Farm Equipment Company was among the first manufacturers to offer a choice of performance monitors on its combines. The company made a seven-function monitor standard equipment on its larger machines. White Farm Equipment also provides a four-function electronic tachometer as standard equipment.

Essentially, what the four-channel electronic tachometer does is "keep watch" over these functions: Threshing cylinder RPM, The combine's ground speed, Engine RPM, Cleaning fan speed.

Without ever leaving the cab, the farmer can maintain a visual check on the condition of the grain, both in the grain tank and in the return elevator. If anything appears to be out of the ordinary, he can monitor each of the four machine functions, simply by turning a dial.

If an adjustment is necessary, he can change the fan speed, change the cylinder speed, or make a concave adjustment instantaneously - and precisely - without leaving the cab and without ever stopping the machine.

That way, the farmer can prevent crop losses caused by machine adjustments that are inaccurate for the current crop conditions, which often vary hour-to-hour.

In previous years, farmers used to gauge the performance of a machine by its sound. Most of today's machines are equipped with cabs which make this practice impractical.

The new seven-channel monitor assists the farmer in detecting those machine variations, and even tells him where the variation is occurring. It watches over the: Clean grain elevator drive, Tailings return elevator drive, Straw walker drive, Straw walker overload, Cleaning fan drive, Cleaning shoe drive, and Crop chopper drive.

All of these functions are important to coordinated capacity - and top productivity.

During operation the operator will bring the machine to operating speed and a green light on the monitor will go on to indicate that everything is functioning correctly. The green light will stay on throughout harvesting unless one of the six shaft speeds slows down.

With the White monitor, a reduction of 20 per cent in shaft speed causes a horn to sound, and a red light signals the source of the trouble. With other monitors, the reduction in shaft speed must amount to 26-30 per cent before the operator receives a warning. In any event, the operator - thus warned - can correct the slow-down before a belt breaks and the machine gets plugged.

If the clean grain elevator drive begins to slow down, for example, it will worsen until the drive belt fails. This will result in plugging the elevator and the cross auger, and can cause a great deal of downtime, as well as a trip to town for parts.

With a monitor installed, the buzzer and red light would alert the operator and indicate the source of the problem before the failure occurred. In most cases, the operator would simply tighten the drive belt and continue harvesting.

Of course, belts will continue to stretch and wear, and eventually wear out; but a good belt - with proper tension - will have a better chance of lasting several seasons.

Most operators, once accustomed to using a performance monitor, will run their machines to the red light limit when they begin harvesting, and then back them off a little so that the green light appears. That way, they are assured that their equipment is operating at peak performance.

The benefit of using a performance monitor, in terms of productivity, can vary tremendously. At 10 to 15 per cent increase in productivity might be a reasonable expectation.

Performance monitors are a new and useful tool for farmers. Many manufacturers now offer them as standard equipment, and almost all of them offer them as optional equipment.

Farmers who are looking for increased productivity and reduced costs will give them careful consideration.

KOCIDE FUNGICIDE

HOUSTON, Texas - Kocide Chemical Corporation announces new and improved Kocide 101, a fixed copper, wettable powder agricultural fungicide currently registered on some 40 food crops.

According to Dr. Graham A. Stoner, vice-president marketing and development for Kocide Chemical, formulation changes in new 101 substantially improve performance of the material. "The quantity of surfactants and dispersants has been increased so that new and improved Kocide 101 gives better performance in the spray tank and better coverage on plant surfaces."

Kocide's Research and Development Department has worked for some time on improving the formulation of the company's well known and widely accepted fungicide. "What we've really accomplished with the improved formulation," said Stoner, "is a product that gives more consistently effective disease control, even though the old formulation gave excellent protection."

Improved Kocide 101 still contains the same highly active microporus copper hydroxide as before in the form of literally millions of unique, needle-like particles that provide an available surface area four times greater than other copper fungicides. Field tests conducted on new and improved Kocide 101 showed that it consistently outperforms all other copper fungicides.

Turkeys at record high

HARRISBURG - Pennsylvania farmers are expected to raise a record 3,343,000 turkeys in 1976, 18 per cent above last year and 13 per cent above the previous high of 2,951,000 raised in 1974.

Heavy breed turkeys raised in 1976 are expected to toal 2,774,000, up 20 per cent from the 2,313,000 in 1975. Light breed turkeys raised during 1976 are estimated at 569,000, an eight per cent increase from the number raised a year ago.

Nationally, a record 137.9 million turkeys are expected to be raised in 1976. This level is 11 per cent above last year and four per cent above the previous high of 132.2 million raised in 1973.

Heavy breed turkeys raised in 1976 are expected to total nearly 120.2 million, up 10 per cent from the 109.3 million raised in 1975. Light breed turkeys raised during 1976 are estimated at 17.8 million, a 19 per cent increase from the number raised a year ago.

Turkeys poults hatched from September 1975 through July 1976 were 12 per cent above the corresponding period a year ealier. Heavy breeds were up 10 per cent and light breeds up 19 per cent. Turkey eggs in incubators on August 1, 1976 were eight per cent below the number in incubators a year ago.

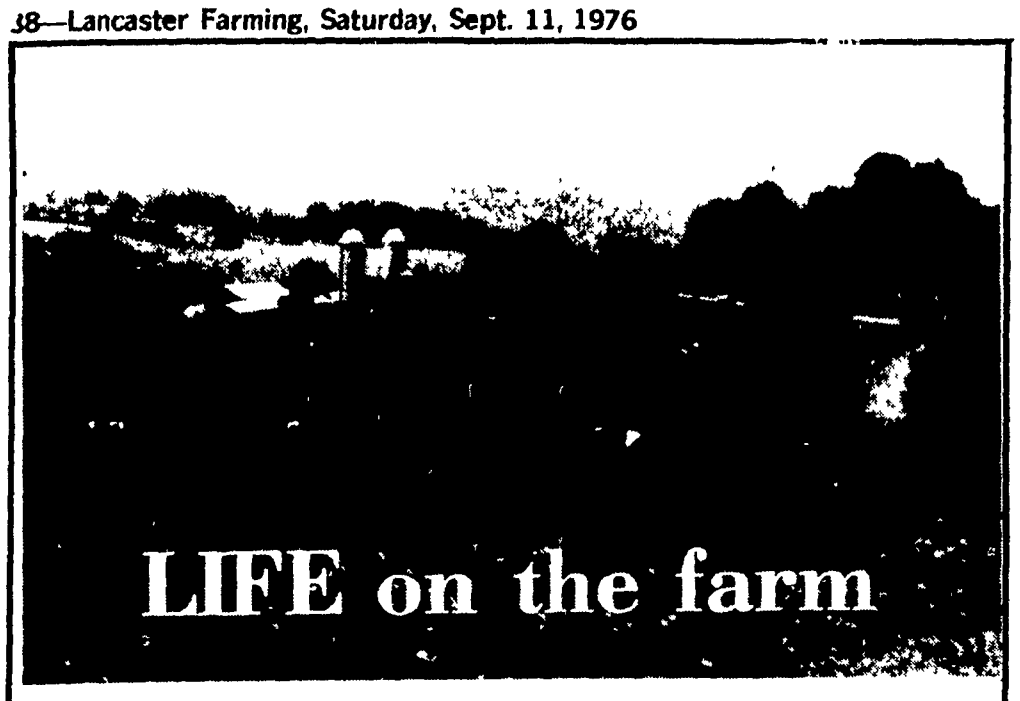
DIRECTIONS OF YOUR FARM OR CHURCH LOCATION:



By Dieter Krieg, Editor

Having my own interests and responsibilities which were everywhere but in the kitchen and garden unless I was hungry, I never paid much attention to what life on the farm was like in those places. But as I think about it now, that's where the "heart" of everything is — in more ways than one.

I can picture my mother, grandmother, and sisters working in the kitchen; especially during this time of year when they were busy preparing and canning fruits and vegetables.

Bowls of things were stacked on the tables, stove, counter tops and sink. Quite often there was more on the floor. We boys and my father were always just passing through — and more often than not we'd snitch a few slices of fruit or the makings of a cake. It was really handy.

There was a wash basin to the rear of the kitchen and quite a few small parts of all sorts were kept in the cupboards there. Coming into the house for either of those reasons meant having a chance to grab some goodies.

A typical summer day in the kitchen would find my mother busy filling jars; my grandmother with a bowl on her lap to prepare garden crops for canning, one of my sisters turning a food mill; and another at the stove to prepare the noon meal

The whole kitchen was permeated with the tempting aroma of cooked cherries or apples. And unless the snitching got to be too bad, it was always filled with love and kindness. Once in a while my brother and I would get our fingers slapped, and that often just led to more of the same because teasing was part of the fun

My grandmother's eyes would always light up and the joy that she had in her growing family was unmistakable. Her kind face and appreciative eyes went well with her words of wisdom and understanding.

Everybody was busy Steam arose from the kettles on the stove Piles of fruits and vegetables awaited freezing or canning. And just when they might be getting ahead a bit, another sister, or perhaps my grandfather, would walk in with another basket of the same.

The kitchen and life on the farm — they go together not just during this time of year, but always. Like a horse and carriage or love and marriage

RODENTS, ANTS CHASED AWAY BY ELECTRO MAGNETIC WAVE MACHINE

An electromagnetic field generating machine is being used in California communities to clear acreage of gophers, moles, rats, mice and ants. The VRP Corporation, marketers of the Ergon Pest Control System, claims the unit establishes lasting control of the affected area to prevent future infestation.

The company describes "Ergon" as "a modern system which naturally controls pests without polluting or poisoning the environment, and without injuring or destroying by traditional methods."

About the size of an electric meter box, the Ergon unit generates an electro-magnetic frequency vibration at irregularly timed intervals, for varying lengths of time. In numerous experimental and commercial installations over the past three years, the effects on rodents and various species of ants have been consistent. Initially, pests exhibit unusual and increased activity. Ants become disoriented. Gophers and moles enlarge their diggings. Rats and mice abandon their nests day and night.

Then, once the magnetic control field has been established over a period of a few weeks, the pests disappear.

According to VRP Corporation General Manager Cedric Viggers, the Ergon unit is effective in controlling pest infestation of buildings and residences as well as field acreage.

A single Ergon unit is guaranteed to control at least five acres. Viggers pointed out that the size of the electronically generated field depends on soil and moisture conditions and the terrain. The company claims Ergon's frequency vibrations are in a range which affects only animals of the rodent family - rats, mice, gophers, moles - and certain kinds of ants. Not afected at all are humans, domestic fowl, birds, cats, dogs, farm animals, chickens, deer or earthworms. Plant and vegetable life is also unaffected.

The Ergon unit is a metal box measuring seven inches by seven inches by three inches with a clamp for attachment to any metal pipe that can be driven down eight feet underground. The power requirement is 115 VAC, 12 amp maximum. Users report the approximate electricity cost of a single unit's operation for a month at one dollar.

The manufacturer guarantees the unit to function properly for three years and VRP Corporation guarantees observable results within 30 days. VRP promises a refund if user is dissatisfied during the guarantee period.

The VRP Corporation is located at 10936 Portal Drive, Los Alamitos, Calif. 90710, Mailing address is P.O. Box 1134.

Holstein portrait unveiled

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — A new portrait depicting the ideal mature Holstein cow has been approved by the directors of Holstein-Friesian Association of America and is pictured here. The Ideal Mature Milking Holstein - Friesian Female portrays an animal seven to eight years old in her fifth or sixth lactation, approximately 120 days in milk, standing 58 inches at the withers and weighing approximately 1,600 pounds, milking more than 100 pounds of milk a day. This portrait serves as the model for HFAA's descriptive type classification program which compares individual animals with an ideal. Reproductions of the Ideal Mature Milking Holstein - Friesian cow are available from HFAA in color prints, large, color posters and 5 by 7 inch black and white glossy photographs.

Heffner up for re-election

READING - Ralph H. Heffner of Pine Grove has been nominated for reelection to the board of directors of Agway Inc. He was selected at the beginning of the month by Agway committeemen at a district nominating meeting at Berkshire Inn, here.

Heffner will stand for reelection to a three-year term at the Agway Annual meeting Oct. 28-29 in Syracuse, N.Y., representing Schuylkill, Dauphin, Lebanon, Berks, and Lancaster counties in Pennsylvania.

Heffner, a member of the Agway board since 1973, farms 500 acres, maintains a 100-cow dairy herd, raises forage crops, grains, and fruit, and operates a roadside market.

A graduate of Penn State University with a bachelor of science in agricultural education and the University of Delaware with a master of science in agricultural economics, Heffner is a former secretary of Agway's Blue Mountain Zone Committee and a member of the Cressona Petroleum committee.

He is president of the Schuylkill County Fruit Growers Association, vice chairman of the Wayne Township Planning Commission, and a director of the Schuylkill County DHIA.

Agway Inc., a farm supply and food marketing cooperative owned by 118,000 member-stockholders, serves agriculture in 12 northeastern states. Its headquarters are in Syracuse.

Beef industry gears for market development

BOISE, Idaho - The beef industry has had more than its share of trouble this year, but things still look good for the future, according to representatives of the Beef Industry Council of the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Speaking at the Meat Board's annual meeting held here last month, Beef Industry Council Chairman Melvin O. Kuska described some of the events of 1975-76 as they affected the beef industry.

"In the marketplace, cattle prices jumped from loss to profit to loss; whipsawed prices frustrated efforts at planning, and beef production this year to date is up 10 to 11 per cent over last year - too big a jump to be handled in an orderly fashion by normal distribution and consumption channels," Kuska said.

Also, he added, supplies began shifting back from a high volume of non-fed cattle to more grain-fed beef. Supplies of competing foods have increased, adding to the downward pressure on beef prices.

But this year there is some good news, Kuska reported. It comes from the Beef Development Taskforce, which has provided the industry with an opportunity to realize its full potential for research, education and market development through the Beef Research and Information Act. As a result, every beef producer will be able to vote in a referendum next Spring to establish a national, uniform investment program to serve the industry.

"Our industry is one of the giants," Kuska said. "And we serve a giant market. We need a bold funding system. Yesterday's funding methods will not be good enough to meet tomorrow's challenge."

In his report to the industry, Huston noted that "beef industry market development programs are currently funded by about $2.5 million in the states and $2 million through the Meat Board-Beef Industry Council. That's a total of $4.5 million combined. But looking at the job the industry has to do on a 'per head' basis, counting people in the market shows the real challenge ahead for the industry's efforts."

Beef's potential market is all of America, Huston said - all 215 million people. The $4.5 million investment averages out to slightly more than two cents per capita for the industry's complete promotion, education and nutrition research programming.

"That's why we ask 'Got two cents in your pocket?'." Huston said. "If you have, then you've matched the beef industry's per capita yearly investment in market development."

Other producers of agricultural commodities are aggressively pursuing their markets through ambitious investment programs, Huston said. The dairy industry has begun talking in terms of a $130-160 million annual budget for promotion, research, market development and education. Based on analysis of market research, dairymen are discussing a programming goal of 77 cents per capita expenditures, Huston noted.

The Beef Research and Information Act for national beef industry funding would provide an estimated $30 to $40 million if approved by cattlemen voting in the Spring 1977 referendum. According to Huston, "that's about 14 cents to 18 cents per capita to support market development, research, information and advertising. It represents a substantial step forward, though only about one-fourth as ambitious as the dairy industry goals. It is by no means unrealistic.

AGWAY 840X

"The best hybrid Agway has ever offered my growers."

NICK FERRANT, JR. AGWAY CROPS SPECIALIST

If you grow corn in Delaware, Maryland, Jersey or southeastern Pennsylvania, take a tip from Nick Ferrant. Be sure to include Agway 840X in your planting plans for '77.

In Nick's words, "In long-season areas, I doubt if any corn will beat this one when well grown. High yields of silage and grain, excellent standability and high-population performance . . . and medium-low ears that harvest beautifully."

Another of Nick's favorites? Agway 834X. A great long-season grain hybrid.

This year, put both in your corn program. Agway 840X and 834X will come through with the energy results you need and you'll find out that Nick really knows what he's talking about.

Agway Energy Kings... more milk making power.

Laurie Albert of Owings Mills, Md., shows off her Quarterhorse, Skipbar Count, after winning first-place honors in junior horsemanship for horses during the Western division of the 4-H horse and pony show held recently in Timonium at the Maryland State Fair. In addition, the young lady and her mount placed second in junior grooming and showmanship, second in the class for junior stock-seat horses and second in the Western conformation class for geldings.

TIMONIUM, Md. - The 95th annual Maryland State Fair, held here recently at the Timonium Fairgrounds, posts the following highlights of concluded activities.

FFA and 4-H market animals were sold at prices reflecting premiums, although bidding was described as "moderately sluggish" following five previous years of successively higher prices. Average prices, excluding champion and reserve champion animals, were $11.50 to $17 per hundredweight above prevailing market prices, according to a University of Maryland spokesman.

Robert Miller, 14, of Woodsboro (Frederick County) sold his grand champion beef animal for $1.90 per pound to Pantry Pride, Inc. It was a 1,120-pound purebred Angus steer from the Otto Urig Ranch of Hemmingford, Neb., in the Sandhills area.

Robert's sister, Pam, 16, had shown the grand champion steer at both the 1973 and 1975 state fairs. Her last year's champion set the Marland State Fair record of $3.80 per pound. It was a Chianina-Angus crossbred.

This year's reserve champion beef steer - a 985-pound purebred Angus - was shown by Suzanne Schmidt of Monkton (Baltimore County). It sold for exactly the same price as last year's reserve champion - $1.00 per pound to a vendor at Lexington Market in Baltimore.

The champion Shorthorn steer was purchased for 70 cents per pound by Roland H. Mullimix and Son of Lisbon (Howard County). It weighed 1,010 pounds and was shown by Mickey Day of Marriottsville (Howard County).

A. W. Schmidt and Son, Inc., a Baltimore abattoir, also purchased several animals, including the champion crossbred steer, a 1,185-pound Hereford crossbred shown by Jimmy Linthicum of Dayton (Howard County). It went for 51 cents per pound.

Alan Leffel, 15, of Ednor-Cloverly (Montgomery County) sold his grand champion lamb for $5.00 per pound to Pantry Pride, Inc. It was a 95-pound purebred Hampshire wether. Alan is a Howard County 4-H member. He had also shown the grand champion lamb at the Maryland State Fair, in both 1973 and 1974.

Barbara Clarke of Uniontown (Carroll County) sold her reserve champion lamb, a 100-pound Suffolk wether, for $1.80 per pound. She was junior winner earlier in the week of the unwashed lamb fitting and showing contest for 4-H members at the Maryland State Fair.

The grand champion market hog was a 240-pound Hampshire shown by Yvonne Feeser of Taneytown (Carroll County). It went for $2.75 per pound to Esskay, an east Baltimore major meat packer.

Donald Anerson, 11, of White Hall (Baltimore County) showed a 1,345-pound Holstein steer from his father's herd to grand championship honors in the 4-H dairy steer show. Earlier in the week, Donald had been named champion of the 4-H garden show at the state fair.

Newest model of the oldest farm machine in the world is this recently completed re-creation of Cyrus McCormick's 1831 reaper. Dr. Howard F. Conn of Uniontown, Pa., built the harvester in partnership with Joseph G. Rider, a Smithfield, Pa. carpenter. The reaper was on display at the Fayette County Fair in Uniontown. Wooden gears, from which molds could be made to pour cast iron gears, were built but found too inexact. Dr. Conn then arranged to borrow gearing from the reaper on display at the McCormick National Historical Landmark and museum at Steeles Tavern, Va., to make molds for new gears. Rider also built the peg-toothed wooden rake, in the picture, like the ones used to sweep cut grain from reaper platform.

Midwesterners eligible for funds

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced recently that farmers in Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Wisconsin who suffer losses from drought during the 1976 crop year are eligible for emergency loans through the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) to reestablish farming operations and pay operating expenses.

USDA determined that the incidence of drought covers the crop year which ends on December 31, 1976. This determination amends the previous Presidential declaration of drought emergency in the four states, in which no designated period of drought was indicated.

Counties included under the drought designation (see lists attached) total 64 in South Dakota, 60 in Minnesota, 43 in Wisconsin and 21 in North Dakota.

Emergency loans are made to farmers to recover from designated natural disasters. Loans based on actual losses are repayable in their entirety with 5 per cent interest. Loans for renewed operations are made at rates prevailing in the private market for comparable credit. All loan applicants must be unable to get sufficient credit from local commercial sources.

ACA Farm Line

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Farmers warned a panel of top level congressmen and government officials recently that "a day of reckoning is coming" unless federal influence on land use is reduced.

Comments such as this one by John Barrutia, a small beef producer from Mountain Home, Idaho, came over the Agriculture Council of America's "Farm Line" and were heard by a special panel headed by Senators Jim McClure (R-Idaho), Carl Curtis (R-Neb.), and Representatives Mo Udall (D-Ariz.), George Mahon (D-Tex.), Tom Harkin (D-Iowa), John Melcher (D-Mont.), Fred Richmond (D-N.Y.), and James Santini (D-Nev.).

Barrutia went on to say that the "federal government had better change its approach concerning agriculture. Land use is strictly a local issue, but like many others is important to our future."

He said most senators and representaives respond only to the majority of constituents who "holler about high food prices," but unless Congress recognizes the needs of the five per cent who produce it "Mr. and Mrs. America will be sitting at dinner with knife and fork at an empty table."

Interest in the issue "was about as strong as anything we've experienced," according to ACA chairman E.L. "Shug" Hatcher, a wheat and beef producer from Lamar, Colo. During the four hours the program was in operation over 500 calls were received from at least 25 states. The heaviest volume of calls came from Nebraska, Idaho, Texas and Kansas.

Many calls, particularly from the Rocky Mountain sttes, centered on whether the federal government should restrict or eliminate grazing rights on public lands.

McClure who has first hand knowlege of grazing problems in his state where 60 per cent of the land is publically owned said his calls centered around the "serious conflicts" over the use of Federal lands for agriculture versus preserving the areas for non-farming uses. One Idaho rancher said, "Either the government must begin to look at the problems we face or we'll be forced out of business."

Concern also centered on the government's role in dealing with urbanization and other development, which in the past decade alone claimed over 22 million acres of farm land. Approximately two-thirds of the calls related to land use. Other questions and comments dealt with estate taxes, government regulation and the impact of embargoes on farm prices.

Mahon, chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations, said that from calls he took "farmers still rankle under the impact of the damaging grain embargo last year."

One caller, though, W. Harlan Micklebost, a banker from the "near total disaster" drought area of Ramona, South Dakota said that there is a place for the government to "step in. Farmers here need financing relief with the delivery charges of emergency feed for their starving cattle." Farmers are forced to pay as much as $110 a ton for alfalfa hay, more than double last year's price, including a "whopping" $12 shipping charge for a 90 mile trip from its source.

The farmers aren't asking for free hay, just help with the shipping charges, as the government has done in less critical times, he said.

This is one time the government "should step in where help is clearly needed - otherwise it should stay out of farming operations," Micklebost said.

Other panelists included representatives of the Departments of Agriculture, Interior and HEW, as well as various planning and public interest groups.

As a non-political and non-legislative organization, ACA operates the monthly toll-free Farm Line, open nationwide, not to advocate any position of its own but to provide a vehicle for discussion of major agricultural issues. The July Farm Line on "Government Regulation" received nearly 400 calls from people across the country, talking directly without any "go-betweens" with experts on the issue.

The Agriculture Council of America, founded in 1973, is made up of individual farmers, farm and commodity organizations and companies that supply the farmers. Its purpose is to improve communications between farmers and urban consumers.

Vote set for milk order funds

NEW YORK, N.Y. - The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) will hold a mail referendum to determine if affecterd dairy farmers approve of a rate of seven cents per hundredweight for advertising and promotion under the Middle Atlantic federal milk marketing order.

H. L. Forest, dairy official in USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) said the rate of deduction for funding the advertising and promotion program would be increased from five cents a hundredweight to seven cents a hundredweight. He said evidence from a public hearing held last May showed that the increase is needed to offset rising costs of conducting the program.

This is a deduction, Mr. Forest siad, on all milk delivered to the Middle Atlantic market each month, before returns are paid out to producers. The money is used for research and development, advertising (except brand advertising), sales promotion, nutrition education, and other programs to improve the domestic marketing of milk and its products.

The program provides for quarterly refunds to any producers not wanting to participate.

Mr. Forest said farmers who supplied milk to the Middle Atlantic milk marketing area in June 1976 will be eligible to vote. Two-thirds of those voting must approve the amended advertising and promotion provisions.

Allis-Chalmers geared to agricultural growth

MILWAUKEE, Wis. - Some 2,000 dealers and company representatives from around the world attended the National Sales Meeting of the Agricultural Equipment Divisions, Allis-Chalmers Corp., held here, earlier this summer. Three, two-day sessions were held which included agricultural equipment dealers from the United States, Canada, Mexico, Australia and Venezuela.

The meeting introduced new products; served as a forum in shich field demonstrations and meetings showed aggressive marketing actions; and set objectives and goals for the coming year.

In a message to the groups during the meeting, David C. Scott, chairman of the board, chief executive officer and president of Allis-Chalmers, described the Agricultural Equipment group as one of the core businesses of the corporation. He pointed out the many capital improvements for facilities and machinery which have been, and are being instituted within the agricultural equipment manufacturing operations, as part of a commitment to expand upon the company's position as a leading farm supplier in the agricultural machinery.

Scott said wholesale sales for the group had increased approximately 20 per cent during 1975 over 1974, and that sales for the first half of 1976 have continued that trend.

"World needs for agricultural commodities will continue to grow," Scott said. "Many nations of the world have recognized the necessity of agricultural development as the basic key to overall economic growth, and the conclusion is obvious and encouraging - demand for agricultural equipment will be quite strong over the next five years and beyond."

The sales meeting covered all aspects of the company's agricultural products and operations, including tractors, combines, implements, lawn and garden equipment, parts operations, service and merchandising.

Also, during each of the meeting segments, the special multi-media Bicentennial presentation, "America and the American Farmer" was shown. The show is a tribute to the American farmer and features Terry Meeuwsen, Miss America for 1973. The "America" presentation has been shown to numerous farm and non-farm groups throughout the United States.

New products introduced at the meeting and demonstrated at the company's proving grounds near Milwaukee, Wis., included:

-The Model 7580 articulated four wheel drive tractor, which boasts 185 pto horsepower from a 426 cu. in. diesel engine. Features include a 20-speed transmission, and a wide range of power, reliability, serviceability, comfort and convenience features common to the company's line of horsepower tractors.

-The 50 pto horsepower Model 5050 which is being offered in three versions: an eight or 12 speed transmission, and eight speed transmission with front wheel assist. Designed as a versatile, high performance tractor, the 5050 has excellent capabilities for basic tillage work, forage crop functions, or utility work in dairy, livestock or poultry operations.

-A heavy duty Model XK offset disc harrow, available in three versions ranging from 16½ feet with 44 discs to a 21 feet unit with 56 discs.

The "Air Champ" planter with new features for conventional planting and expanded capabilities for the 600 series folding tool bar.

In addition to feed, seed, fertilizer and broiler poultry holdings, Pennfield owns 300,000 laying hens kept on its property and another 300,000 on nearby contract farms. The company's largest chicken house is a complex of nine huge warehouse-like buildings, each holding 30,000 hens. The hens are kept in wire cages - three or four to a cage - that are lined up in tiers.

Among the more than 2000 Allis-Chalmers dealers and company representatives to take part in a national sales meeting this Summer were Park and Sara Lefever from L. H. Brubaker, Inc. in Lancaster. One of the highlights of the meeting was the introduction of new equipment, including this four-wheel drive model 7580.

"Many nations of the world have recognized the necessity of agricultural development as the basic key to overall economic growth . . ."

Lester Erb, left, has good reason to smile. He has just been presented with a Distinguished Service Award from Hoffman Seeds, Inc., Landisville, for his achievements as a sales and service representative. At right is Ivan D. Kaufman, Hoffman sales manager. Out of more than 500 Hoffman representatives in seven states, only two have been named to receive this award.

Trophies for their achievements in sales and service were presented by Hoffman Seeds, Inc., Landisville, to Alvin F. Smoker, Intercourse; Ernest H. Mellinger, Quarryville; Robert L. Yohn, Narvon, and John C. Polhemus, Biglerville.

Hoffman Seeds gives awards

LANCASTER - Lester Erb, Elizabethtown, a long-time sales and service representative for Hoffman Seeds, Inc., has been named to receive the firm's highest honor - the Distinguished Service Award.

The selection of Erb, based upon his outstanding service to farmers in the area during the past year, caps a 35-year career with the Landisville seed company. In 1972 he was one of the first to receive the company's Hall of Fame Award.

"Lester Erb has long been an outstanding Hoffman Seed Man," commented Ivan D. Kaufman, sales manager, in presenting the award. "His contributions as a sales and service representative, and in dedicated service to farmers in his area is especially noteworthy."

The presentation took place in ceremonies at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center where Hoffman representatives from throughout the area participated in a luncheon and program kicking off the 1976-1977 sales year.

Also honored at the meeting for sales and service achievements were: Alvin F. Smoker, Intercourse; Ernest H. Mellinger, Quarryville; Robert L. Yohn, Narvon; and John C. Polhemus, Biglerville.

Increase slows

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Non-Communist nations' farmers in Asia and the Near East sowed eight per cent more acres to high-yielding varieties of wheat and rice last year than in the preceding year - a sharp drop from the 18 per cent increases in both 1972-73 and 1973-74, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture study.

The study said the fertilizer crisis of 1974-75 probably contributed to the slower rate of expansion.

The Economic Research Service (ERS) study points to a possible dropoff in the rate of adoption of high-yielding varieties in some countries as the amount of available land diminishes. Good water control and adequate supplies of fertilizer are important for maximum yield. The report notes, however, that new varieties are being developed for more environments. And these could widen potential for area expansion.

Scott Glascock of Cooksville, Md., brushes up his steer for competition held last week at the Timonium Fair.

Another northern Baltimore County resident, Steven Wilson of Parkton, had the reserve champion dairy steer - a 1,085-pound Holstein.

All six of the dairy steers in the auction sold in a narrow range of $40 to $43 per cubic weight, with an average of $41.

There were 48 beef steers, 37 lambs, and 22 market pigs in the sale of 4-H and FFA livestock at the Maryland State Fair. Excluding sales of champion and reserve champion animals, the sale averages were as follows: beef steers - $54 per cubic weight; lambs - $57 per cubic weight; swine - $55.50 per cubic weight.

The nation's egg farmers could breed enough extra hens in just nine months to increase egg production 20 percent or 30 percent, according to John R. Pedersen, economics vice president of the United Egg Producers. That's enough extra eggs, for example, to supply every man, women and child in the usually hungry African nation of Chad with a dozen a day.

Domestic soy oil use studied

HUDSON, Iowa - Palm oil's inroads into the U S. soy oil market have prompted the American Soybean Association (ASA) to consider doing market development work in the United States.

ASA has hired a market research firm to study the potential for increasing soy oil utilization in this country and to recommend possible marketing strategies to accomplish that end, according to ASA president Gerald Michaelson.

"This study will tell us whether a domestic soy oil promotion would be a good investment for growers' funds," he said

If the study recommends that ASA go ahead with a domestic program, it would mark a sharp departure from past ASA market development policy, Micahelson noted.

"In the past, it was considered that the market for soybeans and soybean products in the United States was saturated," he said, "and little or nothing would have been gained by spending producers' money to promote soybean products domestically.

"Past ASA policy, therefore, has always operated on the premise that we could get more for the producer's market development dollar by using it in foreign countries where the market for soybeans had considerably more growth potential."

But today, Michaelson said, soybean producers are concerned about low soy oil prices brought about by competition from imported palm oil.

"Palm and other highly saturated imported oils have been taking an increasing share of the market previously held by soy oil in the United States," said the ASA president, "and we are wondering if it is time to do some market development work at home."

Michaelson said one possible basis for such a market development program would be informing health-conscious consumers of the high saturation levels of palm and coconut oils, relative to the high level of polyunsaturation in soy oil.

Michaelson said this approach could be aided by a new FDA food labeling regulation which will require labels to list specific edible oils contained in foods by Jan. 1, 1978

Per capita egg consumption declined 10 percent in the past two years to 275 in 1975 (including the eggs hidden in muffin mix and store-bought eggnog). In 1945, when wartime meat rationing spurred egg eating, the per capita average was 400 eggs a year.

By the 1980's there may be only 520 flocks of more than 480,000 hens each with the national hen population remaining at its present level, says Professor Ralph L. Baker of Ohio State University

Last year 64 4 billion eggs were laid in the United States. This was 3 percent less than the year before, but still enough eggs - if laid end to end - to circle the earth at the equator 100 times.

People-land squeeze affects climate attitude

By DIETER KRIEG

EDITOR'S NOTE - This is the fifth article in a continuing series.

STATE COLLEGE - The place was buzzing with activity, and for good reason.

Just off the Atlantic coast and heading straight for New York City was Hurricane Belle.

The room I was sitting in - trying to get a glimpse of what it's like within a weather service's office - was that of Accu-Weather, a privately owned weather service headquartered here. Elliot Abrams, whose voice is often heard on Accu-Weather broadcasts carried by a number of radio stations all across the country, explained that things were getting a little hectic.

The assessment held true for what was going on in the Atlantic as well as within the rooms of this aged building. The walls were pinned full of maps. Phones rang almost constantly. A teletype machine clicked off reports of meteorological conditions. People were calling in wanting to know what Hurricane Belle might have in store for them and Abrams and his associates were trying frantically to give each caller a custom-made answer.

Accu-Weather forecasts are tailored for specific areas and specific needs, which explains in part why the service has become so well accepted in just a few years. Abrams claims the firm has a renewal rate of 96 per cent. The service is sold on an every day basis for anywhere from $200 to $300 per month.

As has been brought out in previous installments of this series, the weather is nothing to sneeze at. It's a fantastically powerful force which man is not likely to be able to change much. Says Abrams: "Anything that man can do is practically meaningless in comparison to the weather's power." Each thunderstorm, for example, contains the energy of an atomic bomb. To this Abrams adds: "There's as much energy of in the top three feet of ocean surface to equal that of the entire atmosphere." He believes that a better understanding of the oceans may be the key to improved weather forecasting in the future. In his words, it "may improve forecasting tremendously."

But that's not to say that weather forecasting is all that bad today. Abrams cites his renewal rate as one good indicator of the faith subscribers have in his service. The general public also seems to be favorably impressed. The best forecasts are made for periods of three days or less, Abrams said, noting that beyond that the accuracy factor drops significantly.

FARMFEST's crop progress surprising

LAKE CRYSTAL, Minn — Crops are in exceptionally good shape at the FARMFEST 76 site, despite another year of heavy drought losses in the Upper Midwest

Above average yields are expected when harvest demonstrations get underway here Sept 13 at the country's official Bicentennial farm exposition, thanks to several well-timed rains

"There'll be surprises in just about every field," predicts field operations director Doug Leith, the man in charge of FARMFEST's seven-day, 1400-acre harvest of corn, soybeans, sunflowers, sugar beets, and cotton. Farmers from across the U.S. will be on hand for what is shaping up to be the biggest professional ag convention of the year.

"We could start harvesting a few corn fields today, if we had to," Leith said on Sept. 1. "People will probably be surprised at our yields, considering we're short about six inches of precipitation this year."

Crop development is generally about three weeks ahead of normal at FARMFEST, according to Leith. Dry spring weather allowed early planting and caused roots to grow deep. Early-maturing seed was used to insure good stands for 1000 acres of machinery demonstrations

"The two and a half inch rain we had just before the corn tasseled didn't hurt either," Leith says

Even the 300 exotic crops in FARMFEST's U S Crops Review are thriving, though it took three plantings of peanuts before the pocket gophers gave up, Leith says.

Machinery demonstration bean fields are also in good shape, having escaped podding problems reported in the region.

Experimental fields — such as one in which beans were drilled in 6-inch rows — are also producing above average crops, though dry spells dulled the effect of herbicides in some spots.

Minnesota's entire 1976 cotton crop — two acres at FARMFEST 76 — is waist high and has sprouted golf-ball size bolls. That, despite a herd of cattle stampeding through the patch, Leith says. A cotton harvesting machine is expected to arrive from Tennessee shortly.

FARMFEST's 55 acres of sunflowers have been described as one of the best fields in the state. Sugar beets have received enough moisture and will also be ready for harvest, Leith said. Four — and in some places five — alfalfa cuttings were made.

stations Recently the firm has been toying with the idea of having farmers or farmer cooperatives as subscribers to the service, but nothing definite has been decided While the service would be too costly for the average farmer to afford, he believes cooperatives or large-scale operators could find the investment well worth their money. Because their weather reports aren't "ordinary" - they're specifically tailored for an individual business' needs

Asked about possible changes in climate, Abrams said that there is no significant evidence that contemporary weather patterns are better or worse than those of generations ago What may cause people to believe otherwise is that climatic changes have become more important today than they ever were before because of the "land and people squeeze "

The periods of drought, storms, etc are controlled by a vast number of factors, including sunspot activities. And some man-made factors can become involved, if only in a small way. The paving over of huge parcels of land to build developments, roads, and so forth, can change evaporation and drainage patterns and thus directly affect the weather. The construction of dams and the relocation of rivers, for example, can change cloud patterns.

With much of Europe, especially England, now experiencing the worst drought in modern times, Abrams offered a simple explanation:

Wind patterns have strengthened and Europe for much of this year has been on the "fair or sunny" side of a weather pattern known as a "trough." Those are the wavy patterns one sees on every weather map. The forward side of these troughs is usually wet, while the trailing side is sunny and dry. England has had little relief from drought due to the prevailing winds keeping the position of the trough in a near stationary position. But there will be a change, someday.

Says Abrams: "If you don't like the weather, it will change if you just wait."

A familiar voice on many radio stations across the country is that of Elliot Abrams from Accu-Weather in State College. Here he prepares a taped up-date on the weather for use by a subscribing broadcaster.

Parade route announced

YORK - Arrangements for the York Fair Bicentennial Parade, September 12, have almost been completed by the parade committee, headed by Bernard Naftal.

The parade will consist of more than 125 units, making it one of the largest parades in York history. There will be 53 miscellaneous entries, including floats; five dancing schools; 20 fire companies with 53 pieces of equipment; 12 high school bands; 11 veterans organizations; one military band; and six drum and bugle corps.

Parade marshalls will be York natives General Jacob Devers (ret.) and Admiral Edward Grim (ret.) with John Dempwolf, president of the York Fair.

The parade will begin at 1:30 p.m. from Downtown North shopping center, will march up George Street to Market Street, and will continue on Market Street and Carlisle Avenue to the York Fairgrounds.

At the conclusion of the parade, a massed bands concert will be held in front of the grandstand. The concert will be conducted by Robert F. Zellner, associate professor at Gettysburg College. The program will feature "Stars and Stripes Forever", "Chester March", "Amazing Grace" (directed by Arlington Kahley), "The Liberty Bell March", and "Battle Hymn of The Republic".

Speed up licensing

HARRISBURG - Pennsylvania motorists can help speed up processing of vehicle registrations and operator licenses if they will provide their telephone numbers with applications, Frank Garber, director of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, said recently.

A blank space for telephone numbers was recently added to all applications, Garber said, to help the Bureau contact motorists whose applications have been held up because of error.

"If an application comes in with an incorrect check or some erroneous information, we are now set up to make immediate contact with the applicant so we can keep the process moving," Garber said.

"And that is the only purpose of the telephone listing - to help improve our service."

Penn State horticulture show announced

UNIVERSITY PARK - This year's Homecoming Weekend at Penn State University in October will be minus one of its traditions - the Horticulture Show The tradition must be broken since the setting for the show, the Ice Pavilion, will be used for skating at Homecoming time. Thus, the Horticulture Show will be held September 18 and 19 at the time of the Ohio State-Penn State football game

The show attracts 15,000 to 20,000 visitors each year In this Bicentennial year, the "Hort Show" will present a bit of a historical representation of horticulture as well as a current expression of horticulture today This year's theme is, "A Bicentennial Salute to Horticultural Pennsylvania."

The "Hort Shows" of today have changed greatly from the first event, says Kathy Bauer of Pittsburgh, show manager. The first show was held during Farmers' Week in January 1908, in the attic of the Agricultural Building The featured exhibit was a nine year old York Imperial apple tree Other exhibits were mostly plates of apples contributed by many commercial fruit growers in the Commonwealth

Presently, "hort students" work toward an aesthetically appealing exhibit as well as an informative one, manager Kathy Bauer pointed out The students are responsible for all aspects of the Horticulture Show including promotion, management, and construction

Four main areas of horticulture will be featured in this year's events - fruits, vegetables, floriculture, and environmental plants The show will open with an introduction-dedication area

A sales area will be featured as well as a display by Pi Alpha Xi, national honorary fraternity for floriculture and ornamental horticulture

This year's fruit division is under the direction of Gene Schramm of Pittsburgh The exhibit will include a backyard fruit garden Most of the fruit grown in Pennsylvania will be displayed The exhibit will also contain a fruit processing section

The vegetable exhibit will focus mainly on two areas - the home vegetable garden of 200 years ago and the vegetable garden of today Heading up the exhibit will be Marilyn Jezik of Natrona Heights Home canning, one of the most important uses of vegetables 200 years ago, will be depicted in an old-time kitchen setting In the modern garden, terracing will feature various plots and new innovations in vegetable growing

A sales division will offer a variety of fall harvest products and plants The sales help cover costs of producing the Horticulture Show

The longest bicycle ever built was a tandem seating 10 people

Pennfield hosts Chinese

LANCASTER - Pennfield Corporation hosted a Labor Day Weekend tour by fifteen members of the Chinese Agricultural Mechanization Study Group on an inspection visit of agricultural installations in and around Lancaster County The Chinese will spend a month in the United States under the auspices of the National Academy of Science's Committee on Scholarly Communication with the People's Republic of China

Pennfield's president, Robert B Graybill, offered a luncheon at the Three Crowns Restaurant in Lancaster for the Chinese engineers, teachers and agronomists and was presented with a gift of a silk scroll and ceremonial tea by the group's chairman, Hsiang Nan The Study Group - including two women engineers - is accompanied by two members of the U.S State Department, Ron Daily and Jim Preitach and by Halsey L. Beemer, Jr , of the National Academy of Sciences Beemer served as an interpreter along with two members of the Study Group fluent in English, Chang Ping-yao and Wang Hsien-tsung

Hendrik Wentink, assistant to the president of Pennfield Corporation, guided the chartered bus tour to the company's new feed mill, nearing construction completion in Hempfield Industrial Park, to its egg production and packaging facility in Ephrata, to the broiler processing plant in Fredericksburg, and to the Willis Bowman broiler farm in Myerstown

Market expanded

HUDSON, Ia - The American Soybean Association (ASA) will soon begin an expanded soybean market development program in the Mideast, Spain, and nearby countries

Ed Quinones, an international agricultural consultant who formerly worked for the USDA Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS), has been hired as regional director for the program.

Quinones will be based in Spain and will cover Portugal and northern Africa in addition to the Mideast and Spain.

According to ASA President Gerald Michaelson, ASA studies have indicated the Mideast holds excellent potential as a large and long-term market for U.S. soybeans.

"Governments of all the Mideast nations are using petrodollars to upgrade the diets of their people," Michaelson said "Poultry production is booming, fats and oils consumption is expanding and people are demanding more protein in their diets. All these factors point to greater opportunities for soybean products."

Michaelson also pointed out that Spain, with its rapidly expanding pork and poultry production, is now the second most important soybean crushing country in Europe.

Initial ASA activities in the Mideast, he said, were planned to increase use of soybean meal. A series of poultry feeding seminars was conducted there during June to kick off the Mideast program.

York Fair activities detailed

YORK - To promote both safety and skill for today's young farmers, the York Fair annually sponsors a tractor driving contest for 4-H and FFA members. This year the contest will be held on Thursday of the coming week.

All contestants must be 16 years of age by the opening of the Fair and have a valid safe tractor operator certificate. The contest is divided into three parts: A written examination of 50 questions; a troubleshooting examination on a tractor; and tractor driving and equipment handling course.

4-H and FFA members will be judged together but prizes will be awarded separately. Prizes for both groups will be $25 for first place, $15 for second, $10 for third and fourth, and $5 for fifth through last place.

Also, probable exhibitors and judges for the livestock division of the 1976 York Fair have just been announced by M. Ebert Rutter, Fair manager.

In the dairy animal category, 408 entries will be judged by Creedin G. Gorman and Norman D. Hill. Five-hundred-and-eighteen swine entries will be judged by Keith McConnell. William Hodge and Erskin Cash will judge 128 beef cattle. Six hundred sheep entries will be judged by H. James Shearer and Sam Hunter. In the final category, 84 goats will be judged by Ann J. Miller.

With over 1700 current entries, the livestock exhibition at the 1976 York Fair will be one of the largest ever held in south central Pennsylvania.

Hendrik Wentink, a Pennsylvania egg farmer and a member of the National Egg Board, says: "When you spend a good part of your life with chickens as I have - raising them, worrying about them when they're not producing or sick, and watching the poor devils die - you get to know them. I think they're important economically but I also see them as my friends."

Bicentennial farm

There's gold in them there hills!

By DIETER KRIEG

EDITOR'S NOTE - During this Bicentennial Year Lancaster Farming has periodically featured stories on farms within its prime coverage area which have been in the same family for more than 100 years. Agriculture is the foundation of all civilization, and these feature articles on "Bicentennial Farms" are one way of saluting the dedicated efforts of America's farmers. Contained in this issue are the 23rd and 24th such stories in a continuing series.

NEW PARK - It was probably routine, but even if it wasn't, a motorist passing through this area can't blame the governor for thinking that there might be gold in these hills, and therefore asking for "the fifth part of it."

Drive through this part of southern York County at any time, and it's beautiful. Come along on a sunny clear day, and you're treated with a fantastic view, and possibly some gold glistening in the ever-rolling hills.

You can see for miles, for on this farm, owned by the John Hope Anderson family, is some of the highest ground in Fawn Township. This is orchard country, and the gold some people might see couldn't be anything else but golden delicious apples.

Purchased on Nov. 3, 1849 by Joseph R. Anderson, for $790, the 119 acre farm was cleared of all debts and restrictions through a court proceeding on March 2 of the following year The official document, which cost Anderson $37.90 (including recorder's and surveyor's fees), reads in part:

"Free and clear of all restrictions and reservations, as to mines, royalties, quit-rents, or otherwise, excepting and reserving only the fifth part of all gold and silver ore, for use of the Commonwealth, to be delivered at the pit's mouth, clear of all charges.

Silver too?

No one has yet found any silver in these hills either, but perhaps, again, someone was looking at bright sunlight being reflected from glistening leaves of fruit trees.

Joseph Anderson bought the property at a sheriff's sale, a development which more than one owner had found himself in during the past 150 years. A comparison of land prices shows these developments:

In 1826 this 119 acre farm, with a log house and barn, was sold for $100; in 1843 the same property sold for $400; by 1847 it changed hands again - this time for $1025. Just 18 months later it was sold for $900, and a year after that Anderson took possession for $790. In the span of just five years the same farm had more than doubled in price. By today's standards the difference between $400 and $900 might not sound like much when it comes to buying an entire farm, but it was nonetheless a whopping increase for the 19th Century farmer.

And that sort of trend in land values continued. In 1868, for example - just 19 years after Joseph had bought the farm - the price tag read $4000.

When Joseph purchased the farm there was an old log house on the property which has since disappeared, leaving only a slight depression in the ground behind it. The progressive farmer wanted to build a new home for his family, and with that in mind, he purchased an additional three acres of ground in 1857 for $68.12½. Nine years later construction on the house began, and when finished it turned out to be one with spacious rooms, regal beauty, and even large walk-in closets in every bedroom.

Whether or not this farm has always been an orchard is not definitely known. Anderson, who now operates the orchard and some cropland in partnership with his son, John, presumes that the first thing farmers back then might have planted was an apple tree. His wife added that at one time hogs were raised here.

A unique feature found within the buildings are the remains of an old wind-powered gristmill. A shaft protruded through the barn roof at one time, where it was connected to a fan.

Anderson's grandfather, John H., and an uncle, Harry, are

When the Andersons' "Bel-View Farm" was purchased in late 1849, it was cleared of all restrictions and reservations, "... excepting and reserving only the fifth part of all gold and silver ore, for use by the Commonwealth ..." About the only "gold" that's been found here, however, are golden delicious apples.

credited today for having established the orchard to the extent it is now. Approximately 75 acres are planted in fruit trees, with more being planned for, as tree availability and marketing conditions allow.

According to the Andersons there have been a lot of changes in the orchard business over the last decade or two, not to mention the last century. One thing that hasn't changed much is the fact that there is still an awful lot of hand labor involved in bringing the fruit to market.

But there have been significant changes in packaging, tree management, and handling. Anderson can easily remember, for example, the days when apples were packed in barrels. That was later changed to baskets, and after that came cardboard boxes.

While apples have been graded according to size for years, the practice has become more refined. Today's apples are graded at intervals of each one-eighth inch of diameter.

Spraying is another major development which was unknown to fruit growers of previous generations. The Andersons are convinced that this development has aided them and others greatly in controlling diseases, insect pests, and mice.

The advent of dwarf and semi-dwarf trees brought about a turning point in the fruit industry in that picking became easier, and this in turn led to the opening of orchards to the public. The time was ripe for the "pick-it-yourself" approach. And it's been well accepted.

Aside from these industry-wide developments, the Anderson's Bel-View Farm has been directly involved in experimental work conducted by Penn State University. Some of the results changed spraying programs for a long time, claimed Anderson, a recipient of the "Honorary County Agent Award" in 1968.

The well-known fruit grower has also been active in clerking public sales and has been a member of the Pennsylvania State Legislature for the past 16 years.

The Andersons' home was built in 1866 and reflects all the grandeur and quality workmanship which was prevalent in those days. One of the more unusual features of the thick-walled brick home is that every bedroom has large walk-in closets — something which was seldom planned for in older houses.

WAYNE Calfnip and Calf-Mate

. . . medicated milk replacers

Wayne Calfnip and Calf-Mate are formulated to replace cow's milk, not merely substitute for milk. They look like milk when mixed with water for feeding, and because of careful formulation and high milk products content, Calfnip and Calf-Mate are highly digestible and palatable.

Wayne Calfnip is high in milk products with all milk protein. Antibiotic fortification as well as high vitamin levels give optimum growth and performance under stress conditions. High energy comes from 10% quality animal fat in dispersible form.

Calfnip gives:

- smooth, glossy hair coats
- growthy calves
- less digestive upset
- ease of feeding

And Wayne Calfnip saves two ways. It costs less and produces a good calf with substantial savings over whole milk feeding.

Wayne Calf-Mate provides milk products plus soy protein. Calf-Mate costs less than the all milk replacer Calfnip because of the use of this limited amount of soy protein. Calf-Mate is completely fortified with vitamins, antibiotics and minerals.

Only the highest quality ingredients are used in Wayne Milk Replacers. They contain nutrients that may not be adequately furnished by cow's milk yet are needed by calves.

Wayne Calfnip and Calf-Mate. Now you have a real choice!

Hay or pasture can't go it alone. Wayne Front Runner Horse Krunch is the total balancer, high in taste appeal. This feed adds the extra energy that your horses don't get from hay or pasture alone. It's a clean, easy-to-handle feed. The grains are crimped or cracked. Front Runner furnishes ample vitamins, minerals and protein. Pure cane molasses provide flavor that horses love.

Waynextra VMP granules

Waynextra VMP granules aids in improving or restoring the nutritional state of an animal that has been debilitated by stress, parasitism or infectious disease.
